Desperation Sparks New Tibetan Upsurge

DARJEELING, India (AP) — Desperation has driven Tibetans to new attacks on their Chinese Communist masters. As a result, there has been a recent upsurge of guerrilla fighting in many parts of Tibet.

Preliminary reports indicate there was a major popular uprising recently in Shigatse, one of Tibet's main cities, 135 miles west of the capital of Lhasa.

Battles occurred in several other places, and guerrillas have been conducting hit-and-run raids at widely separated points on the roof of the world. Many of the guerrillas have been forced into the hills by intolerable conditions in the towns and villages.

This picture was pieced together from numerous reports reaching this Indian mountain town 40 miles from Tibet. The reports came from sources proved accurate in the past, as well as from refugees driven out of Tibet by the recent fighting.

The Shigatse uprising is believed to have occurred after the Red Chinese had discovered anti-Communist activities among followers of the Panchen Lama.

The Panchen, revered in Tibet as second only to the self-exiled Dalai Lama, has been used as a Red Chinese stooge since the 1959 Lhasa uprising was crushed. But the Panchen Lama's followers refused to go along with him.

One unconfirmed report said some monks from the Panchen Lama's monastery there had turned against the Red Chinese in an open fight after they had been sent to attack other Tibetans.

The Panchen Lama himself reportedly is under palace arrest in Lhasa and is no longer trusted by the Communist Chinese.

One of the claimants to the Panchen's throne is reported to have escaped from a Red Chinese concentration camp near Lhasa and reached Bhutan, a buffer state between India and Tibet. Sources said the claimant, whose name was not disclosed, had been tortured by the Reds.

With most Tibetan military strong points wiped out, the guerrillas have returned to the pattern of attack they used when opposition to the Red Chinese occupation of Tibet first flared six years ago.

Resistance forces wait on lonely stretches of highway and engage unwary Communist Chinese truck convoys in short but intensive skirmishes before retreating.

The long-range success of these attacks is unknown, but similar tactics denied the Red Chinese use for several years of one highway they had built into Tibet. Since the Lhasa uprising, the guerrillas have been considerably weakened by Red Chinese counterattacks and depletion of supplies. They are therefore not expected to continue large-scale resistance indefinitely. Casualties have been extremely heavy.

The Red Chinese are continuing to strengthen their forces in Tibet. Most towns are reported to have garrisons of between 1,000 and 2,000 troops, with villages garrisoned by 25 to 50 men.

Herter Disgusted By Ill-Tempered Soviet Attacks

By JOE F. KANE

WASHINGTON (AP) —Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said Saturday he was disgusted with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's "ill-tempered" attacks on President Eisenhower. He accused the Soviet leader of trying to degrade international relations.

Herter said Khrushchev was using personal attempts at villification to confuse the issue of the Paris summit conference collapse.

Herter's statement was issued by the State Department as the U. S. response to cutting remarks by Khrushchev Friday during a Moscow news conference.

With one exception, there was no official U. S. comment Friday on Khrushchev's remarks. The White House branded as "absolutely untrue" a claim by the Soviet Premier that Eisenhower had told him last fall at Camp David that the United States did not want a unified Germany.

State Department officials said Saturday they presumed the White House was aware of Herter's statement which said: "All America, I am sure, shares the disgust I feel at the ill-tempered attacks emanating from Mr. Khrushchev.

Ike Hits Back

Khrushchev's Ravings Unite Western Allies

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

He said the Soviet Premier's "ill-tempered expressions" have forged a stronger Western alliance.

An apparent allusion to Khrushchev's recent rocket-rattling remarks, Eisenhower also declared: "No nation in this world dares attack the United States, and they know it."

Eisenhower left a 45th reunion dinner of his West Point classmates to speak briefly after another dinner — one given by the Rockland County Republican organization in honor of Rep. Katharine St. George (R-NY). Both affairs were held at the nearby Bear Mountain Inn.

Eisenhower surprised his GOP audience by taking his first public note of Khrushchev's personal attacks on him. The Kremlin leader Friday declared that Eisenhower is too dangerous a man to be president of the United States.

The Soviet Premier also has threatened that the Soviet Union will turn its rockets against any Allied base from which planes are launched for reconnaissance flights over the Soviet Union.

Eisenhower has ordered a halt to U2 spy plane flights over Soviet territory. That order came after the Russians had downed a U2 on May 1 and captured its pilot.

Saturday night, the President hit again at what he called Soviet secrecy. He got a big round of applause from about 1,500 GOP diners when he asserted the United States tries to penetrate Soviet secrecy, and "and in my opinion properly."

The President arrived at West Point from Washington Saturday afternoon. He went to the Republican dinner from his own class reunion wearing a yellow and

Boy Who Tends Blind Parents Gets New Room

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A little fellow who shoulders as much responsibility as 5-year-old Clarence Hathaway needs a room all his own, folks here decided. And Saturday they built him one.

Clarence missed out on much of the construction activity. He and his parents left their three-room cottage at nearby Stow about half an hour after carpenters arrived about 9 a.m. The family went to shop at suburban Cuyahoga Falls, and Clarence was to get some new clothes.

Harold Hathaway and his wife, Georgia, didn't go away just to avoid the hammer-pounding noise and confusion. Neither can see or hear. Clarence is their eyes and ears. And helping them shop is just one of the responsibilities he undertook at an age when other tots are having their noses wiped and shoe-strings tied by mother.

Clarence has been sleeping with his parents in the cottage's only bedroom, which, like the new one, opens off the living room. A kitchen and a closed-in porch where most of Clarence's toys are stored make up the rest of the house.

AMBASSADOR TO RETURN TO RECEIVE DEGREE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said Saturday Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson will return from Moscow around mid-June to receive an honorary degree.

Officials said that while Thompson is in the United States he also will stop in Washington for State Department consultations on U.S. relations with the Soviet Union.

The department declined to say where Thompson, a career diplomat, would get his degree, but it was understood that he would receive it from Harvard.

Authorities said that while Thompson's decision to return to America was not made until after the summit meeting, the proposed trip had been in the works before then and was not motivated by the worsening of U. S.-Soviet relations.

Mamie To Spend Second Week In Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mamie Eisenhower probably will spend another week in Walter Reed Army Hospital, her sister said Saturday.

It appears from this that she will not go to the Far East with President Eisenhower, who plans to leave on that trip Sunday, June 12.

Mrs. Eisenhower already has spent five days in the hospital for treatment of acute asthmatic bronchitis. She is reported to be progressing satisfactorily.

Her sister, Mrs. G. Gordon Moore, said the first lady expects to continue under treatment with antibiotics for a few more days and to stay in the hospital another week to get a good rest.

"She sounded real good," said Mrs. Moore, who returned Friday from a trip and spoke to Mrs. Eisenhower at the hospital by telephone.

They did not discuss the Far East trip, Mrs. Moore said, but she surmised that Mamie will not go.

Defense Center Plan Doomed

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — A plan to put the country's air defense command nerve center in an under-mountain stronghold apparently is doomed.

Gen. Laurence S. Kuter, chief of the North American Air Defense Command, is fighting virtually a lone battle to get approval for going ahead with the original program. Plans called for putting his combat headquarters in a deep underground location in Colorado, protected from immediate destruction by nuclear bomb or missile attack.

Cost estimates for the project had run as high as 175 million dollars.

Kuter, who recently made another trip to Washington on behalf of his effort, has said centralized control of the defense system is vital.

"This control system must have some protection against the first salvo of missiles, or we will truly have a one-shot war as far as air defense is concerned," he added.

Kuter has been pleading his case before congressional committees. But he now has little if any support from some top level quarters of the Air Force.

Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, told Congress earlier this spring, when asked about the NORAD underground headquarters, that "we do not intend to build it as of now."

On the other hand, Secretary of the Air Force Dudley C. Sharp indicated a few weeks earlier that the project merely had been suspended while new studies were being made.

Some Air Force officials indicated, when checked Saturday, that they believe the project has ended. But they said that no final, firm decision had been made.

Among the arguments presented for building the NORAD underground headquarters was that this would be doing no more than what had been done for the headquarters of the Strategic Air Command near Omaha and is being done in the case of part of the ICBM missile-launching site hardening program.

The NORAD installation would be similar to the SAC center and the Alternate Command Post which the Pentagon's high command would move under threat of attack.

Usually, budgetary reasons figure heavily in approval of rejection of major military projects. The estimates as high as 175 million dollars for the air defense underground command post would include construction and equipment. An initial fund of 10 million dollars was provided. Of this, between $500,000 and one million dollars has been used in building a road into the proposed site in the Cheyenne Mountains.

Red China Fires On Transport In Formosa Strait

By SPENCER MOOSA

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Action flared in Formosa Strait Saturday night. Chinese Communist guns on the mainland fired on a Nationalist transport carrying supplies to the offshore island outpost of Quemoy.

The Nationalist Defense Ministry here said more than 500 shells had been directed at the transport but that it returned to base without damage.

There was no immediate indication that the Communists fired at Quemoy itself, but this is the first time they have fired in the direction of the tiny islands on an even-numbered day since Nov. 2, 1958.

U.S. Protests Cuban Slander Campaign

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States protested Saturday that the regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro has mounted "an intense official campaign of slander" against this country.

The vigorous U.S. protest, citing nine specific cases of anti-Yankee acts, was handed to the Cuban Foreign Ministry in Havana by Daniel Braddock, minister-counselor of the U.S. Embassy.

Authorities here had small expectations that the U.S. note would have much effect on Castro. But they were hoping to set the record straight because of anti-U.S. propaganda now being spread by Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos on his current Latin-American travels, as well as by Castro's own utterances.

The U.S. move to complain officially was said to have been initiated before Friday's announcement by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev that he had accepted an invitation to visit Cuba. Officials said there was no connection.

But U.S. authorities were obviously concerned with the proposed Khrushchev visit as one more piece of evidence of Cuba's ties with the Communist bloc.

The U.S. note spoke of a Cuban tactic of seeking "to sow distrust and animosity" while claiming to seek friendship and understanding.

"An intense official campaign of slander like this does not promote the climate of economic cooperation and peaceful development which the people of the United States, like those of all this hemisphere, certainly seek," the U.S. note said.

About half of the nine-point protest, which was made public by the State Department, dealt with outstanding economic sores in deteriorating U.S.-Cuban relations.

Washington protested that despite the Castro regime's seizure of one-third or more of the estimated 900 million dollars worth of American-owned property in Cuba, not a single penny has been paid to the U.S. owners. It protested "in the strongest way (this) utter disregard for international and Cuban law."

The United States, in a strong note, had protested against an "intense official campaign of slander."

It added that an answer would be made to nine specific U.S. complaints in what it termed due time.

Daniel Braddock, U.S. Embassy-minister-counselor, delivered the American protest to the Cuban ministry shortly before noon, but the Cuban answer did not acknowledge receipt of the note.

The reply from the ministry of foreign relations said: "The government of Cuba rejects categorically affirmations which appeared in a press statement issued today in Washington and in due time will answer each one of the points contained in it."

Pope Prepares For Forthcoming Ecumenical Meet

By EUGENE LEVIN

By decree, the 78-year-old pontiff created 11 commissions to study matters to be discussed by the worldwide gathering of cardinals, archbishops, and bishops.

He established several secretariats to handle related problems.

One of the secretariats was specifically assigned the task of helping Protestants and Orthodox Christians "to follow the work of the council and to find more easily the path" to Christian unity.

The dates for the ecumenical council, the first to be held by the Roman Catholic church in almost a century, have not been announced. It is felt that two years of preparatory work will be needed.

Pope John's action gave new emphasis to his hope that the council will contribute toward the eventual restoration of unity of the world's Christian forces.

The decree was a motu proprio, a Vatican document issued "by one's own (the Pope's) impulse." It apparently drew a line between the question of Christian unity and the actual work of the ecumenical council.

In the decree, none of the 11 commissions preparing the council's work was listed as studying the question of Christian unity. Instead, dealings with Protestants and Orthodox Christians was left to the separate secretariat.

This was in line with statements by Vatican officials in the past that the council would not specifically take up the unity question. They said the council would demonstrate the vitality of the Roman Catholic Church and so serve as an invitation to unity.

EVEREST HIGHER THAN EVER

TOKYO (AP)—The Red Chinese who reported they topped Mt. Everest last month have calculated a higher elevation than ever before for the highest mountain. Peiping Radio said they figured it at 29,133 feet. For almost a century most maps have shown Everest's height as 29,002 feet, and some have had it 29,131. The Indian government recalculated it at 29,028 feet in 1954, with a 29-foot fluctuation for snow, and this has been accepted by the U.S. National Geographic Society.

Conductors Settle 15-Month Wage Dispute

CHICAGO (AP)—A 15-month wage dispute between the 17,000-member Order of Railway Conductors and Brakemen and the nation's railroads was settled Saturday on the 4 per cent boost formula of the engineers' arbitration award.

The conductors' agreement calls for a two per cent, or 5.146 cents an hour, increase in average basic wage rates effective July 1, this year. Another boost of the same amount will be applied March 1, 1961.

The pact incorporates a cost-of-living adjustment of 17 cents an hour into the basic pay but discontinues the cost-of-living escalator clause. The contract will expire Nov. 1, 1961.

Base pay for conductors, including the 17-cent cost-of-living allowance, under the contract which expired Nov. 1, 1959, ranged from $2.43 to $2.59 an hour.

Average annual earnings of passenger and freight conductors have been reported at about $9,770.

Theodore Short, spokesman for the Carriers' conference committees, said the settlement Saturday and Friday's arbitration award to the engineers do not affect the railroads' proposals for changes in work rules.

Short said the 10.3-cent boost for conductors will increase annual labor cost for railroads almost seven million dollars a year. He said application of the 4 per cent pattern to all classes of railroad employes would boost carriers' cost by nearly 200 millions annually.

He said the higher pay will have to come from elimination of waste under current work rules or from increased tariffs and a decrease in the number of jobs.

The conductors on March 2, 1959, demanded a 12 per cent increase in wages and continuance of the cost-of-living escalator clause.

Directed negotiations failed, and both parties requested the National Railway Mediation Board to mediate the dispute on Sept. 24, 1959.

Nikita's Attacks May Cause Reaction

Trying To Embarrass Eisenhower

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — One result of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's violent attacks on President Eisenhower is to increase the prospect of hostile demonstrations against the President on his Far Eastern tour.

U.S. officials have concluded that Khrushchev intends to do everything he can to harass and embarrass the President and try to destroy the image of Eisenhower as an effective leader and champion of peace.

They said the idea of stirring up trouble to mar the President's tour must be considered too tempting for Khrushchev to overlook.

Eisenhower plans to leave a week from Sunday on a trip to the Philippines, Formosa, Japan, Korea and Okinawa, as well as the new states of Alaska and Hawaii.

The White House has taken no official note of Khrushchev's personal remarks about Eisenhower, but Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said Saturday he is sure all Americans share "the disgust I feel at the ill-tempered attacks."

Herter said in a statement that Khrushchev is "seeking to divest himself of the responsibility — known to all the world—for the disruption of the Paris summit conference."

In Japan, where the impending trip already has drawn angry and determined Socialist opposition, Communist elements now are expected to do everything they can to make Eisenhower's appearances there as unpleasant as possible for him and his Japanese government hosts.

U.S. officials also consider it entirely possible that about the time the President goes to Formosa the Chinese Communists will make a show of military strength in the Formosa Strait. To do so they have only to open up heavy bombardment once more of the Chinese Nationalist Quemoy and Matsu islands near the Red mainland.

It is a measure of the radical change in the international climate since the summit collapse that little more than six months ago Communists joined in welcoming Eisenhower at many places when he toured Europe, Asia and North Africa. But that was in the presummit era of East-West good feeling.

Some support for this idea came Saturday when the Reds fired more than 500 shells toward the Quemoy Islands—their apparent target a Nationalist transport carrying supplies. Dispatches from Taipei said the action was regarded there as a possible curtain-raiser to a new crisis in the Formosa Strait.

Several reasons are seen here for Khrushchev's all-out attack on the President in the aftermath of the summit breakdown.

One of them, advanced by most officials, is that Khrushchev feels he must justify before world opinion his decision not to go on with the Paris summit conference because of the spy-plane incident.

State Department officials say their studies of press reaction in Allied and neutral countries so far has shown that Khrushchev is most generally held responsible for the summit failure.

They attribute this in part to the kind of language he used at Paris and since then in talking about Eisenhower. They assert that Eisenhower's popularity in the non-Communist world is still high, although there has been criticism of his decision to take personal responsibility for spy flights over Soviet territory.

Another factor in Khrushchev's anti-Eisenhower campaign is believed to be a desire on his part to justify inside the Soviet Union his

Johnson Backers Claim Tennessee, Kentucky Votes

WASHINGTON (AP)— Supporters of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas staked claim Saturday to the 64 votes of Tennessee and Kentucky at the Democratic presidential nomination convention.

The appointment of Govs. Bert T. Combs of Kentucky and Buford Ellington of Tennessee as vice chairmen of the Citizens-for-Johnson National Committee was announced by Oscar Chapman, chairman of the Johnson headquarters that opened here last week.

Chapman, former secretary of interior in President Harry S. Truman's administration, also announced similar appointments of William C. Doherty, veteran labor union official, and John P. McGrath and Edwin L. Weisl of New York City.

Combs will lead a 31-vote Kentucky delegation to the Los Angeles convention next month with most of them expected to line up for Johnson. Combs is a political ally of former Sen. and Gov. Earle C. Clements, now Kentucky state highway commissioner.

Clements served as Democratic Senate whip here under Johnson. And when Clements was defeated for re-election he worked here closely with the Senate majority leader.

Ellington will lead a 33-vote Tennessee delegation which is expected to operate under the unit rule for Johnson.

POLICE CAPTURE CHERYL CRANE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lana Turner's 16-year-old wayward daughter, Cheryl Crane, ran away from a country home for girls Friday night and was found Saturday—hiding in a park restroom.

She and two other runaways from the school had spent most of their eight hours of freedom joyriding with three unidentified young men, police quoted them as saying. The young men let them out of their car early Saturday in Beverly Hills, where they were found by police.

Longshoremen End Strike At Four Ports

CHICAGO (AP)—Longshoremen at four Great Lakes ports will return to their jobs Sunday, ending a 20-day strike that tied up millions of dollars of merchandise.

Irving Friedmann, attorney for the International Longshoremen's Assn., said the strike officially ended Saturday when Milwaukee stevedoring employers agreed to terms approved earlier in the day by ILA members and employers at Chicago, Cleveland, Buffio and Duluth, Minn.

Agreement with the four ports was reached after a 14-hour session that ended at 3 a.m. Saturday, when Milwaukee employers were not present. The agreement providess a package of pay raises and fringe benefits ranging from 40 to 69 cents an hour in the five ports.

Duluth was the only one of the five cities where dock workers continued work under an extension of a contract that expired May 16.

The settlement is subject to ratification by the union members.

at a sixth port, Toledo, Ohio.

KHRUSHCHEV SHOULD LIKE GOLF

HEXHAM, England (AP)—The world would be a much happier place if Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev played golf, a British legislator said Saturday. Conservative Rupert Spier, a golfer, took a swing at Khrushchev for making fun of President Eisenhower's love for the game.

"The rattle of golf clubs is far less frightening than the rattle of missiles, and if only Mr. Khrushchev would learn to play golf like President Eisenhower, the world would be a happier and peaceful place," Spier told a party meeting here.

Ten Finalists Seek Miss Illinois Title

MOUNT VERNON, Ill. (AP)—Vicky Joyce Nutter, 17, a 1960 graduate of Vandalia High School, tonight was named Miss Illinois. She is 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighs 128 pounds and is a blue-eyed blonde.

Four of the finalists are 18-year-old high school graduates. There were two 17-year-old finalists and two 19-year-old girls selected by a panel of judges.

One finalist is 20 and another is 23.

Later Saturday night one of the 10 will be named Miss Illinois and represent the state in Miss America competition at Atlantic City, N.J., next fall.

Seventeen-year-old girls advancing to the finals are Miss Tazewell County, Joan Helen Roland, 512 E. Washington, Morton, and Miss Vandalia, Vicky Joyce Nutter.

Girls age 19 are Miss Carbondale, Jane Marie Crusius of El Paso, Ill., a student at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale and Miss Aurora, Patricia Lee Anderson, 339 S. Western Ave.

Completing the list of finalists are Miss Granite City, 20-year-old Beverly Ann Blaylock of 3214 Wabash, and Miss Belmont, Elsie Jane Macinek of 3521 Natchez, Chicago.

Personality and poise also played a part in the judging. The girls met the judges face-to-face earlier Saturday in a formal garden party as a test of their social aptitude.

Centennial Observances To Mark Founding Of Augustana Church

CLINTON, Wis. (AP)—A congregation of up to 1,000 persons, led by officials of American and Swedish Lutheranism, will gather in a rural church yard Sunday to mark the centennial of the Augustana Lutheran Church.

The service will be held around a monument at the edge of a cemetery south of Clinton near the Illinois-Wisconsin line.

The monument marks a spot where 100 years ago Sunday 40 Scandinavian pastors and laymen signed a constitution and formed the Augustana Church, with 62 congregations and some 5,000 members.

The church which opens its centennial synod in Rock Island, Ill., Monday night is now the fifth largest Lutheran body in North America with 600,000 members in 1,248 congregations. On Wednesday the convention may take the first steps toward ending the church in its present form.

Delegates will vote on the question of whether to merge with three other Lutheran bodies to form the Lutheran Church in America.

A caravan led by Augustana's president, Dr. Malvin H. Lundeen; Archbishop Gunnar Hultgren, primate of the Church of Sweden, and Dr. Frederik Shiotz, president of the newly formed American Lutheran Church, will move from Rockford, Ill., to Clinton for the centennial service.

Also leading the pilgrimage will be Dr. P. O. Bersell, president emeritus of the Augustana Church, and the church's Executive Council—leaders of its 13 conferences or districts.

A small Norwegian church which was the setting for the formation of the Augustana group has since disappeared from the community known as Jefferson Prairie, seven miles east of Beloit. A newer church a block from the original site stands white against green fields and pine trees.

Only in the event of heavy rain Sunday do centennial officials plan to move the service from around the monument, where the Augustana church was organized, into the nearby edifice.

The general synod opening Monday night will be held at Augustana College, organized at the same time and place as the church itself. The church will be the first of the four bodies contemplating merger to put the question to a synod vote.

The three other groups are the United Lutheran Church in America, American Evangelical Lutheran Church and the Finnish Evangelical Lutheran Church. Should all approve the proposed constitution, the new church would come into being in 1962 or 1963.

RELAX WHILE IN FRONT

LAWRENCE, Kans. — (AP) — Charlie Tidwell, Kansas sprint ace, has a three-point formula for relaxing.

(1) Get loose. (2) Don't think about the competition. Think about yourself and concentrate on the gun. (3) Listen to the starter a couple of times before the race to see what sort he is.

Tidwell explains, "As a sophomore I ran the race 1,000 times ahead of time. When I got to the race I was dead tired. You can't record for the one-turn 220 low hurdles, admits there is an easy way to relax. Stay in front.

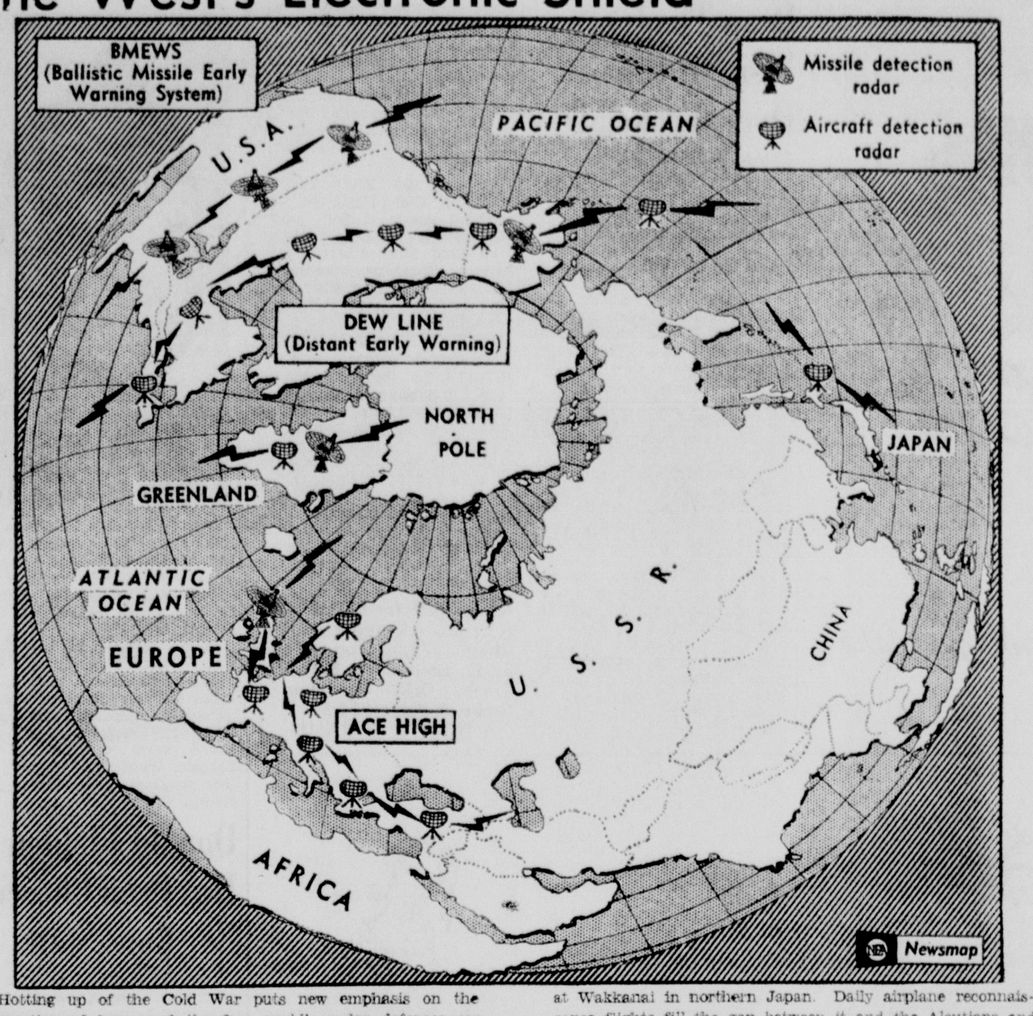
The West's Electronic Shield—



Hotting up of the Cold War puts new emphasis on the question of how good the free world's radar defenses are against either aerial attack or espionage. Since bombers have not yet been outmoded by missiles, the long-established DEW line (see Newsmap) is still an important part of the system. Due to be connected with it is the ACE HIGH line running through western Europe, which is about half completed. A separate outpost is the radar station at Wakkanai in northern Japan. Daily airplane reconnaissance flights fill the gap between it and the Aleutians and also down to southern China. Working toward completion of a tight ballistic missile warning system, three stations are under construction in Alaska, Greenland and England. When ready, and tied in with BMEWS, the northern approaches to America will be shielded by an even more effective radar screen.

MATH PAYS OFF

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Napoleon B. Williams Jr., 18, likes leafing through advanced math textbooks just as some folks enjoy reading novels.

Now, the Negro high school senior's love for mathematics has brought him a $2,500-a-year scholarship to Harvard.

Williams won the scholarship by scoring a phenomenal 800 out of a possible 800 points on advanced mathematics in his College Board entrance examination.

"It means he already has the equivalent of a college education in mathematics," says William F. Kirsch, Memphis attorney and member of the Harvard admissions committee which recommended Williams for the scholarship.

Harry Rawlings Flies Copter To Injured GI

A former Jacksonville man, Capt. Harry E. Rawlings, 31, piloted a helicopter the latter part of May in a rescue from a high Costa Rican mountain peak of an injured soldier.

Rawlings picked up Private First Class Clifford W. Brandt, attached to the 551 Engineer Survey Platoon, who suffered an axe cut on his foot while chopping his way through heavy growth near the Continental Divide. The Platoon was engaged in a joint mapping project for the United States and Republic of Panama.

The day before the actual rescue an unsuccessful attempt was made to reach the injured soldier. Due to heavy fog and other conditions at the 10,000 foot altitude the venture was not completed.

The injured man's condition is reported as good.

Rawlings has been in service since October of 1951. He is a Routt High School graduate and former machinist for Caterpillar Tractor company in East Peoria. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rawlings, Franklin route one.

He is married to the former Jo-Ann Marcy of Pekin.

Brides-Elect Plan Weddings

Bonnie Marie Harris

Mr. and Mrs. Almer Harris of Ypsilanti, Michigan, have announced the engagement and July wedding plans of their daughter, Bonnie Marie, and Gary D. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin D. Moore, 937 East College avenue, Jacksonville.

Mr. Moore graduated in 1956 from Jacksonville High School.

Mr. Moore is employed at Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Sharon Wooldridge

Mr. and Mrs. Hal Miller, 2015½ South Sixth street, Springfield, Illinois, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Miss Sharon Wooldridge of Chicago, to Charles Gordon Ermisch. Mr. Ermisch is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Ermisch, West Chicago, Illinois.

Sharon graduated from Jacksonville High School in 1957. She has been employed and made her home in Chicago since that time.

Mr. Ermisch graduated in 1957 from West Chicago Community High School and attended Western Illinois University at Macomb.

The wedding will be solemnized June 25th at the Epiphany Evangelical Lutheran church in Elmhurst, Illinois. A reception will follow the ceremony in the American Legion Hall, Wheaton, Illinois.

Horton-Meyer Nuptials At Trinity June 4

Miss Johanna Meyer and George William Horton, Jr. were united in marriage Saturday morning, June 4, in an impressive ceremony at Trinity Episcopal church performed by Rector Reginald M. Harris before a large gathering of family members and friends. Pastoral prayer was offered by Dr. Raymond F. McCallister, minister of Webster Groves, Mo. Christian church where the bride's family are members.

The former Miss Meyer is the daughter of the Walter B. Meyers' of Glendale, Mo. and granddaughter of R. L. Dumas of Jacksonville and the late Emma Dumas.

Mr. Horton is the son of Professor and Mrs. George W. Horton, 316 Gladstone, Jacksonville.

White flowers were used at the church altar. Mrs. Ruth M. Bellatti presided at the organ during the nuptial prelude which included "Chorale," Bach and "Adagio in E Major," Bridge-Dupre. The processional was "Come, My Way, My Truth, My Life," Ralph Vaughn Williams. During the service Mrs. Bellatti softly played "Come Down, O Love Divine" and for the recessional "Crown Imperial," William Walton, was played.

The bride's sister, Miss Judith Ellen Meyer of Glendale, and Lieutenant Edward R. Horton, Jacksonville, Fla., brother of the bridegroom, served as the couple's attendants.

Given In Marriage

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a lovely wedding dress, designed and made by her cousin, Mrs. Edward L. Rule, nee Lois Stewart, for her own wedding.

Of imported Chantilly on bridal satin the full skirt from pinched waistline falls in deep scallops over a wide satin underskirt all worn over hoops. The snug bodice has long tapering sleeves and a net yoke fills in the portrait neckline with the lace scallop finish scallops edged in seed pearls. Tiny lace covered buttons extended down the back of the bodice.

The bride's veil of silk illusion from a bandeau headdress of flat satin bows. She carried an arm bouquet of white Shasta daisies with touches of greenery.

The bride's mother wore blue linen and lace with bone white accessories. Her flowers were white on yellow carnations. Mrs. Horton, mother of the bridegroom, wore bone lace over linen with matching accessories. Her flowers were also yellow and white carnations.

Reception On MacMurray Campus

A reception was held at 11 o'clock in Ann Rutledge Lounge, MacMurray College campus. Robert Glasgow presented a carillion musicale as the guests arrived. Yellow and white were used in decorating the serving table. Guests were served cake, with fruit punch or coffee, nutmeats and mints.

Assisting with the serving were Mrs. Edward L. Rule, cousin of the bride; Mrs. Edward R. Horton, the former Charlotte Dietz, sister-in-law of the bridegroom.

Bill Lucas, DeKalb Girl United In Ceremony There

A former Jacksonville man, William (Bill) Lucas, son of the William Lucas', 903 West Chambers street, and Miss Joan Rich of DeKalb were united in marriage Saturday, May 28th, in that city.

The mid-morning ceremony was performed at St. Paul's Episcopal church. The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Chester L. Rich of Mt. Vernon, Iowa.

Dr. Rich escorted his daughter who wore a white satin gown with Chantilly lace bodice and overskirt. It was detailed with sweetheart neckline and wrist length sleeves.

Her elbow length veil was held in place by a tiara of white roses and valley lily. She carried a cascade bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis on a prayer book.

Attendants were Miss Patricia Paul, maid of honor and Miss Mildred Olson and Miss Patricia Blake, bridesmaids.

Receive 300 Guests

A reception for three hundred guests was held in the church's Guild Hall. The wedding cake was decorated with touches of green and Shasta daisy pompoms added to the decor.

Dr. Margaret Duncan was at the guest book and Marie Wilson took charge of gifts. Adrienne Jacobson, Veronica Bogle, Ruth Schauer, JoAnn Japuntich and Juanita Schroeder assisted with the serving.

2 Months On West Coast

The couple will leave June 10 for an eight week trip to the West Coast. Upon their return Aug. 1 they will reside at 235 Normal Road, DeKalb, Ill.

The bride graduated from Cornell College and has her master of arts degree from University of Iowa. She is an instructor at Northern Illinois University.

Mr. Lucas, a graduate of Illinois College, Jacksonville, received his master of science degree from Northern Illinois University. He is on the faculty at DeKalb High School.

Guests attended the wedding and reception from Jacksonville, Chicago and Champaign, Ill.; Mt. Vernon, Cedar Rapids, Iowa City, Iowa and Medford, Mass. and Janesville, Wis.

$133,000 Church Annex Planned At Jerseyville

JERSEYVILLE— Contract for the erection of an educational addition to the First Presbyterian church of Jerseyville was signed by the trustees of the church, John G. Flautt, chairman, John W. Suddes, vice chairman and Mrs. Clarence Schmidt, secretary. The contract was awarded to J. J. Wuellner & Son of Alton for $133,685.

The contract also called for some remodeling of the present basement of the church, and work will begin in about two weeks.

The educational addition, to be attached to the south and west of the present structure, will be built of haydite block and steel of fireproof construction, with the exterior of Winona stone, which comes as close to matching the present Grafton stone in the building as any stone quarry in the United States.

The interior will include a new church office and pastor's study, a dining room capable of seating 250 people, a new kitchen, choir robing room and class rooms for adult and children's Sunday school departments.

The building was designed by Froese, Maack and Becker, architects of St. Louis. The contract was awarded to J. J. Wuellner and Son of Alton at a cost of $133,685.00.

A financial campaign had been conducted by the church last September under direction of Charles S. White, chairman of the campaign committee and the finance committee, John G. Flatt, chairman, Lee Manning, treasurer of the building fund, with William MacMillan of Alton as director. A total of over $123,000 was raised.

New Post Office At Alexander Is Now In Operation

ALEXANDER— Postmaster W. T. Keenan and his assistant, Mrs. May Colwell, have completed the move into the new post office at Alexander and are justly proud of the new building.

Continue Search For Jerseyville Jail Escapees

JERSEYVILLE — Efforts were continuing Thursday to apprehend the two prisoners who escaped from the Jersey county jail Monday evening and a confederate who is believed to have aided in the jail delivery.

The two prisoners, Fred Eugene Dick of Wood River and James Elledge of Hartford, are reported to have been at Fieldon, Ill., shortly after their escape from the county jail in Jerseyville. A third party is known to have been with the two at that place and was furnishing transportation for the escapees.

Dick was being held on charges of burglary and larceny for his participation in the burglarizing of the Fieldon Telephone Company the night of May 19th. A preliminary hearing in the case had been set for June 3rd, at 11 a.m. and Dick's bonds had been fixed at $2000 in the burglary matter and $2000 in the larceny.

Harold Driscoll, 18, of the Alton vicinity was implicated in the Fieldon telephone break-in along with a fourteen year old Madison county boy. Driscoll was unable to furnish bond and is being held for hearing. His hearing had also been set for June 3rd but has been continued for another week pending the outcome for the search for Dick.

When the jail delivery was made, Driscoll refused to join Dick and Elledge and was locked by them and their confederate in an inner cell. The outer doors of the cell block were then relocked as they had been and the prisoners and their confederate left through the usual exits.

Future Homemakers Stage Style Show

The Chapin Chapter of Future Homemakers of America assembled for their final event of the year, Thursday, May 27. Following the welcome by Carolyn Ragan the program began with a style show. All girls who had made garments modeled them before the audience.

Martha Vincent and Phyllis Wilder were the announcers. Music was provided by Janet Schumacher and Shirley Fricke. Twenty-nine girls participated.

Sorority Chapter Gets Appreciation Response From Guests

The May business meeting for the Jacksonville Chapter of Alpha Iota was held at the Dunlap Hotel. The invocation before the dinner was offered by Betty Hembrough. Tables were decked with lovely floral arrangements.

The president, Paula Hudson, presided. The treasurer's report was made and Marge Enke gave the financial statement as of May 1, 1960.

The June committee asked for suggestions in order to complete their plans. Mary Bentena and her committee were recognized for the fine Mother-Daughter banquet they were responsible for arranging.

After hearing the report of the finance committee the monthly award was made with Mary Bentena the lucky recipient. There will be a rummage sale June 17 and 18 sponsored by the chapter.

An election of officers was carried out by the nominating committee. Results were not immediately available, as all voting members were not present.

Dorothy Crabtree reported on the business meeting at the Conclave. It was the decision of the Grand Office that the four state group be known as the Quad State Regional Association.

The month merit report was reviewed by Irene Mitchell. The closing ceremony was conducted by Paula Hudson. Present were Mary Bentena, Donna Burrus, Margaret Carrigan, Helen Cole, Dorothy Crabtree, Doris DeShara, Jean Marie Engle.

Marge Enke, Betty Freitz, Frances Guimann, Elizabeth Hardy, Betty Hembrough, Paula Hudson, Martha Lorton, Barbara Lutz, Dixie Little, Irene Mitchell.

National Honor For Miss Duncan, Former Resident

Miss Esther S. Duncan, former Jacksonville resident and graduate of Illinois College and the Conservatory of Music and supervisor of the music department at Lanphier High School, Springfield, has been recognized by the Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge for her exceptional classroom work in behalf of responsible, patriotic citizenship and the American way of life.

She has been presented a Valley Forge Classroom Teachers' Medal and received greetings from the trustees, directors and officers of the Freedom Foundation.

In the communication to Miss Duncan from the president of the Foundation, Dr. Kenneth D. Wells, the letter stated, "By virtue of your selection, Freedoms Foundation is delighted to bestow this proper recognition on you for your outstanding service beyond the call of duty in helping our young people to a better understanding and knowledge of their rights and responsibilities in this land of God and Freedom."

Miss Duncan is the sister of Mrs. Meda D. Jenkinson of Jacksonville and visits here often. She is director of the First Christian church choir, Springfield, member of the Altrusa Club of Springfield and immediate Past President of Illinois Music Directors Association.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower is the honorary chairman of the Foundation for National School Awards Program. The recipients are from the multi-thousands of nominations submitted each year.

Teachers Society Marks 10th Birthday

The Alpha Phi chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma society celebrated the tenth anniversary of the organization with a picnic supper at the home of Ruth Gustafson in Virginia Wednesday evening, June 1st.

Margaret Fay Hopper, program chairman, reviewed the history of the Chapter giving highlights of each year and tracing the growth of the Chapter from the 12 charter members to its present roster of 37.

During the evening new officers, to serve for two years, were installed: president, Bernice Rutherford, Waverly; first vice president, Mildred Blank, Beardstown; second vice president, Isabelle Krems, Bluffs.

Recording secretary, Delilah Newell, Jacksonville; corresponding secretary, Barbara Rogers, Jacksonville; treasurer, Esther Barker, Jacksonville and parliamentarian, Alice Lou Schnake, Beardstown.

Retiring officers, who conducted the installation, were: Alice Lou Schnake, president; Violet Auwarter, first vice president; Bernice Rutherford, second vice president; Maude Gilham, recording secretary.

The new president, Bernice Rutherford, announced her committees for the year. Lucille Hageman presented a past president's pin to Alice Lou Schnake for a brief expression of gratitude for her services to the Chapter. During the evening group singing was led by Mildred Basey, music chairman.

Members of this organization include teachers from the three counties of Cass, Morgan and Scott. The 12 charter members were initiated by the Lambda chapter in Springfield exactly ten years ago on June 1st. Delta Kappa Gamma is now an international orgainzation for women educators.

Janet Edwards Will Teach In Greene-Jersey

JERSEYVILLE—Miss Janet Edwards of Jerseyville who will be graduated this month from MacMurray College in Jacksonville, is one of three new teachers who have been employed by the Board of Education of Community Unit District No. 100, Jersey and Greene county for the coming term.

Miss Edwards, who is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Dwight Edwards of Jerseyville, majored in Public School Music at MacMurray. She is a graduate of the local high school and has been prominent in music events in the community. She succeeds Miss Millicent McCauley who has resigned after teaching vocal music the past year in several of the attendance centers in the district.

Mrs. Georgia M. Weishaar of Golden Eagle, who has been teaching at Brussels, Ill., will teach in District No. 100 on the elementary level. Mrs. Weishaar will receive a Bachelor degree from McKendree College in Lebanon at the end of the fall semester.

The third new teacher employed by the local board is Mrs. Martha Dehner of Godfrey, rural route who is presently enrolled at the Alton Residence Center of Southern Illinois University. She will also teach on the elementary level.

Two new custodians have also been employed by the board. Randolph B. Jett of Jerseyville has begun his work as custodian at the East Elementary school in Jerseyville. He succeeds Albert Sackman who resigned recently and is working as custodian of the Jersey county court house. Jett was formerly employed by the Jerseyville Water Department.

Synodical Guests

Mrs. Henry Jones

Miss Emily Gibbes

Among the many special guests at the annual assembly of the Illinois Synodical Society of United Presbyterian church, U.S.A. to be held in this city this week are Mrs. Henry Jones and Miss Emily Gibbes, both of whom will have parts in the program.

The Synodical will meet simultaneously with the Illinois Synod June 7-10. Previous announcement erroneously listed opening date as June 6th. The 300 attending will not arrive in the city until Tuesday, the 7th.

Mrs. Jones is from Osaka, Japan. Her husband, Rev. Henry Jones is from Chicago and has been related to the committee of Church of Christ in Japan as fraternal worker in the field of industrial evangelism. Mrs. Jones has handled much of the secretarial and correspondence for the program. She is from Dubuque, Iowa.

Miss Gibbes is National Secretary of Women's Department, Board of Christian Education, United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A. A graduate of Hunter College, New York, she holds an M.A. degree in religious education from New York University and is a world traveler participating in leadership training among women in 15 countries.

The holding of the Synod and Synodical Assemblies in Jacksonville will afford the community an opportunity to obtain a larger view of the total life of the church. The people of Jacksonville are invited to take full advantage of this opportunity.

Workshops and interest groups are being held on Evangelism, Retreats, Family Worships, Church Family Nights, Circle Programming, Conducting Elections, Nominating Committees, Social Education and Action and Treasurers.

Missionary From Malaya Talks To Grace WSCS

Mrs. Mary Esther Wohl, missionary from Malaya, was introduced by Mrs. A. B. Applebee at the meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Grace church Wednesday, June 1, in the social room of the church.

Mrs. Wohl, assisted by her husband, illustrated her talk on her work in Malaya with slides and a display of articles from that country.

The pastor, Dr. Frank Marston, gave the invocation. A favorite salad luncheon was served.

Following the luncheon, the new president, Mrs. Harold Hembrough called the meeting to order. After the opening prayer, the group sang "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," with Mrs. Gail Gilbert at the piano.

In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Webster Seymour, the minutes were read by Mrs. John M. Marshall, and approved as read. Mrs. Paul Rhodes gave the treasurer's report which was accepted and placed in the file for audit. Routine business included a vote to cancel the July meeting, a board meeting with date to be announced and bazaar date Nov. 30.

Mrs. B. A. Bollman spoke about the Mission school to be held June 20-24, and urged the women to attend. She had a book of poems, written by Mrs. J. W. Ledford, which was to be given to the church library.

The women were urged to remember June 12 as the date set for the basket supper, at 6 p.m. at the church, honoring Dr. and Mrs. Marston. Everyone is to bring sandwiches, two other dishes of food and their own table service. Beverage will be furnished.

Mrs. C. G. Eggenberger, program chairman, thanked all who helped during the past year, and introduced Mrs. Applebee, who was responsible for the devotional leader and program.

Msr. Peter Kittle of White Hall, a jurisdiction officer, opened the devotions with the singing of "Breathe on Me Breath of God," and used the chapter "For Their Sake" from the book "Christ in the Upper Room." The devotions closed with prayer.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

by DON SHUMAKER

Occasionally a top TV performer will let his audience in on the "secret" that his TV name is not the name he was born with. Garry Moore, for one, makes no bones about his real name being Thomas Garrison Morfit. But he's not the only one, there are many more who decided a change of names would benefit their careers.

Many made only minor changes. Loretta Young, for instance, changed only her first name, "Gretchen." Others, Ralph Meeker, for example, kept the first name and replaced the last, in Meeker's case "Rathgeber." Some merely shortened long last names, as did Milton (Berlinger) Berle. Those who changed names completely include Boris Karloff (William Henry Pratt).

But one of the oddest changes happened to Stewart Granger. He was forced to take on his present name, not because his real one was too long or hard to pronounce, but because another pretty fair actor was already using it . . . James Stewart. "The most trusted name in TV," RCA Victor, is being used on the finest in TV sets. Take, for example, RCA's exclusive new Hillsborough. First, it's a full-size 21" TV. Then at a touch it's a beautiful decorator table. To see this truly hideaway TV and other fine RCA sets, come in soon. SHUMAKER TV AND APPLIANCES, 222 East State. Phone 5-6595.

Brooklyn WSCS Entertained At Bond Residence

Mrs. Irene Bond was hostess Wednesday afternoon to the Brooklyn church Women's Society of Christian Service, with 18 members answering roll call. The society had three guests.

Mrs. Raymond Ranson led the devotions and program, entitled "Set Apart For Me," reading Scriptures from Matthew and Romans.

Singing of the hymn "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" was led by Mrs. Bond, after which the group repeated the 23rd Psalm. Mrs. Ranson read a letter from a missionary.

Mrs. Charles Huffman, president, was in charge of the business session. A budget for the year was adopted.

Announcement was made by Mrs. Noel Leitze that a district training school will be held July 15 and 16 at Winchester and Rushville.

A report of cards and gifts sent to shut-ins was made by Mrs. Martha Stone. The program closed with prayer.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Irene Bond, Mrs. Martha Stone, and Mrs. Victor Sheppard.

MAYBE NEXT YEAR

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—Mrs. Stella E. Phipps, an 84-year-old grandmother, figured she might have won the Wyoming eliminations for the Mrs. America contest. She entered the contest but dropped out shortly before the event.

Her reason?

"It is my duty to take care of my husband, who is 90," she explained. "If I feel any younger next year, I might enter the contest then."

Ministerial Group Elects Officers

At a meeting of Jacksonville ministers last Tuesday, the following were elected to office for the coming year: Rev. Edward Anderson, president; Rev. Darwin Clupper, secretary-treasurer; Rev. K. J. Siddall, vice president. Outgoing officers, who were thanked for work and service the past year were: Rev. Clarence Bixler, president; Rev. Edward Anderson, secretary-treasurer, and Rev. Lando Eitzen, vice president.

At a meeting of the executive committee held later, Delbert Thies was named publicity chairman, and Lando Eitzen was appointed to arrange for recreation and fellowship at the next meeting of the association July 5. Families are invited to this gathering, with a family-type picnic planned for the evening.

An evaluation was made of past programs, and suggestions and plans discussed by the group for the coming year. It is hoped that the group can visit several industrial plants this fall and winter.

The meeting place will probably rotate from church to church for business meetings of the association. The host for this meeting at the state hospital was Chaplain Clupper.

With the exception of minerals and metals, Florida could almost be self-sufficient. Its farms, ranches and fishing resources supply almost all other needs. And its tourist attractions supply money for everything else.

RECEIVES ALUMNA-OF-YEAR AWARD

Mrs. Letta Irwin Shonle of Indianapolis is being congratulated here by President Norris after receiving the Alumna-of-the-Year award Saturday at the alumnae dinner in McClelland. A graduate of the class of 1914, Mrs. Shonle also was installed as one of three new trustees at the Friday afternoon board meeting.

Foster Family Picnic Set For Jacksonville

The second annual foster family picnic, sponsored by Region IV, Child Welfare Services of the Illinois Department of Public Welfare, will be held at the Illinois Braille and Sight-Saving School in this city on Sunday, June 12. Invitations have been issued to 125 families residing in the 15 county area served by this region.

Foster families who care for children who are supervised by the region will be honored guests at this event, with their own children and foster children in their care.

Awards will be presented to foster parents who have had foster children in their homes over five years by C. H. Winkling, deputy director of the Illinois Department of Public Welfare.

William Sanders, Region IV director, will welcome the families and be master of ceremonies of the day's events.

Following a potluck picnic, Leo J. Flood, superintendent of the Illinois Braille and Sight-Saving School, will conduct a tour of the state facility for the adults interested. Games and recreation for the children and adults will follow presentation of awards.

Donations of candy, cold drinks, ice cream, and prizes for the children, have been donated by Jacksonville and Springfield firms. Approximately 250 are expected to attend from the 15 county area.

Wounded Man Will Undergo Mental Tests

Forman Jackson, 78, who had been held in the Greene county jail at Carrollton after a shotgun assault and an attempted suicide early Thursday morning, has been removed to the Jacksonville State hospital for observation.

Sheriff Leonard Stone of Greene county said Jackson will probably be at the hospital 30 days for mental tests. Should he be found sane, charges will be brought against him in connection with the wounding of niece by marriage, Mrs. Betty Jackson of Modesto.

Mrs. Jackson was struck but not seriously hurt by a shotgun blast Thursday morning while sitting in her car at the junction of U.S. Route 67 and the Scottville gravel road. Forman Jackson then went to his home near Rockbridge where he shot himself in the head. He has improved considerably from the wound, permitting his removal to the state institution.

It was Disraeli who noted that "assassination has never changed the history of the world."

Catholic Daughters Hold Meeting At K Of C Hall

The Catholic Daughters of America, Court of Our Saviour's 1265, held the last business meeting of the current year on June 2 at the K of C Hall. Mrs. Edward Brennan called the meeting to order.

Mrs. Walter Gilmore, chairman, gave the financial report of the social committee for the previous year and presented to the court the gifts of a silver coffee and tea service and two lace table cloths. These gifts were made possible through projects carried out by the social committee.

Mrs. John Corrigan reported the successful conclusion of the bridge marathon for the year. Several more couples are needed to complete five marathons consisting of twelve teams each. Anyone wishing to play should contact Mrs. James Ring.

Miss Kathleen Curtis, honor graduate of Routt high school was named recipient of the $50 scholarship.

Mrs. George Pohlman, district deputy, Carrollton, assisted by Mrs. Bessie Schnelton, also of Carrollton, presided at the installation of new officers.

Plans were made for the members to attend the opera "Rosalie" on July 28. Reservations may be made with Mrs. T. J. Doyle.

The committee named for the various projects for the K of C Burgoo, July 16, are: cake, Mrs. William Wallbaum, chairman; Mrs. Charles Cobb, co-chairman; soup, Miss Lillian Joyce, chairman; California hamburgers, Mrs. Charles Henry, chairman; dining room, Mrs. Bernard Ring and Mrs. T. REPRESENTS CLASS OF 1890

One of MacMurray's oldest alumna, Mrs. Annetta Blackburn Scott of Jacksonville, left, was present commencement weekend to observe the 70th reunion of the class of 1890. She is pictured here with Mrs. Kathryn T. MacMurray, retiring President of the Board of Trustees. Two persons represented the class of 1900, with other reunions held Saturday afternoon including the classes of 1905, 1910, 1915, 1920, 1925, 1930, 1935, 1940, 1945, 1950, and 1955.

The association re-elected the same officers for the new year at its Saturday morning business meeting, including Mrs. Doris Overbey Sutton as President. First alumnae of MacMurray were eight students graduating in February, 1852. As early as 1857, an alumnae organization came into existence (eleven years after founding of the school). By that time there were 70 graduates, with the class of '57 bringing the grand total to 86. At present, there are over 9,000 members of the association, which itself is the oldest among four-year women's colleges in the U.S.

Iowa Senatorial Race In Election Spotlight

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Iowa voters may turn out in near record volume Monday to nominate state candidates and the outcome of the presidential year primary may have some slight bearing on the national political scene.

Most of the pre-election interest has focused on the race for United States senator, where Gov. Herschel Loveless, running unopposed, is the state Democratic party's favorite son candidate for president.

Loveless, completing his second term as governor, has been tagged as favorite son in an effort to get him a bigger voice at the national convention in Los Angeles and possibly get him within range of the vice presidential nomination.

Secretary of State Melvin Synhorst estimates that about 350,000 Iowans will go to the polls Monday—exceeding the total for any election since 1952.

Synhorst said voter interest is primed, in large part, by the fact it is a presidential year, by a heavy field of candidates in some of the races and by state issues, including reapportionment of the Iowa Legislature.

There are six candidates seeking the Republican nomination for U.S. senator. The seat will be vacated next January by Sen. Thomas Martin, Iowa Republican.

Hoping to step into Martin's shoes, besides Loveless, are State Sen. Jack Miller of Sioux City; State Rep. Kenneth Stringer of Davenport; Former Iowa Atty. Gen. Dayton Countryman of Nevada, Iowa; Oliver J. Reeve of Waverly; Rollo Bergeson of Des Mones, and Ernest J. Seemann of Waterloo, all Republicans.

If none gets the required 35 per cent of the votes, the GOP candidate will be picked at the regular Republican state convention in July.

U.S. Rep. Ben Jensen (R-Iowa) is the only congressman opposed in his bid for re-nomination. He fces state Sen. William Harbor of Henderson in the 7th District race.

The governor's primary, embroiled in intra-party feuding, features five candidates seeking nomination — three Republicans and two Democrats.

Democrats in the gubernatorial race are Iowa Commerce Commissioner Harold Hughes of Ida Grove and Lt. Gov. Edward J. McManus of Keokuk.

BLUFFS FAMILY ATTENDS PEORIA SCHOOL CEREMONY

BLUFFS — Mr. and Mrs. David Orchard, Judy and Ronda accompanied by Mrs. Andy Ommen of Murrayville attended graduation exercises at Limestone High School near Peoria Wednesday evening. Their nephew, Dean Meier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Meier was a member of the class.

Miss Shirley Marsh of Jacksonville and Bluffs and Miss Evelyn Placke of Winchester are enjoying a two weeks vacation with the Alvin Marsh family in California. They were accompanied by Miss Iva Conlon of Tacoma, Wash., who has been visiting at the Frank Marsh home. Miss Conlon will also visit relatives in California before returning to her home.

Mrs. T. B. Meehan and daughter, Mary Claire have returned home from a short motor trip in company with Mr. and Mrs. Randall Killebrew of Winchester to Colorado.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Dunham moved to Decatur Wednesday where they have purchased a home. The Edward Dunham family have purchased the John Dunham property and are moving this week. The apartment vacated by the Dunhams will be occupied by the Harold Graves family and Mrs. Emma Waters will move into the apartment vacated by the Graves family. Mr. and Mrs. Max Edlen and sons who have been in school in Kirksville, Mo., are returning to Bluffs and will occupy the home vacated by Mrs. Waters.

Man's Leg Is Fractured By Rearing Pony

Lonnie Worrall, residing four miles west of Woodson, is recovering at Passavant hospital from a fractured left leg, resulting from an injury when a stallion pony reared and fell on him. Both bones of the leg were broken below the knee.

Mrs. Worrall and daughter succeeded in driving the pony away from him, and helped Mr. Worrall over a fence to safety. Several neighbors arrived within a short time and the injured man was taken to the hospital.

Mr. Worrall probably will be at the hospital for the next two weeks.

MARITAL DISCRIMINATION

BOSTON (AP)—In Massachusetts, it is cheaper to marry a fellow Bay Stater than anyone else.

A new law doubles the wedding license fee for out-of-staters. The traditional $2 will still apply if both bride and groom are from Massachusetts. But if either or both are from outside the Commonwealth, it will be $4.

CITED FOR SERVICE

Mrs. Elizabeth Blackburn Martin, 1350 S. East, Jacksonville, is being congratulated here by President Louis W. Norris after having been cited by the MacMurray Alumnae Association for outstanding service as a teacher of piano at the college. One of the most distinguished teachers of piano for children in the U.S., she has also written instruction books and pieces for performance. One piece, "The Cotton Pickers," has been performed publicly by children more than any other written for that age group. Her husband was the late J. Edgar Martin. She is currently residing with a sister. Mrs. Martin received the award as part of the alumnae dinner Saturday noon in McClelland Dining Hall, where she is here pictured.

TAX COLLECTOR COLLECTS

When police became suspicious about a merchant moving from his store at 2 a.m. they called tax collector Albert MacDonald. MacDonald presented the merchant with a bill for $236 in unpaid taxes. The merchant paid on the spot.

Training School On Electricity For 4-H Leaders

The Electrical Activity training school for home economics 4-H club leaders and members will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Illinois Power Co. building on the north side of the square, announces Mrs. Veronika Burgess, Morgan-Scott youth assistant.

The meeting had been previously set to be held in Farm Bureau Hall.

Mrs. Velma M. Carroll, Illinois Power home economist, will conduct the school. The subject of her discussion and demonstrations will be "Electricity Makes Breakfast Fun." She will show the latest small electrical appliances, how they are made, and how to care for them.

Parents and friends are invited to attend and refreshments will follow the training period.

HONOR SYSTEM WORKS

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP) — Sheriff's deputies say the honor system of self-service drinking underwent a successful test at the Walmore Inn, Town of Niagara.

Answering a report of four men being inside before opening time, they sped to the tavern. Sure enough, the men were inside "drinking and paying for each drink and making the right change from the till."

Owner Stanley Gibbs said he forgot to lock the door. Officers took the drinkers' names but no charges were placed.

Nesmith Addresses Club

Dean Nesmith reviewed the details of the field trip of the sociology department, during which he and a number of students were arrested while dining with Negro civic leaders and students. In his talk to the Rotarians Dr. Nesmith defended the trip and its purposes of study and understanding.

"The luncheon prosecution was just another skirmish in the long battle for man's rights to be different," the speaker said. "When one person is forced to conform simply for the sake of conformity, then we have all lost just a little of our liberty."

White Hall To Hold Union Bible School

WHITE HALL—A co-operative Daily Vacation Bible School will be held June 6th through the 17th, combining the facilities of the First Christian and United Presbyterian churches.

WINNER FOR SURE

The club's rules said nothing at all about grass.

BEAUTY HAS NO PRICE-TAG

Your home, the place where the most significant hours of your life are spent, is what you make it. Listless daydreams and casual wishing for more attractive surroundings will avail you nothing. Many folks have the idea that they cannot make these dreams come true because they can't afford it. This, of course, is an unsound belief . . . because the home that is attractive and out-of-the-ordinary costs no more, basically, than the home that is commonplace.

A wealth of unpriced beauty surrounds all of us, waiting to be tapped and put to use in our homes, and in our everyday living plans. Color, arrangement, contrast — these have no price-tag, yet are of immeasurable importance to an attractive room setting.

Next to color, furniture arrangement does more to distinguish a room than any other decorating factor that we know of. Consider the room sketched above. The off-center arrangement of three metal panels on the fireplace wall is striking, adds drama. Note also how the gentle curves of the sectional sofa give a softening effect to the sleek Modern feeling in the room. Accessories have been carefully chosen to add color accent and a feeling of warmth and hospitality.

You are always welcome to come in and spend as long as you wish browsing through our show rooms, and to call on our friendly home consultants to help you select the furnishings that fill your needs. Make us your furniture headquarters . . . always.

Late Rally Puts Grain Futures On Plus Side

By GIL MAYO
AP Business News Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — A late Friday rally raised wheat futures narrowly to the plus side for the week but the market otherwise continued its downward trend.

Most grains were off 1¼ cents a bushel or more in spots while soybeans finished only slightly easier.

Weather was the major consideration in the unusually slow trade, probably the smallest volume for any comparable period in many months. Until Friday, the total for any day had not exceeded about 18½ million bushels compared with a normal of twice that amount.

Frequent rain over much of the Midwest corn belt and muddy fields provided the only bullish influence but it was discounted abruptly with clearing weather later in the week. At that time, a number of private reports said corn planting, about two weeks behind normal in much of the major producing areas, was moving along rapidly.

With moisture reserves plentiful, brokers said germination and growth would be rapid and that there was no reason to believe either acreage or yield would be curtailed more than slightly.

The monthly crop report issued Friday by Francis I. duPont & Co. and its statistician, C. M. Galvin, was a mild surprise to the trade, although it appeared to have little effect on prices.

Instead of raising his estimate of winter wheat production, as many brokers had expected, Galvin cut his figure about 14 million bushels from a month ago to 977 million. The June estimate by the Department of Agriculture will be issued next Friday. Last month it predicted a winter crop yield of 992 million.

A good many dealers had expected Galvin's estimate to go above a billion bushels. However, at 977 million the crop will be the fourth largest of record.

Although some drouthy spots were believed to have trimmed the outlook somewhat, the government reported that wind damage to Great Plains farmland was 16 per cent less than last year.

At the end of the week, wheat was ½-¾ cent a bushel higher than a week ago, July $1.85; corn 1¼-1½ lower, July $1.20¾-20; oats 1-1¼ lower, July 71¼-½; rye ½-1¢ lower, July $1.22¼-23; soybeans unchanged to ½ lower, July $2.14½.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP)—(USDA)— Following is a summary of the hog, cattle and sheep markets for the week:

HOGS — Compared Friday last week, barrows and gilts weighing under 230 lbs 25 higher, weights over 230 lbs 25-50 higher. On the close mixed lots No. 1 and 2 190-220 lb barrows and gilts sorted for weight and grade 17.50-17.75, 110 head at 17.75. Mixed lots No. 1, 2 and 3 and No. 2 and 3 230-250 lbs 16.50-17.00. No. 2 and 3 and No. 3 250-280 lbs 16.00-16.50, mixed lots No. 2 and 3 and No. 3 280-300 lbs 15.50-16.00. Mixed grades No. 2 and 3 and No. 3 300-400 lb sows 14.00-14.75, 400-550 lbs 13.00-14.00.

CATTLE—Meager supply of prime steers sold weak to 50 lower while other slaughter steers were 50-1.00 lower many late sales fully 1.00 lower. Prime and mixed choice and prime 1050-1350 lb slaughter steers 28.75-31.50, three loads prime around 1250 lbs 32.00-32.25. Bulk high choice steers 27.25-29.25, bulk average choice 25.75-28.25; mixed good and choice steers 25.50-26.00 at the close. Good steers 22.50-25.50 late. Mixed utility and standard 19.00-21.50. Load prime 1130 lb heifers 28.75, high choice and mixed choice and prime heifers 27.25-27.75, at the close. Most good to choice heifers 22.25-27.00 with choice 25.50 up. Commercial cows 17.50-19.00, few standard 19.00-20.00, utility and commercial bulls 20.00-21.50. Few good and choice vealers 25.00-30.00.

SHEEP — Compared Friday last week, shorn old crop lambs fully 50 lower. Few good and choice 70-95 lb native spring lambs 22.00-24.00, five decks choice and prime 103-114 lb shorn fed lambs No. 1 and 2 pelts 21.00-21.50, cull to choice shorn slaughter ewes 5.00-7.00.

BUTCHER HOG PRICES HIGHER DESPITE SETBACK

CHICAGO (AP)—Despite a rather stiff setback on Friday, butcher hog prices finished the week 25 to 50 cents higher after having hit a peak of $18 a hundredweight, the highest in a year.

Offerings for the four-day holiday week were down 14 per cent from a week ago and demand was good most days. Contributing to the strength was an improved market for pork at the wholesale level. Loins gained $3.50-5.00 at Chicago.

Demand for slaughter steers was rather thin throughout the week because of curtailed operations by Eastern packers. With the cattle supply reduced only about 10 per cent for the week, prime grade steers were weak to $1 lower. Carcass steer and heifer beef also declined as much as $1 on the Chicago wholesale market.

The sheep supply consisted largely of old crop shorn slaughter lambs which sold fully 50 cents lower at $21-21.50 for choice and prime grades. The few good and choice spring lambs moved at $22-24. Ewes were about steady, topping at $7.

Dairy farmers in India have established a plant to dry and process water buffalo milk. It serves 20,000 farmers in 70 villages north of Bombay.

Business Mirror

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A recovery by neglected bread-and-butter stocks and sharp profit taking in some of the "wonder" issues featured a two-way stock market this week.

The popular market averages were up slightly. Trading was heavy.

The outstanding news was a cut in the discount rate from 4 per cent to 3½ per cent by the Federal Reserve banks of Philadelphia and San Francisco. This came after the close Thursday, a day when the market rose amid speculation that some credit-easing was in the wind.

The follow-through Friday was something of an anticlimax. The rise, though irregular, showed some encouraging technical signs.

Meanwhile, the market in both corporate and government bonds showed clear strength in expectation of discount rate cuts by other banks and an eventual drop in the prime rate, the interest that big commercial banks charge to their biggest patrons.

The electronic-missile-rocket stocks had a confused upside flurry early in the week, then were badly slashed by profit taking as Wall Street advisory services suggested judicious selling. Some of these kept net gains while others dropped sharply.

Texas Instruments fell 12¼ to 236½. Losses of more than 2 points were taken by such stocks as Thiokol, Collins Radio, General Instruments and General Time. Universal Match held a gain of 4 points, Zenith 2¾, and Burroughs 2½.

Trading in the four-day market week, shortened by Memorial Day, was 14,591,370 shares compared with the previous week's total of 15,975,965.

Of 1,408 issues traded, 679 advanced and 600 declined. New highs for the year totaled 160 and new lows 182.

Bond volume declined to $24,385,000 par value on the New York Stock exchange from $26,198,000 the previous week and $27,551,000 a year ago.

White Hall Hospital Notes

WHITE HALL—Guy Bridgewater, who suffered serious injuries to his right hand in a mower accident at his home, was dismissed Saturday.

H. O. Malin was given emergency treatment on Monday for a badly injured right hand, suffered while grinding a cycle on a grinding stone. A large number of stitches were required to take care of the lacerations.

Khrushchev's Ravings Cement Allied Relations

Speaking forcefully, Eisenhower said the United States is determined to keep itself strong—scientifically, economically and militarily. Such determination, he added, is based on the concept of human dignity.

"Freedom and liberty eventually will triumph over tyranny," the President declared to another round of applause.

It was then he asserted, "ill-tempered expressions of Mr. Khrushchev" have really brought the West closer together than at any time since he became president in 1953.

At the start of his brief talk, Eisenhower told his audience that he and his West Point classmates had just been reminiscing about the days when they were cadets. World War I had started in Europe at that time, he recalled, but it still was an era of leisure and relatively little tension.

Turning to the present in contrast, Eisenhower said we now are living in a time of bewilderment. He went on to say he does not like the term "crisis," and then he asserted with great emphasis that no nation in the world would dare attack the United States.

ESTIMATED RECEIPTS

CHICAGO (AP) — Estimated livestock receipts for Monday are 9,000 hogs, 25,000 cattle and 2,000 sheep.

Present Slate At Legion Auxiliary For Coming Year

The regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit 279 was held at the Legion home the evening of June 1st with the president, Joyce Mansfield, presiding.

Mrs. Lyle Davis initiated the new members, assisted by Irene Hill, Edith McMahan, Joyce Mansfield, Jean Baily and Harriet Pate. Initiated were Betty Ward, Louise Witham, Eula Gunther, Rene Boyles, Opal Keating, Virginia Thomas, Mary Haywood and Dorothy Damrau.

Edith McMahan conducted the hat sale and members wore the hats during the meeting. Secretary Mabel Lewis read minutes and communications. Jean Baily gave the treasurer's report.

The following past presidents were honored and presented a rose: Edith McMahan, Tommy Davis, Nelle Wandell, Grace Cowgur, Louise Slagle, Trilby Skinner, Mildred Smith, Audrea Livengood, Vida Armstrong, Florence Vasconcellos, Edna Daly, Mabel Lewis and Harriet Craver.

Irene Hill reported that Jean Paisley, Routt student, had been chosen for Illini Girls State June 14-21st at MacMurray College. Susan Weller, JHS student, was named alternate.

The Auxiliary decided to purchase all veterans craftwork on hand. June 12 is the pilgrimage date to I.S.S.C.S. at Normal. Those planning on attending should take covered dish and own table service. Fried chicked will be furnished by the Legion and Auxiliary.

Reports from members were heard regarding attendance at the 20th District meet held at Arenzville. Mrs. Edna Daly was elected treasurer and Mrs. Mildred Smith publicity and yearbook chairman for District.

President Mansfield and first vice president, Shirley Owdom will attend the State Convention in Chicago Aug. 18-21.

The following out of town guests attended the meeting, Lena Mae Wells, president, and Nona Fry, Chaplain, both from Roodhouse; Mae Chambers, Past District Director and Mary Damon, Bluffs.

Mrs. Anna Smith won the attendance prize. At the close of the meeting refreshments of cake and punch were served.

Criticism Of Ike Fades From U2 Probe Report

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chances that President Eisenhower will come in for personal criticism in a Senate report on the U2 spy plane investigation faded Saturday in the wake of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's attacks on the President.

Whether the Senate Foreign Relations Committee can agree on any report at all remained in doubt. But Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont) predicted it would do nothing that would "weaken the President in his role as the head of this government and its foreign policy spokesman."

Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho), another committee member, said in a separate interview: "So long as Khrushchev keeps up his attacks on the President, I believe the committee likely will refrain from making any."

He added that Khrushchev's repeated criticisms of the President have "increased the difficulty of the committee in bringing out a report."

On the other hand, Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn) said he does not believe "our committee should let anything Khrushchev says modify findings of fact." Among such findings Gore listed these:

"1. The President assumed personal responsibility for spy flights.

"2. There was a lack of coordination between and within government agencies in connection with the U2 incident.

"3. A highest-level conference decided to 'continue the myth' that the U2 plane was on a weather mission five days after it was downed over Russia.

"4. A State Department spokesman said there was no deliberate attempt to violate Soviet air space and there had never been.

"5. The about-face decision to tell the truth."

Illinois Museum Acquires Rare Spanish Painting

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — A canvas by 17th century Spanish painter B. E. Murillo, "Christ After the Flagellation," has been acquired as the focal showpiece for the Krannert Art Museum to be opened in October at the University of Illinois.

The painting is nearly 4 by 5 feet. It differs from the Murillo of the same theme now owned by the Boston Museum of Fine Arts principally in absence of attending angels. It is the gift of Mrs. Herman C. Krannert of Indianapolis.

The museum was given to the school by Mrs. Krannert's husband, an alumnus.

Hawaii Wastes No Time As Paradise

BY WARD CANNEL
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

HONOLULU — (NEA) — With grim determination and every muscle flexed, Hawaii is fulfilling her statehood by aiming to be America's No. 1 vacationland instead of wasting time as a tropical island paradise.

"It is the least we can do," one businessman said at a recent policy-making breakfast.

"After all, we're a state now. And you can't lure your fellow Americans out here and then not have anything to offer them for their vacations except sunshine and seashore."

Consequently, and after considerable research, responsible Hawaiian investors are:

● Throwing up a barricade of new, flashy hotels at Waikiki Beach to make that traditional playground as satisfactory as Miami Beach or Atlantic City.

● Building at least one mammoth community of pink high-cost vacation dwellings to give a once-desolate shore area a little life and beauty.

● Adding the little extras that make a vacation memorable—like raising prices in cocktail lounges at sunset.

At the same time, a highpowered campaign is under way to lure retired Mainlanders to Hawaii as permanent residents.

• • •

Purchase of property on the island of Oahu—where Honolulu lies—is almost out of the question. Most of the good land belongs to old trusts and estates which are not about to sell the golden goose. They will lease the land to you for 55 years, leaving you to build your own home and pay the mortgage and taxes. When land is for sale, the price runs from $2 to $30 per square foot.

Rentals in Honolulu are high, too. A small two-and-a-half room apartment will cost about $100 per month and up. Whether you lease or rent, you'll certainly want to have a beach home away from the city's hustle.

So, while life can be beautiful in Honolulu, it can also be expensive if you plan to make proper use of the geography.

"Many of us can't afford either a beach home or a mainland vacation," one young economist said. "So we get our kicks by getting up at dawn and going down to Waikiki to watch the tourists."

• • •

For those who do not like to get up early for recreation, there are dozens of brightly-lighted, gaily-colored used car lots which stay open quite late. Prices, however, run about $300 higher than on the mainland.

On the other hand, there are tremendous savings available to residents. You do not need winter clothes or household heating systems. And you can get a mongoose for a song to keep the rats away.

The community, therefore, is growing. The Hawaiian Telephone Company reports installation of about 3,500 new phones in the past year.

Now, it may be a little unsettling to new, four-square American residents to find their Hawaiian neighbors are more than 30 per cent Japanese in origin and only about 20 per cent Caucasian. On the other hand, Hawaii is a real state of Americans regardless of origin. More than 70 per cent of crimes here are committed by juveniles.

• • •

For those who want to buy land, the best deals are available on the island of Hawaii—usually called the Big Island—rather than on Oahu where Honolulu, the capital of Hawaii, lies.

This confusion in names and places is not a scheme by shrewd real estate manipulators, but is rather the fault of ancient Polynesians who had more islands than vocabulary words.

"We try to make this distinction clear to land buyers," big realtor David Watamull explained. "We explain that the land they are buying is 200 miles away from Honolulu and accessible only by air at the present time.

"I certainly hope they understand that."

Wheat Referendum May Affect Future Planning

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Farmers Union says federal farm programs for the next 10 years may be shaped by the outcome of a grower referendum July 21 on the 1961-crop wheat program.

On that date, growers are scheduled to decide whether they want to continue present marketing quotas designed to limit sales to normal production on a 55 million acre national wheat allotment. The program requires approval by at least two-thirds of those voting.

Congress could enact legislation in the meantime that would set the referendum aside.

By assuming that Congress will not act, the Farmers Union is appealing to farmers to pile up a heavy "yes" vote for the quotas. It says the referendum will attract unusual attention this year because it will be held in the midst of political maneuvering for the farm vote at the November elections.

In a memorandum to its members, the farm organization says a big negative vote would be interpreted by the politicians as indicating farmers want effective controls on production to stabilize prices and supplies of crops. But a big negative vote would be taken to mean, it says, that farmers want controls abandoned.

The farmers union itself favors controls and higher government price supports.

"The choices in the wheat referendum, not only for 1961 wheat but also for all farm commodities for many years ahead, is between stabilized prices with market supply controls or unstabilized prices with no controls. This is the key debate about farm policy," the memorandum states.

"Both parties and their candidates will be looking at the wheat vote as an indication of the kind of farm program that farmers want," it adds. "The outcome of the vote will influence the kind of farm program that candidates build to run on and the kind of policies they will pledge to carry out if elected."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government crop reports told today of continued delays in planting the important corn crop in the heart of the Midwestern corn belt because of wet fields and rains.

The reports said that in much of the area farmers have planted a little more than half their intended acreages compared with an average of four-fifth by this time of year.

It was emphasized, however, that full utilization of mechanized equipment can easily overcome the lag in planting.

The Communists have been conducting every-other-day war against Quemoy since then. The Nationalists sent in their supplies on the even-numbered, no-shelling days. There was no Communist harassing fire until now.

Nationalist sources told newsmen to draw their own conclusions, thus implying they attach some importance to the shelling because of President Eisenhower's scheduled visit to Formosa June 17.

After the summit conference collapsed in Paris, the Nationalists began predicting Peiping would try to set off a new crisis in Formosa Strait. They said the Communists might choose the occasion of Eisenhower's visit for a gesture and try to pin the blame for any new crisis on him. Now they seem to believe the transport shelling marks the opening shots in this plan.

DANGEROUS GREETING

Hollywood Wonders Where Color Went

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Maybe it's death or taxes, briefcase lugging actors or press agents who now call themselves public relations counselors — but something has robbed Hollywood of its color.

It's not the same old town.

Actors who should never take themselves seriously are doing just that. Dignity has replaced wackiness.

The town frowns on the antics of Jayne Mansfield and Elvis Presley. A generation ago their behavior would have been commonplace.

The other day as the King of Nepal and his queen toured Paramount, Colonel Tom Parker put on his Elvis hat and Elvis T shirt and joined the group, explaining that his boy Elvis was busy shooting a scene so sent him instead. Undignified, yes, but colorful.

When Elvis returned to town after a two-year hitch in the Army, he came in his own private railroad car with a thousand screaming bobby-soxers waiting in the station lobby.

Elvis received an army of reporters and photographers on the train and answered all questions without the prompting of public relations men.

Parker, his manager, explained: "My boy Elvis can take care of himself."

It was like old times.

And if a member of the press wants to tour Miss Mansfield's pink mansion, done in early Mae Murray motif, all he has to do is ring the doorbell. Jayne makes a crazy guide.

Some people are colorful because they make themselves available to the press. Some, like Marlon Brando and Frank Sinatra, are colorful for the opposite reason.

Zsa Zsa Gabor has color because, in her own words, she was born in the wrong century.

"I would have made a bum out of Madame DuBarry," she once said.

Why are there no successors to W. C. Fields, the John Barrymores, the Humphrey Bogarts, Errol Flynns, Mario Lanzas, Carole Lombards, the Mike Todds and Tom Mixes?

"Artists are not meant to be businessmen," she says. "I have always believed that business and artistry don't go together. At least that's what I keep telling myself for not buying that San Fernando Valley real estate when it was selling for $30 an acre."

Oldtime studio publicity men, creators of many a Hollywood legend, blame a new concept of publicity, born of the actor-turned-producer boom.

"In the old days," recalls one, "when we had a particularly wacky actor, we made sure that the press got to him. Soon the whole world knew he was wacky and loved him for it.

"Now actors hire a new type of publicity man who caters to their ego. Actually they are suppress agents who try to veneer a phony dignity on some people who don't even know how to spell the word.

"It will be interesting to watch if any of the new crop of stars survive like the Gables, the Grants, the Waynes and the Holdens who got their press training from the studio publicity people."

Nikita's Attacks May Cause Reaction

cancellation of Eisenhower's trip to the Soviet Union, which had been scheduled this month.

Whether this has caused widespread popular disappointment in the Soviet Union, as some officials believe, is not certain here. But until shortly before the summit meeting the prospect of the visit had received a big Soviet build-up.

The sudden reversal of Khrushchev's stand at Paris, even in the light of the spy-plane incident, may have caused a sense of shock and anxiety which the Premier feels he must deal with.

A third factor is considered to be Khrushchev's need to justify himself with critics of his earlier show of friendship for Eisenhower.

Officials said there is no doubt that within the Kremlin ruling group there must have been men who advised Khrushchev against expecting that he would achieve any real policy gains as a result of his association with the President.

He must have known he was not going to make any progress at the summit on his main objective of getting the Western Allies out of Berlin. Most Washington leaders say the spy plane row provided him with a pretext for calling off the conference which was already destined to fail from his point of view.

But this meant admission on Khrushchev's part that his policy of working for concessions from Eisenhower had failed. Therefore it now seems likely that he is trying to outdo those who opposed him in denouncing the President and demonstrating that he has no faith whatever in the man whom he once invited to Moscow with enthusiasm.

U.S. Protests Cuban Slander Campaign

It noted that Cuba has not paid American exporters for more than 100 million dollars worth of goods shipped to Cuba over the past year. But in that period, it said, the Castro regime has spent perhaps an equal amount to buy foreign arms and has boosted its dollar reserves to some 120 million dollars.

The note pointed out that Havana has yet to reply to an April 11 U.S. inquiry as to whether Castro's economic chief, Ernesto Guevara, was speaking for the Cuban government when he pictured the U.S. sugar program as an enslavement of Cuba.

Under the U.S. sugar law, Cuban growers get about 150 million dollars yearly subsidy through U.S. payments for sugar above world market prices. Cuba, meanwhile, has agreed to sell large amounts of sugar to the Soviet Union at lower prices.

The U.S. protest alleged too that Castro officials "have conspired and connived" to rig flights by U.S. small planes over Cuba. Castro has portrayed such flights as evidence of U.S. aggressive intent.

In connection with the March 4 explosion of a munitions-laden French freighter in Havana, the U.S. note accused the Castro government of recently distributing a pamphlet blaming the United States for the tragedy despite Washington's previous denial.

And it said Havana has yet to reply to Washington's May 14 protest against what it termed an unprovoked attack on a U.S. submarine by a Cuban patrol boat on the high seas.

FAMED ATTORNEY SUFFERS ATTACK

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Jerry Giesler, famed Hollywood criminal attorney, suffered a mild heart attack Friday, his second in 8½ months.

Giesler, 73, was stricken at a resort hotel, The Sands. Dr. Ivan Mindlin said Giesler was resting comfortably Saturday, was in no danger, and probably would be released Sunday from Southern Nevada Memorial Hospital.

FAN BREEZES

BY STAN SPOTTS
Journal Courier Sports Editor

Norman Davis, former Jacksonville man, is now in the motel and cafe business at Lakeview, Arkansas. 'Red', who brought in a 7 and 3-4 pound largemouth bass just about a year ago, inquired if I would be interested in carrying a weekly fishing report from Bull Shoals Lake and White River below the dam. So, here goes. The bass and trout fishing has been good with the bass taking to the lures and minnows while the trout preferred lures and worms. The crappie fishing has been spotty but is expected to pick up soon.

—O—

A St. Louis angler used a spinner to land a 9 lb. 8 oz. largemouth for the biggest single catch. The largest string of bass amounted to 20 with a total weight of 51¼ pounds caught by Dr. Gates and party of Charleston, Ill. The total catch of bass three pounds and over during the past week was 73. The bass also took to crawfish in addition to the surface and shallow running plugs. A Texas man caught the biggest trout, a six-pounder, on a crawfish. The largest string of trout was 12 with the total weight being 21 pounds taken by a Melrose, Ill., group. A total of 218 trout were taken this past week. This is the first report and if it proves of any value to persons planning a trip down that way, I'll be glad to continue running them.

—O—

A local angler believes something should be done about boating at the old lake. He says this lake is the greatest crappie and bass fishing waters he's ever worked and he'd prefer the old lake over any other waters he's fished in and that covers quite a bit of ground. The only trouble is—he likes to use his waders to get out among them and he almost gets drowned doing it from boats passing too close and leaving their wake which gets up to his shoulders at times. He urges everyone interested in fishing to try their hand at the old lake. About discouraging boating—this will never happen but the Boat Club has taken measures to stop this sort of thing such as passing too close to a fisherman. And sooner or later all boaters will probably move to the new lake as it offers more territory to roam around in. Maybe the fishing will be better out that way as the old pros say where there is noise and boats it makes for better fishing.

Bill Hovey, one of the most respected and successful coaches in the area, is leaving the coaching ranks to take over Harry Page's old job as principal of Glenwood High School of the Ball-Chatham Unit. Harry is moving up to a superintendent's post. Hovey coached for eight years at New Berlin compiling up an impressive record in the basketball campaigns. Bill served one year as a principal at Loami Grade School before entering the coaching ranks. Hovey's Pretzels won their first regional crown last March in 10 years and met defeat at the hands of Springfield in the opening game of the JHS sectional. Those who are acquainted with Bill knows he has the training, ability and personality to succeed in his new position. Applications for the vacancy will be received by Superintendent Carroll O. Garrison.

The 10th annual coaching clinic covering football, basketball, baseball, golf and gymnastics will be held June 7 and 8 at Western Illinois University. Branch Rickey, president of the new Continental Baseball League, will speak Tuesday at 2:20 p.m. and his topic will be "The Future of American College Baseball and Athletics." There will also be a golf demonstration and picnic at the University golf course at 5:00 p.m. Other speakers are Clifford Speegle of Oklahoma State, Chuck Orsborn of Bradley, Isador "Spin" Salario of Marshall High, Harry Mussatto of Western, Wayne Truox of Normal, Bob Hussey of Eastern and Robert Clow of Western. Registration is from 8:00 to 9:00 Tuesday morning.

Sept 24 Indiana
Oct. 1 West Virginia
8 Ohio State (Homecoming)
15 at Minnesota
22 Penn State (Dad's Day)
29 at Purdue
Nov. 5 at Michigan
12 Wisconsin ("I" Men's Day)
19 at Northwestern

If everything goes according to the script that has been written so far there will be a number of us in Champaign Nov. 12 for the Wisconsin contest. That day we hope to see Merritt Norvell perform against the Illini and some are hoping he can show up the school that snubbed its nose at his athletic abilities. This past spring Merritt was on the "Cardinal" squad and this is one of three platoon units coach Milt Bruhn will employ next fall. The Cardinal unit will start each game and this consists of 11 of the best all-around players—both offensively and defensively. Then there is an offensive unit to press the advantage if the Badgers roll and the third is a defensive team to stymie the enemy attack if the others fail. Guess who Bruhn rates the Big Ten's top threat? Why, Illinois of course with Minnesota being the darkhorse.

The Belmont Stakes will be televised and broadcast (CBS). The TV time is 3:30-4 p.m., EST, with radio from 3:45-4 p.m.

The Baltimore Orioles are carrying four rookies—Steve Barber, Chuck Estrada, Marv Breeding and Dave Nicholson.

Cubs Play Well In The West And Lou Is Happy

By CHARLES MAHER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)— The Chicago Cubs may be headed for oblivion at the end of this season, but they'll never get there playing the way they have on the West Coast.

After taking 2 of 4 games from the formidable Giants in San Francisco, the Cubs have won two straight from the Los Angeles Dodgers and today stand only a game away from the giddy heights of sixth place.

They could get there by beating the Dodgers Saturday night.

The Cubs unloaded 15 hits as they dropped the Dodgers 6-5 in 10 innings Friday night, and Manager Lou Boudreau said later he thinks he's got the horses to keep something going.

How close the horses come to finishing in the money probably depends mostly on Chicago's young pitching staff, and Boudreau is both proud and uncertain of this critical element.

"I think I've got one of the best young pitching staffs in baseball," he said. "I compare it with Baltimore's.

"I'm not going to say it's ready now. It could come around overnight, or in a year or two. You're never sure of young pitchers because a lot of them are throwers. When throwers become pitchers, they become winners."

Rawls And Ziske Finish In Tie In Wolverine

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — Betsy Rawls and Joyce Ziske struggled through 36 grueling holes of golf Saturday, and finished just as they started—in a dead-heat for first place in the Wolverine Women's Open at the end of 54 holes.

Tied with a two-under-par 73 as play began, the two veterans exchanged first-place throughout the afternoon before finishing at 224, setting the stage for an exciting stretch drive in Sunday's final round.

Miss Ziske, a 25-year-old Wisconsin girl starting her fourth year on the professional tour, and many-times-winner Miss Rawls both slipped in the morning round and momentarily lost the lead to Wiffi Smith of St. Clair, Mich.

Miss Smith, former British amateur titlist, was two-under the Hillcrest Country Club par with a 73. She led Miss Rawls by one stroke and Miss Ziske by two at midday. But Wiffi tired in the afternoon heat and slipped to a 78, while the two first-round leaders carded subpar afternoon scores.

Royal Native Beats Big Brush At Belmont Park

Ridden by Bill Hartack, Royal Native went under the wire a length and a half in front of Reginald N. Webster's Quill.

Quill, who had been running in second place most of the way, only to drop back to fourth coming off the final turn, rallied and took the place spot in the final yards.

The finish was just as the crowd of 39,239 had bet. Royal Native paid $4.90, $2.80 and $2.40. Quill paid $3.90 and $3. Bug Brush was $3 to show.

SOCK WITH A SHOCK

Shaw Continues His Mastery Over A's, 4-2

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago's Bob Shaw, aided by Jim Landis' and Gene Freese's home runs, again spun his pitching magic over the Kansas City A's in a 4-2 White Sox victory Saturday.

This was Shaw's ninth victory over Kansas City without defeat as a White Soxer.

Freese's lead-off homer off A's starter Ken Johnson in the seventh was the deciding blow, breaking a 2-2 deadlock.

Johnson, who struck out 10, also was raked for a lead-off homer by Landis in the third.

The Sox picked up an insurance run in the eighth as Earl Torgeson's double and Sherm Lollar's single chased Johnson and brought on Marty Kutyna.

Shaw's seven-hit job was his third complete game and gave him a 5-4 record.

Friday Baseball

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Left-hander Hal Woodeshick had not pitched a complete game in nine tries since 1958. Washington hadn't won three in a row this season. So who do Woodeshick and the Senators break through against?

Woodeshick, never a loser against Baltimore in his brief career, allowed just five singles for a 4-1 victory over the Orioles Friday night. The loser was Milt Pappas, who had won six straight from the Senators since '58.

It was only the third defeat in 13 games for the Birds, but chopped their lead to 1½ games. Second-place Cleveland closed in with a 6-2 victory over Detroit. Kansas City knocked off Chicago's third-place White Sox 7-2 as Bud Daley became the first to win seven in the AL. New York beat Boston 4-3.

The Indians beat the Tigers with four runs in the third inning and 2 1-3 innings of no-hit relief by Johnny Klippstein, who saved the victory for Jim Perry. Frank Lary (4-5) was the loser, giving up RBI singles by Jim Piersall, Ken Aspromonte, ex-Tiger Harvey Kuenn and Tito Francona in the third.

Perry, winning his fourth in a row, had a four-hit shutout until the seventh, when a walk and two-out singles by Bruce and Eddie Yost scored a run. Two more walks forced in another run before Klippstein came on and struck out Al Kaline with the bases loaded.

The A's, winning six out of seven, handed Early Wynn (2-4) a third straight defeat. Ken Hamlin's two-out ,two-run single gave Kansas City a 2-1 lead in the second, and after Dick Brown's homer tied it in the same inning, the A's scored the clincher when Daley walked and came in on Andy Carey's two-out single in the fifth. Marv Throneberry touched off a three-run sixth with his fourth homer. Bob Trowbridge saved Daley's sixth consecutive victory by striking out Roy Sievers with the bases loaded in the seventh.

Bobby Shantz' perfect relief did it for the Yankees and one-time ace Bob Turley, who won his first as a starter in seven tries since last August. Turley (2-1) had a two-hit shutout until Rip Repulski socked a two-run pinch homer in the seventh. Boston scored again in the eighth and had the tying run on base when Shantz retired pinch-hitter Ted Williams on a fly. A three-run third inning with two out sent Jerry Casale (2-4) to his fourth straight loss after beating New York twice. Yogi Berra tripled for one run and scored the clincher on a wild pitch. Turley had lost four in a row to Boston since opening day of last year.

National League

Vern Law picked up where Bob Friend left off and the Pittsburgh Pirates still had a two-game lead in the National League—thanks to the best two-man staff in the majors.

The two right-handers have put away 14 of the Pirates' 29 victories. They've pitched the Bucs' five shutouts. They have the only complete games (12) hung up by the staff.

After Friend (6-2) closed out a home stand with a three-hit shutout over Cincinnati, Law became the first to win eight in the majors Friday night, pitching an eight-hit shutout at Philadelphia as the Pirates gained their sixth straight victory, 3-0.

Second-place San Francisco defeated St. Louis 3-2 on the six-hit pitching of Mike McCormick and Joe Amalfitano's first major league home run. Milwaukee slugged four home runs and beat Cincinnati 6-4. The Chicago Cubs defeated Los Angeles 6-5 in 10 innings.

Law made it four in a row since his only defeat, striking out four and walking just one for his seventh complete game and fourth decision over the Phils. He gave up three singles that loaded the bases in the seventh, but saved his second shutout by striking out pinch-hitter Wally Post.

While the Pirates opened a 17-game road trip, the Giants evened their current home stand record at 3-3 when Amalfitano's two-run homer off Ernie Broglio (2-2) broke a 1-1 tie in the third inning. The Cards scored their other run in the fifth. Hal Smith singled and came in on rookie Julian Javier's triple.

All four Milwaukee home runs were solo shots—by Hank Aaron, Billy Bruton, Del Crandall and Johnny Logan—off Jay Hook (4-4). Crandall's and Bruton's came in a clinching four-run third capped by Joe Adcock's two-out single and an error. Carl Willey, 0-5 against the rest of the league, beat the Reds a third time.

The Cubs blew a 5-0 lead in the eighth and ninth at Los Angeles, then beat Don Drysdale (4-7) in relief on a single by Walt Moryn, an error and a pinch single by George Altman. It was Drysdale's third loss in a row, second in two nights and sixth in his last seven decisions.

Milwaukee Clubs Cincinnati, 5-1

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Lew Burdette registered his fourth victory of the season against two losses as the Milwaukee Braves defeated the Cincinnati Reds Saturday, 5-1.

The fidgety right-hander, who was aided by homers by Eddie Mathews and Henry Aaron, scattered eight hits and just missed a shutout as he got the decision over big Don Newcombe, now 3-3. A crowd of 16,896 saw the Braves chalk up their fourth straight victory.

An unearned run in the fifth, the result of an error by Red Schoendienst deprived Burdette of a shutout.

Boston Wallops New York, 8-2

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Monbouquette hurled an 8-hitter and American League batting leader Pete Runnels cracked two doubles and a single to lead the Boston Red Sox to an 8-2 triumph over the New York Yankees Saturday.

The Red Sox collected only 6 hits off four New York pitchers but took advantage of bases on balls and two Yankee errors to score seven runs. Don Buddin drove in the other with his first home run of the season.

Monbouquette walked only one and struck out 7 as he racked up his fifth victory of the season. He has been beaten four times. New York's two runs came as a result of home runs by Roger Maris and Tony Kubek.

The loss was charged to starter Billy Short, who pitched to only three batters. It was his fourth defeat against two victories.

CASEY TO GET RELEASE

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees will be released from Lenox Hill Hospital Sunday morning and will rejoin the club for Tuesday's game with the Chicago White Sox, it was announced Saturday.

Coach Ralph Houk has been running the team in Stengel's absence.

Casey, who will be 70 next month, will rest at a midtown hotel for 48 hours following his release from the hospital.

FIELD OF 239

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP)—A field of 239 players from 12 states will open the 54th annual amateur championship of the Southern Golf Assn. here Monday.

Only rookie pitcher with the Detroit Tigers is Bob Bruce.

Judges for the events were Clarence Bigler, Tom Cooley, Lewis Foster, Elbert Luttrell, Dan Wagner and George Wilkerson.

Following their Olympic games, the Cubs and their families ate a picnic supper, then reassembled for the reading of the Athenian Oath and the presentation of the awards.

The meeting was planned and organized by the Den Mothers: Verniel Goforth and Evelyn Morris (Den No. 1); Jean Luttrell and Louise Meikle (Den No. 2) and Mrs. Dan Wagner (Den No. 3).

Rathmann, Ward Head Field In 100-Mile Event

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Jim Rathman of Miami, Fla., and Roger Ward of Indianapolis, will battle for a speed victory again Sunday in the 11th annual running of the Rex Mays 100-mile event for big cars.

Rathmann, winner of the 44th annual "500" on Memorial Day, and second place finisher Ward, head the field of more than 50 of the nation's top drivers entered for the State Fair Park paved track competition.

Thirty of the 33 starters at Indianapolis have entered.

Time trials on the one-mile oval begin at 12:30 p.m. CDT.

The one-mile record for the track is 103.523 miles per hour, set by Johnny Thomson of Boyertown, Pa., in 1959. Pat Flaherty set the highest average speed for the 100 miles in 1956, 98.96 m.p.h.

WINS NORTHERN TITLE

MANCHESTER, England (AP)—Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., America's second-ranked tennis player, remained unflustered by Briton Rita Bentley's soft returns Saturday and won the Northern Tennis Championship, 6-3, 6-3.

The Washington Senators have five rookies. They are Jim Kaat, John Kralick, Don Lee, Dan Dobbek and Don Mincher

Name Salario, Oldfield North-South Coaches

CHAMPAIGN—Isadore (Spin) Salario, the state's most successful coach at Marshall High School in Chicago the past three seasons, and James (Barney) Oldfield, one of the winningest small college coaches at McKendree College, have been named to coach the North and South All-Star teams in the game to be staged here Saturday, July 16.

The All-Star game, once an annual classic in Illinois, is being revived this year as a part of the Champaign Centennial Celebration.

As in the past it will pair the top graduating senior prep stars from the northern and southern parts of the state.

The two 10-man squads will be announced next week.

Tickets for the game are now available and can be purchased by sending check or money order ($1.50 per ticket) to All-Star Game Tickets, 1311 West Church Street, Champaign, Illinois.

Salario, who resigned at Marshall High School this spring to take the head job at Chicago Teachers College, directed his teams to two state basketball championships over the past three years.

During that period his teams won 87 games and lost only six.

Salario began his coaching career in 1949 as an assistant at Tilden Tech. His 1953 team won the Junior championship, the first title for the school in 42 years.

In 1955 he moved to Marshall as head coach. He was on a leave of absence to finish work on his master's degree in 1957 and returned in 1958 to guide Marshall to the first state championship in Chicago Public League history.

Salario is a native of Chicago, attending Crane Tech High School. In 1938 he played on the Crane team which won the Stagg Championship. Following graduation he enrolled at Chicago Teachers College.

Oldfield, who was spawned by one of Southern Illinois' most productive basketball communities, Centralia, back in the Arthur Trout era, has had a conference champion in each of his years of coaching.

A 1952 graduate of Southern Illinois University Oldfield began his coaching career in 1955 after getting his masters at the University of Illinois.

His first job was as sophomore coach at Davenport High School where he stayed for two seasons. His clubs won 29 games and lost 10 over that span and won the Mississippi Valley Conference Frosh-Soph title both years. It was these two sophomore teams that went on to win two straight Iowa state championships in 1958 and 1959.

In 1956 Oldfield moved to the head coaching job at McKendree College, a school at Lebanon, Illinois in the southwest part of the state.

In three seasons at McKendree his teams have compiled a 53-26 record and have won the Prairie College Conference crown each year.

The past two seasons his teams have competed in the NAIA national tournaments.

Cardinals Shutout By San Francisco, 2-0

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Jack Sanford stifled St. Louis with three singles as San Francisco whipped the Cardinals 2-0 Saturday and moved within a game and a half of league-leading Pittsburgh.

The shutout was Sanford's third and gave him a 6-1 record. The whitewash was the 10th for the Giant pitchers this season.

The Giants got only three hits, all off starter and loser Ron Kline, who went the first five innings and is now 2-5. Bob Miller and Ernie Broglio finished.

The two Giant runs came in the third inning. Hobie Landrith and Ed Bressoud singled, Sanford sacrificed them along and Don Blasingame's sacrifice fly scored Hobbie. It was the little catcher's first run scored this season.

Senior AL Says We're Not Doing Anything Right

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox are hoping that the American League race remains a close affair until they can jell and appropriately resume defense of their American League crown.

"We're not doing anything right," Manager Al Lopez lamented after the Sox dropped a 7-2 decision to Kansas City and Early Wynn again was shelled from the mound.

Wynn, the majors' most winning pitcher last year with 22 victories, has made 10 starts this season and has only two complete games.

Bob Shaw, an 18-game winner and sophomore of the year in 1959, has nine starts and two complete games. That is the sad story of the Sox pitching staff, but Lopez refuses to put all the blame on the pitching.

"Sure, we're not getting the pitching we got last year," admits the Sox manager, "but we're not hitting with men on base and we're not fielding as we should.

"One day one player makes a costly error and another day it's someone else who costs us in the field. As a team we're hitting better than we did last year, but not by much.

"Last year when we got men on base we got them across. We're not doing it this year," said Lopez.

Friday night's loss was a good example. The Sox collected 10 hits but left nine men stranded. They scored in the first inning and again in the second. After that they had the leadoff man reach base in every inning except the ninth but could not get anybody across.

"We just haven't jelled," said Lopez. "Let's hope that the race remains close until we can get together and play the type of ball we can play. Nobody's out of this race, least of all the White Sox. We still plan on playing in the World Series."

Shaw (4-4) will pitch for the Sox against Kansas City and Ken Johnson (1-2) today).

The Cubs won their second straight game from the Los Angeles Dodgers on the West Coast last night as they unloaded 15 hits for a 6-5 victory in 10 innings.

Smallest And Tallest Share Compton Honors

COMPTON, Calif. (AP)—You probably could get plenty of arguments in favor of others, but the smallest and the tallest—Jim Beatty and John Thomas—shared honors in the Compton invitational.

Little Jim Beatty, a sturdily built former North Carolina Tarheel, broke the American record for 5,000 meters with a time of 13:51.7.

Both were named co-athletes of the meet Friday night.

Beatty, who smashed the old American record of 14:04.2 set by Max Truex of Southern California in 1957, gave all the credit to running mate Laszlo Tabori. Both represent the Santa Clara Valley Youth Village.

"How do you like that Laszlo?" Beatty exulted. "He did everything possible to help me. And he does it knowing he can't make the Olympic team."

Beatty and Tabori alternated setting the pace throughout the race, taking considerable pressure off Beatty. After they had passed the three-mile mark, Beatty said, Tabori shouted to him: "Go ahead, it's your race."

Thomas has a pending world record mark of 7-1¾.

Others who shared the glory:

Australian Herb Elliott, who easily won the mile in 3:59.2 despite an ailing right knee that almost forced him to cancel his American tour.

Twins Don and Dave Stryron from North East Louisiana Track Club of Monroe, La., who clamped a near stranglehold on the hurdles and springs. Don won the 220-yard low hurdles in 22.2 and the 400-meter hurdles in 51.3, finishing third to Lee Calhoun in the high hurdles. Dave upset the 100-meter field in 10.3 and finished second in the 200 meters, won by freshman Adolph Plummer of New Mexico in 20.9.

Parry O'Brien won a lackluster shot put duel with Bill Nieder and Dave Davis with a heave of 62 feet 8½ inches. Nieder, hampered by a bad right leg, had 62-5½ and Davis' best was 59-11.

Expect Omaha, Sam Houston To Make Strong Bid

SIOUX CITY, Iowa (AP)— Omaha and Sam Houston State are expected to challenge defending champion Southern University of Louisiana for the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics baseball championship this week.

Southern University boasts the NAIA's top-rated pitcher in Charlie Gray, who has pitched 48 innings and allowed only 3 earned runs.

Southern has won 21 games and lost 3. Omaha, which finished second last year, has an 18-3 record. Sam Houston has won 21 games and lost 9.

Other teams in the tournament are Indiana State of Pennsylvania (13-3), Georgia Southern (17-9), Morningside (15-4), Whitworth (13-7) and Southern Illinois (17-10).

NAVY BEATS ARMY

WEST POINT (AP)—The Navy lacrosse team came from behind with seven goals in the second half Saturday and defeated Army 10-7 for the national intercollegiate title. The score was tied four times after Army had led by three goals early in the third period.

Colavito's Homer In 10th Beats Tribe, 7-4

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ex-Indian Rocky Colavito's second home run of the game broke a 10th-inning tie and pushed the Detroit Tigers to a 7-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians Saturday.

Colavito connected against rookie Dick Stigman with two out and Red Wilson on first by way of an infield single. Chico Fernandez then tripled to right and stole home.

Going into the game with a .162 batting average, Colavito homered with the bases empty in the fourth inning and singled in the sixth. His 10th inning homer was his sixth of the season.

The Tigers scored four runs in the first five innings off Barry Latman, but Paul Foytack blew a 4-1 lead in the seventh. The Indians tied the score with a three-run rally.

To Hold Senior Edition Of National Open

NEW YORK (AP) — A senior edition of the National Open Golf Tournament will be staged in Oklahoma City Tuesday when an impressive group of touring professionals tries to qualify for the 1960 open.

This is just one of 13 sectional qualifying tests for the big event at Denver's Cherry Hills Club June 16-18. But the Oklahoma City field of 62 pros and four amateurs is as good as or better than a lot of first rate tournaments can draw.

It includes two former U. S. Open champions, Julius Boros and Lloyd Mangrum, Australia's Peter Thomson Charlie Coe, twice U.S. amateur champion, and former amateur champ Hillman Robbins, now a pro. There are three other Australians, two South Africans, a Canadian and a raft of outstanding American pros, including Jack Burke Jr., Johnny Palmer, Art Wall Jr., Bill Collins, George Bayer, Mason Rudolph, Don January, Doug Sanders, Paul Harney and Don Whitt.

The 36-hole sectional test will send 34 of these players into the field of 150 at Cherry Hills.

The sectional rounds begin Monday at four locations — Denver, Cincinnati, Mamaroneck, N. Y., and Seattle. The other nine will be played on Tuesday.

Vanderbilt Solution Must Satisfy Faculty

CHICAGO (AP) — A Chicago educator disclosed Saturday that he has suggested terms for settlement of a furor at Vanderbilt University over expulsion of a Negro student.

He is Dr. Walter J. Harrelson, dean of the divinity school at the University of Chicago who has been offered the post of divinity dean at the Nashville, Tenn., institution.

The student, the Rev. James M. Lawson Jr., was dismissed last March for his role in anti-segregation lunch counter sit-in demonstrations in Nashville.

Divinity Dean J. Robert Nelson and all but six members of the school's faculty resigned in protest. Dean Nelson's resignation was accepted, but no action was taken on the other 10 resignations.

Dr. Harrelson, who has already accepted a professorship at Vanderbilt, was offered Nelson's post.

He said Saturday in a statement that he cannot accept the acting deanship at Nashville until this condition is met:

"The settlement of the Lawson case in terms satisfactory to those members of the divinity school who have resigned."

"Such settlement immediately is an imperative necessity."

Lawson, meanwhile, enrolled Friday at Boston University.

Feel Nixon Has Public Support More Than Demos

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon's press aide claimed Saturday that Americans have more confidence in Nixon's ability than that of leading Democrats to deal with international problems.

In support of this contention, Herbert G. Klein produced a California poll made for the Los Angeles Times which gave the vice president a 13.8 per cent edge over Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) and an 8.3 margin over Adlai E. Stevenson in this field.

Klein said there was evidence indicating similar trends in other states.

He told reporters Nixon's call for "firmness without belligerence" in dealing with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is catching on with the voters.

"We believe the American people have confidence in the vice president's ability to represent the country in the foreign field," Klein said. "We are satisfied they feel he would deal effectively with Khrushchev at the proper time."

Nixon, as the likely Republican presidential nominee, has named Kennedy as his probable opponent in November.

The California canvass, made by Facts Consolidated Polls, represented 3,028 samples on a statewide basis, without reference to party affiliation.

Those polled were asked this question: "In view of the current East-West and world situation, which one of these men do you think would best represent the United States sitting across the conference table from Khrushchev?"

Klein said the results showed Nixon 48.4 per cent, Kennedy 34.6 per cent, no opinion 17 per cent. Against Stevenson, he said, Nixon polled 47.9 per cent, Stevenson 39.6 per cent, with 12.5 per cent having no opinion.

Minnesota Beats Detroit, 5-4, In District Finals

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Minnesota won a bizarre battle of strategy in the eighth inning Saturday and beat Detroit 5-4 to sweep into the NCAA National Baseball Tournament.

The Gophers climaxed a three-game slam through the District 4 playoffs by coming from behind for three runs as a Titans' pitching shuttle system broke down.

Coach Lloyd Brazil of Detroit alternated lefty Gary Mettle and righthander Don Osinski between the mound and rightfield but a triple by second baseman John Erickson and a single by pinchhitter Lee Brandt wrecked the strategy.

Earlier in the day Detroit eliminated Ohio 14-4 to advance against the Gophers with two victories and a defeat for the tournament.

Powers Cancels Proposed Trip To Visit Son

POUND, Va. (AP)—Oliver G. Powers suddenly called off Saturday his projected trip to the Soviet Union to see his son Francis, the imprisoned U2 spy plane pilot.

There was no explanation for the overnight change in plans of the 55-year-old shoemaker, sorely beset over the plight of his son, 33.

The man who was to accompany Oliver Powers, Sol W. Cury, said the trip is "definitely canceled for the time being, until a future date that can be more advantageous to his son's life and welfare."

Cury, vice mayor of Norton, Va., where Powers has his shop, said Powers told him he had received instructions not to make the trip at this time.

Powers was unavailable for comment.

Plane Crash Kills Three

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) A small plane disintegrated in flight during a violent thunderstorm Saturday and crashed in fragments, killing three persons.

The victims were identified as Leon Flowers, the pilot, and Mr. and Mrs. K. H. Lee, all of Columbia, S. C. The plane belonged to the Columbia firm of Investments Unlimited.

Pieces of the plane were widely scattered in brush lining the intercoastal waterway about 12 miles south of here. However, the bodies were found within 50 feet of each other.

A number of fishing camps are in the area and there were several witnesses to the crash. They reported the plane came apart immediately after a flash of lightning and a loud thunderclap.

CHAMP DINES WITH IKE

The President is there for the reunion of his military academy class at West Point.

Johansson was accompanied by his fiancee, Birgit Lundgren, and by Irving Kahn of the TelePrompter Corp. He planned to return after the dinner with the President.

DIVORCED—ONE WAY OR ANOTHER

LONDON (AP)—Judge Samuel Edgedale told Mrs. Leonard Stevenson she had no grounds for divorce because her husband was close-fisted with his cash. But he granted Stevenson a divorce because, he charged, she had attacked him with a wooden spoon, a broom, a saucepan, a knife and fork; blacked his eye, and committed adultery with a longshoreman.

Palmer, Snead Entered In 8th Cup, Trophy Meets

NEW YORK (AP) — Two Americans with five Masters titles and a pair of South Africans with five British Open championships to their credit are among 30 teams entered in the eighth annual Canada Cup and International Trophy golf matches in Dublin, Ireland, June 23-26.

The U.S. team consists of Arnold Palmer, current Masters champion and Sam Snead, who has won 105 tournaments. Snead has won three masters tournaments, Palmer two.

South Africa will field the 1959 British Open champion, Gary Player, and the putting master from Johannesburg who has won the British title four times, Bobby Locke.

The tournament over the Portmarnock course stacks up as a battle between these two teams.

Carefree Security In Manila—

If You Want To Find President Garcia, Ask Window Washer Or Upstairs Maid

By WARD CANNEL
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

MANILA—(NEA)—If you want to see Carlos Garcia, the president of the Philippine Republic, you merely walk into the presidential palace and look around.

If you don't find him in his living room, dining room, porch or bedroom, you ask somebody. Now it certainly would be unfair to shoot a man whose security system consists of a window washer and an upstairs maid.

So despite charges in the local press of inequity, corruption and vast centralization of power, most observers here do not believe the Garcia government will fall by violence. As one moderate puts it:

"What does Garcia need protection for? We Filipinos can't keep our mouths shut. If somebody were planning a revolution, everybody in the nation would hear about it."

As it turns out in the inscrutable East, the best reasons for revolution here are also the best reasons for leaving things alone.

● There is hardly a solid check, balance or opposition party to the Garcia government. No real anti-Garcia leader exists.

On the other hand, nobody stops the newspapers from charging, accusing, demanding, reporting or insinuating. Each morning brings a new barrage from the press.

● The government is reputed widely to be dipping into the till, stealing what belongs to the people.

On the other hand, taxation is not oppressive in Manila. In fact, the city runs at a profit while the national government runs at a loss. And no attempt is made to enforce the tax laws in the provinces.

● Close observers of the government say the high-level stealing is an organized business. Everybody seems to have a hand in it right down the line.

On the other hand, one recent appointment by Garcia has been a well-respected finance expert who has made a thorough investigation of several departments and has helped bring in about 1,000 indictments.

"Very true," says one radical. "They've all got theirs. It's all right to clean up after you've taken what you want."

Even the little, niggling problems that might make for sectional rivalries have built-in barricades against trouble.

From the 87 dialects spoken across the 7,000 islands of the Philippines, the government has selected Tagalog to be used as the national language. But before anybody could object, it developed that Tagalog was not suited to international diplomacy, commerce or inter-office memos because it had too few words, calling for loans like "pulis" or "taksi" (police, taxi).

It also turned out that President Garcia could not speak it. Consequently, English—or, rather American—is the national language by default.

● From time to time, the opposition attacks by charging that the Garcia government is selling the Filipinos out to American investors.

The answer to this charge comes not from the Philippine government, but rather from the U.S. where investment investigators and counsellors make sure everybody—including the Filipinos—knows that a business venture in the Republic requires considerable participation by local businessmen.

● It also has been impossible for government critics to shout that the Filipinos are being exploited when the richest resources of the country have never been tapped.

● But most important of all, an American diplomat presently working in Manila explained:

"The lesson of the U.S. is a tremendous deterrent in revolution in the Philippines and a force for democratic process.

"Our path from independence day has not been smooth or without corruption or trial. And the Filipinos know it. In fact, they often know more about our history than their own."

He cited a grade school essay he had seen in Quezon City a few days before. The subject: the cow. The child's explanation:

"The cow gives milk, but as for me give me liberty or give me death."

Step Up Pressure Campaign Against U.S. Japan Pact

TOKYO (AP)—Leftists stepped up pressure Saturday for junking of the new U.S.-Japanese defense treaty and cancellation of President Eisenhower's June 19-22 visit to Japan.

More than 9,000 radical students, teachers, and workers snake-danced before the closed iron gates of the U.S. Embassy, chanting such slogans as "Ike don't come," "Yankees go home," and "Remove the U2 from Japan."

Coupled with the massive demonstration was a nationwide three-hour transport shutdown which Socialist and Communist foes of Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi hoped would help force him to dissolve Parliament and submit to new elections. Trains, buses streetcar and postal services were affected.

There was no sign of compromise in the crisis over the military treaty, which automatically gains final ratification June 19 unless Parliament is dissolved earlier.

Ex-Soldier Missing In Plane Crash

MILWAUKEE (AP) — An 18-year-old recently-discharged soldier who loved flying was missing today in the crash of a light plane that authorities said was taken without permission from Gen. Billy Mitchell Airfield early Saturday.

The plane, which authorities said was taken from the local airport, crashed in Lake Michigan 19 miles east of Wilmette, Ill.

It had hit two other planes while taxiing into position for a wobbly takeoff, then was tracked by radar almost to the point where it plunged into the lake.

Sheriff's deputies identified the pilot of the single-engined Piper Super Cub as Ronald F. Plumley, 18, who was honorably discharged from the Army at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., only one week ago.

Army gloves marked with Plumley's name were found at the airport where the plane, owned by Midwest Airways Inc., had been parked. And Plumley's overnight bag and discharge papers were picked up by the crew of a Lake Michigan ore freighter, the Valley Camp, at the spot where the plane sank after circling low over the ship three times.

But Plumley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Plumley found it hard to believe that the pilot was their son.

"It could be our boy in that plane accident but there's nothing positive and it's difficult for me to believe it," said Mrs. Plumley. "I just can't believe it. I just can't. He was such a good boy. Why would he want to do it."

"He wasn't himself after he left the Army," the father said. "He had complained about pains in the side of his head. I took him to a doctor a few days ago."

Plumley said airplanes were "the love" of his son's life.

Mighty Market Force—

Never Mind The Change—Just Give Me The Trading Stamps

By SHEPHERD CAMPBELL
AP Business News Writer

Probably because they're too busy adding up their trading stamps.

Such is their singlemindedness that the tiny trading stamp, a retailing oddity just a decade ago, has become one of the mightiest marketing tools in U.S. business.

Three out of four American families save the colorful little coupons they collect "for free" on purchases ranging from gum to grand pianos. They paste the stamps in books and swap them for almost everything from ashtrays to European trips.

Lately, the stamps are even being bestowed on those who make savings bank deposits, vote in local elections and take tuberculosis tests.

What's more, churches, clubs and other groups have taken to collecting the stamps to acquire such costly items as organs, buses, and oxygen tents.

Probably the biggest stamp saver of all, the federal government, has yet to redeem any of its trading stamp treasure. Nobody knows how many stamps the government has tucked away or how much they might be worth.

Last fall the General Accounting Office decided federal employes must turn in stamps they receive on government business. Stacks of the stamps are now piling up at federal agencies.

On May 27 final approval was given a circular instructing federal offices that these and future stamps should be turned over to federal hospitals or be used by the local agency receiving them.

It is expected that the bulk of the stamps will go to hospitals, where patients will paste them in redemption books as part of their therapy. The institutions will redeem them for useable items.

An estimated 5,000 civic, charitable, church and school groups are cashing in on the stamp boom through group savings plans.

Group members pool the stamps and often stage public solicitation campaigns to obtain expensive merchandise. The plans are based on the finding that people will donate a book of stamps, worth say $3.50 at retail, more readily than they will pony up an equal amount of cash.

Psychologists say the stamps have caught on with the housewife because they give her a feeling of thrift, offer as rewards goods she might not otherwise be able to afford and create a feeling of getting something for nothing.

The explosive expansion of stamps has not gone unopposed. They have been fought grimly by strong elements in the retail trade. Anti-stamp bills have been offered to little avail, in more than 40 state legislatures.

Critics condemn trading stamps as a burden on the storekeeper and a fraud upon the housewife. Advocates hail them as a sales stimulant, a boon to small business, a thrift incentive and an anti-inflation weapon.

The stamps are not new. They cropped up first in dry goods stores during the 1890s. They fell from fashion prior to World War I and all but died out during the depression and World War II.

The stamp stampeded really got rolling after the Korean war. The boom began in the Midwest and rapidly spilled across the land.

Sales, the industry says, rose from 40 million dollars, or two per cent of total retail trade, in 1952 to 375 million dollars, or 10 per cent of total retail trade, in 1952 to 375 million dollars, or 10 per cent of retail trade, by 1956. Sales last year vaulted to 600 million dollars, or 15 per cent of retail trade.

Bomber Crashes In West Texas

Strategic Air Command officials identified the ship as one owned by the Convair division of General Dynamics Corp., which builds the 15-million-dollar craft in Fort Worth, Tex.

Deputy Sheriff Bob Hale at Crosbyton, near the scene, said peace officers had found no survivors but were told that a farm laborer saw a parachute billow from the plane.

The B58, a medium bomber named the "Hustler" and said to be capable of flying twice the speed of sound, normally carries a three-man crew.

A Convair spokesman in Fort Worth said a company-owned B58 "could possibly be in that area" but declined to confirm it had crashed.

The plane cracked up on a farm about 23 miles south and slightly east of the town of Ralls, which is 28 miles east-northeast of Lubbock.

Hale said the crash occurred about 6:30 p.m.

Officers at the scene radioed more than an hour later, he said, that "it's pouring down—the rain is falling so hard they can't investigate."

VIENNA (AP) — Hungary's Communist regime plans to send doctors to examine people over 95 to discover their secret of old age, the Budapest newspaper Nepszava reports. A copy received here said there are 26,000 over 95 in a Hungarian population of 9,800000. The oldest is a man of 105.

Interfaith Dialogue Grows In Importance

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

The word is dialogue.

It refers chiefly to the increasing number of informal contacts between clergymen of the Roman Catholic, Orthodox and Protestant faiths.

On the surface, dialogue seems aimless.

"One is not out to convert the other," says the Rev. John B. Sheerin, a Paulist Father who has followed the trend with interest. "But each comes away with a better idea of what the other fellow is thinking."

Dialogue might take various forms.

It could be, as happened in New York recently, a Catholic priest, a Lutheran pastor and a Dutch Reformed minister sitting down to dinner together and then engaging in a brisk but amiable theological discussion in the relaxed atmosphere of after-dinner cigars.

Or it could be, as happened in Boston last month, a large number of Protestant ministers being invited to the Paulist Center to compare theology with several priests over coffee and cookies.

The idea of dialogue is running particularly strong among Catholics.

More and more articles are appearing in Catholic journals of opinion like Commonweal and America, re-examining Protestant-Catholic relations with the emphasis on points of similarity.

Father Sheerin attributes the heightened Catholic interest to Pope John XXIII's announcement in January, 1959, of the coming ecumenical conference of the Church.

While the conference concerns itself strictly with Catholic matters, the Pope added that it "is intended also as an invitation to the separated communities in quest of unity."

Those who have taken part in dialogue emphasize that it is not a magic carpet over which the dissenting churches will move swiftly and spectacularly to Christian unity.

WOMAN HUMAN GUINEA PIG

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP)— Mrs. Carrie May Nichols of Johnson City, Tenn., says she is a guinea pig for scientists at this atomic city and very happy with the arrangement.

"I've had $10,000 worth of treatments during the past 15 years for a leukemia condition, and all free," she says.

Mrs. Nichols, 73, travels from her home for regular treatments which are now injections of irradiated phosphorus.

She adds she's helping the scientists all she can. At the Oak Ridge Institute of Nucler Studies recently she was wheeled into a conference room where 40 top specialists from across the country were gathered.

"I listened to them and learned all about myself," she says.

★ GRAYSON'S SCOREBOARD ★

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

PHILADELPHIA—(NEA)—The Braves ran second three times and staggered in third for four years while looking for a second baseman.

Then they obtained 34-year-old Red Schoendienst from the Giants and won two pennants and a World Series. Last season Schoendienst was stricken by tuberculosis and the Milwaukee club lapsed back into its old habit of finishing second, beaten in a playoff.

Charley Dressen wasn't counting on Schoendienst this spring, but the radiant redhead bounced out of the sick bay at 37 to erase the only flaw the new manager saw in the Braves' armament.

Now Dressen is looking for another 37-year-old to fill the softest position on the field—left field. And unless the irritated tendon in Wes Covington's heel heals within the next few days, Dressen is likely to start checking hospitals for another patient like Schoendienst. Maybe he ought to call up Bill Shea and Branch Rickey. They claim they know where to get athletes to start a whole new league.

When a manager wants to hide a good hitter defensively, he assigns him to left field which baseball people contend should be played in a rocking chair by everybody but Hector Lopez. At least that was the contention before inept flychasers created the bugaboo about the post at Yankee Stadium.

• • •

With all of Lou Perini's money and business acumen and the Braves' dozen farm clubs, scouts and bird dogs, it seems strange that the outfit can't press the button for an outfielder as it did three years ago when Bob Hazle was called up from Wichita to hit a long ton. But, then, there are clubs like the Red Sox and Phillies which are seeking not only a lone flychaser but a new deal all the way down the line.

Dressen has been alternating Al Spangler, a speed boy, and Mel Roach, a second baseman by trade, in left field, but neither has hit enough to stay there.

Unless Covington gets back on two good pins shortly and finds the range that made him a big player two years ago, Dressen says he will ask the front office to do something about the situation. He speaks of Lee Maye, the left-hand swatter with Louisville, and Jim Bolger, the right-hand swinging ex-Cub, with Sacramento.

• • •

"San Francisco is the club to beat with its pitchers and wind in Candlestick Park," says Dressen, whose Braves already have 10 rained-out games to make up. "The Pirates are the only club that has hurt us to date, winning six of the first eight. And the Braves made a living off the Pirates until I came.

"We can win the pennant with a solid hitter in left field, but I can't wait for Covington much longer."

Dressen naturally would have preferred to play every day, but because of his plethora of pitchers sees the postponements as an ally. Charley, the manipulator, isn't going to be caught short in the pitching department. He has seven starters—Warren Spahn, Lou Burdette, Bob Buhl, Juan Pizarro, Carlton Willey, Bob Rush and Joey Jay—and three firemen—Don McMahon, Ken McKenzie and Ron Piche, the latter two brought up from Indianapolis and Louisville, respectively.

Despite the mess of inclement weather, Dressen hasn't let his secondary pitchers go to pot, so a solid pitching front will be ready for double-headers and make-up games.

Senators Rout Orioles For 4th Straight, 7-1

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Washington Senators continued to scuttle the shuttle series with the Baltimore Orioles Saturday, whipping the league leaders 7-1 for their fourth straight victory.

Despite the loss, Baltimore maintained its 1½-game margin over the second-place Cleveland Indians, who lost to Detroit in a 10-inning day game, 7-4.

The Orioles, who have a losing 9-10 record against southpaw pitching, managed only six hits off Washington lefty Chuck Stobbs who hurled the first seven innings.

Stobbs, making a comeback after an 1-8 record last season, won his third in four decisions. He struck out eight, walked one, and didn't allow a runner past second base until Ron Hansen hit his fifth home run leading off the seventh.

Crown Pittsfield Queen At Little League Opener

PITTSFIELD — The Little League Baseball season opened on Friday night, with Mayor Frank Penstone throwing out the first baseball. The first game was won by the Lions over the Jaycees 3-0.

Vickie Wombles

Between the two games there were ceremonies with Moe Klingle as master of ceremonies. A box of candy was presented to the oldest grandmother of a Little Leaguer present by the Jaycee president, Albert Ransom, to Mrs. Jerry Carnes, 75, who was escorted to the stand by her grandson, Stevie Hammitt. Next was the last year's Little League Queen, Sandra Spellman, escorted by Mike Lowry and Paul Crowder. Then the three finalists, Irlyn Little, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Little, escorted by Dana Boyd; Sharon Voelker, 12, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Carl Voelker, escorted by Doug Oakley and Vickie Wombles, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Wombles, escorted by Bob Browning.

The winner, Vickie Wombles, was crowned by last year's queen and received a little cup and an arm bouquet of red roses. Vickie is 11 years old and will be 12 on June 16. She is a talented girl, plays the tenor saxophone, winning a first in the district and a first in the state and a scholarship to the Little Egyptian Music Camp in Duquoin.

Awards were then presented to the Little Leaguers selling the most candy for the benefit of the league, 1st to Dennis Lowe, a ball glove; 2nd, to Craig Findley, ball shoes; 3rd, to Charles Giger, a bat, and 4th to Ronnie Dell, a ball.

The managers of the teams were introduced and they in turn introduced all the boys on their teams: Rotary, Eldon Atwood and Curt Akin; Jaycees, Bob Groom; K. of C, Brice Irving and Leland Wahlgren; Lions, Bill Kattleman and Moose, Dick Frazier. Umpires, Bob Harrick and Dana Boyd.

The second game was then played with Moose winning from the Rotary 3-0. A large crowd was on hand to join in the festivities.

CHAMPAIGN CONTRACTORS END STRIKE

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — The Champaign County Contractors Assn. Saturday accepted an arbitration offer by Local 44 of the Carpenters Union ending a strike which has tied up construction work for nine weeks.

Richard Foley, president of the contractors' group, said work will be resumed Monday.

The accepted offer calls for the signing of a two-year contract with an immediate 30 cents an hour wage hike and arbitration for an additional increase up to 5 cents an hour. Carpenters earned $3.40 an hour before the strike.

The Iron Workers Union also struck nine weeks ago but reached terms 10 days ago calling for 30 cents an hour increase, bringing their pay up to $3.80 an hour.

Construction stalled by the strike included work on several dormitories and the huge basketball arena as well as numerous other projects on the University of Illinois campus and in the Champaign-Urbana area.

99 MacMurray College Seniors To Graduate In Ceremonies Today

It is necessary to "cut the cords of the past," Dr. Louis W. Norris writes in his book "The Good New Days," if one is to be happy.

In Annie Merner Chapel Sunday afternoon, 99 MacMurray College students will be doing just that as they receive diplomas at 109th commencement.

As "the good old days" at MacMurray become history, 86 women and 13 men will receive degrees in eight academic fields. Graduates will include 17 students from the Jacksonville area and seven from Springfield. Sixteen states and four foreign countries will be represented.

The occasion will signal a new chapter in MacMurray annals when Dr. Norris speaks on "We Know In Part," and receives an honorary Doctor of Literature degree. In 25 days, he will end an eight-year tenure as president of MacMurray, with Dr. Gordon E. Michalson of Garrett Biblical Institute becoming new president July 1.

Program Opens At 4 p.m.

Commencement activities start at 4 p.m., with the traditional processional from MacMurray Hall, across South Clay, and into the front of the chapel. Honorary degrees will be presented to Dr. Norris, Lillian E. Schlagenhauf, Illinois Senator from Quincy, Henry Pflager, a prominent St. Louis attorney, Rev. Birger Dahl, District Superintendent of the Methodist Rock River Conference and Rev. Harvey E. Dibrell, pastor of Centenary Methodist church, Jacksonville.

The day begins with morning baccalaureate services at 10:45 in Merner Chapel. Delivering the sermon will be Dr. Dwight E. Loder, president of Garrett Biblical Institute. He will speak on "When The First Are Last."

An hour of music will be presented at 2 p.m. in Ann Marshall Orr auditorium that afternoon. The public is invited to attend all activities. The complete list of all graduates follows:

Pistol Wounds Small Girl In Left Shoulder

Judy Wilson, two and one-half year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wilson, 1147 Hardin avenue, was slightly wounded by the accidental discharge of a .22 caliber pistol Saturday afternoon at her home.

According to police who investigated the accident, Jimmy Wilson, 10 year old uncle of Judy, had obtained the pistol from a gun rack and was examining it when the weapon discharged.

The bullet creased the top of the little girl's left shoulder but did not lodge in the flesh. She was taken to Our Saviour's hospital where several stitches were taken to close the wound, and she was able to return home.

The accident occurred at 1:47 p.m.

Blood Council Formed To Serve Scott County Area

By Dorothy Sauer
(Winchester Correspondent)
(Telephone PIoneer 2-3439)

WINCHESTER — Twenty-six representatives from all parts of Scott County were in attendance at an organization meeting held this past week in the Legion Hall in Winchester for the purpose of forming a Blood Council to meet the needs of the Blood Program. Mrs. Norbert Hutchens and Mrs. W. E. Harper are serving as co-chairmen of the Bloodmobile. Mrs. Homer Rockwood is chairman for Scott county of the American Red Cross.

Miss Beth Sprague of the St. Louis area office was present at the organization meeting and explained the urgent need for blood, the functioning and requirements of the Blood Program. She told of the surprisingly high cost of operating the Bloodmobile and the need for skilled technicians as well as the volunteer help.

The Council urges all in the county to seriously consider the urgent need for blood and the necessity of the county reaching its quota in order to remain in the blood program.

The next Bloodmobile visit will be held in Winchester at the Legion Hall commencing at 12 noon and closing at 6 p.m.

Vacation School

The First Baptist Church in Winchester is again sponsoring their annual Vacation Bible School commencing this Monday, June 6, through June 10 from 1:30 in the afternoon until 4:30 p.m. Children from fourth grade through eighth grade are invited to attend. The theme of this year's school is "The Church."

Mrs. Paul Steckel and Mrs. Robt. Worrell are co-chairmen of the school. Mrs. Richard Blackburn is chairman of the refreshment committee. Refreshments will be served at each session of the school.

Bridal Shower

Mrs. Russell Moseley, the former Miss Ruth Anne Sipes, was honored on this past Friday evening with a bridal shower held at 8 p.m. in the Winchester Legion Hall. Approximately forty friends and relatives were in attendance. Hostesses for the party were classmates of the bride, Miss Janice O'Donnell, Miss Peggy Coughlin, Miss Phyllis Akers, Miss Sharon Shafer, Miss Karen Wilson and Miss Sandra Cowhick.

The gift and refreshment tables were covered with white clothes touched in yellow and grey. Large, white wedding bells hung from the sides of the tables. The refreshment table was also centered with a large bouquet of yellow and white daisies and white mock orange.

Following the opening of the many lovely gifts, bingo was in play.

Mrs. Wilbur Robertson Bruner

Jean Stewart, Wilbur Bruner United

Miss Jean Stewart, daughter of the Malcolm F. Stewarts, 1042 Grove street, and Wilbur Robertson Bruner of Pleasant Plains were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, May twenty-eighth, at First United Presbyterian church, Dr. Stewart received the couple's vows during a service opened by the pastor, Reverend Frederick Tyrrell. The bride's father escorted her to the altar where he gave her in marriage before completing the ceremony.

Mr Bruner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur E. Bruner of Pleasant Plains.

The front of the church was decked with white glads, ferns and palms. Slim white tapers burned in candelabra at the altar. Robert Wegehoft of Arenzville presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Miss Sara Lou Gunst of Minneapolis, Minnesota, who sang "O Promise Me," "The Song of Ruth" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Miss Beth Krohn of Hinsdale was maid of honor and Miss Nancy Robson and Miss Mary Bossarte, both of this city, were bridesmaids.

The attendants were gowned alike in ballerina length appliqued white nylon over aqua taffeta. The sleeveless frocks featured tiered ruffle bustle effect at center back of the skirts from waist to hemline. Each wore an aqua net picture hat, white button gloves and slippers matching their hats.

Gowned In White Wedding Dress

The lovely bride wore a formal gown of white eyelet embroidered nylon organdy falling floor length with a Chapel train. The fitted bodice had a Bateau neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. Her veil of French illusion was attached to a crown of sequins and seed pearls and she carried an arm bouquet of white glads, cascaded with English ivy.

Mrs. Stewart wore for Jean's wedding a bone linen costume with pink accessories and pink carnations at the shoulder. The bridegroom's mother chose blue eyelet embroidered nylon with matching color accessories. Her flowers, pink roses, were in a wrist corsage.

Reception Follows

A reception was held in the parlors at the David A. Smith House, Illinois College campus, immediately following the church service.

The bride's table was lace covered and centered with a three tiered wedding cake. Decor followed an aqua and white color combination and appointments were in silver and crystal.

Mrs. Russell Bronson and Mrs Leigh Cox cut and served cake and Miss Judy Vieth presided at the punch bowl. Assisting were Miss Nancy Leigh Cox, Miss Constance Bump, Miss Carolyn Davidson, Miss Nancy Middleton was in charge of gifts and Miss Barbara Hitt registered the guests.

When the couple left for a honeymoon to New Orleans, the bride was wearing a white polished cotton sheath with sapphire blue accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruner will make their home in Champaign where the bride is completing her college work this summer at University of Illinois. Mrs. Bruner graduated from Jacksonville High School and Mr. Bruner from Pleasant Plains High School. He is now attending St. Louis School of Pharmacy.

Editorial Comment

Disqualified

Americans read with shock the story of the collapsing grandstand which killed two and injured scores at the Indianapolis Speedway. But that was not the real horror.

The horror was that hundreds could sit within 10 to 50 feet of the tragedy and display brutal, callous, unbelievable indifference to it.

They could look upon a toppled stand with dozens caught in a tangle of metal and bodies. They could hear moans and screams.

Did they rush in force to help the dying and the injured? They did not. A few dug into the wreckage to help extricate the victims. The rest somehow shut their ears and closed their eyes. They went on casually drinking beer and munching fried chicken.

They had come to see an automobile race, and they did not intend to allow the sound of human distress—however close—to distract them.

Often we hear it said that, no matter how indifferent people may be to the difficulties of those remote from them, they respond fully and quickly when trouble strikes close by. This accident was at the spectators' very feet—and they merely looked away.

Their terrible unconcern for humans in trouble is a staggering commentary on this selfish age of ease and comfort.

These people are takers, not givers. They put their personal pleasure and comfort above all. Even that ultimate cry, the scream of a human being in pain, falls on deaf ears.

One wonders how many among them pay homage to the abstract idea of "human welfare." They had a chance to make it a living thing, and they failed shamefully.

One wonders, too, how many among them vote for a president who perhaps promises to help the little fellow. At Indianapolis, some little fellows had a chance to help their own—and they turned it down.

Those who did are back at work or at home now. But they are not the same, nor will they ever be again. They left part of their individual humanity at that race track. They just sloughed it off, with another bite of chicken and a swig of beer.

They may have seen a race. But while they watched it they fell out of step with the human race.

Committee Of The Whole

The country can only benefit if the Senate Foreign Relations Committee inquiry into the U-2 incident is as soberly and responsibly conducted as chairman J. W. Fulbright intends it to be.

He has set all the right ground rules, including closed door sessions with censored reports released to the public. In launching the inquiry, he has also fortunately gained the unanimous support of all committee members of both parties.

Nevertheless, the partisan clamor already stirred on this issue suggests it will be extremely difficult to keep committee findings from being used by both sides as political ammunition in this presidential year.

It is not in the nature of politicians to sit on material they think may cut the ground from under their opponents at the polls. This does not mean they will consciously and deliberately exploit trouble at the risk of our security and our position abroad. Many will act with some restraint. Others will be able to persuade themselves that their political interest coincides with the national interest.

Already there have been a good many careless and intemperate remarks about the U-2 affair. They are blunders, and as such they do nothing to clarify but indeed only confuse Americans' understanding of the events surrounding the incident.

The committee is looking into whatever mistakes our government may have made in that connection, and from it we should expect a solid, factual, unemotional report.

No committee will measure the blunders of the politicians who unwisely distort the story. We will have to trust that the American people themselves will make that necessary judgment. They will hold a rather large committee meeting of their own next November.

New Styles Are the Spice Of Life for Any Woman

A psychologist (a man, obviously) says that a sophisticated, mature woman will find one simple style that suits her and stick to it instead of quickly adopting every latest fashion whether it is especially becoming or not.

If he's right very few of us women can qualify as being sophisticated, mature women. For whatever our age, most of us are pushovers for the latest fashion.

Oh, we may hold out for a little while and tell our friends that we just aren't going in for a fashion that at first glance leaves us cold. But the first time we go to a party and feel conspicuously dowdy because everyone but us is right in style, we are more than ready for any new look. We just can't bear to be different.

And then, too, being feminine we love change. One style may be more becoming to us than any other, but we tire of it quickly anyhow.

That is why we do our best to look sweet and girlish one season, sophisticated the next, and boyish the season after that.

We get as much of a kick out of trying to change our personalities by changing the style of our clothes and our hairdos as we do by pushing furniture around the living room for the simple reason that we are tired of looking at it, as it is.

And fortunately our men don't seem to mind. Oh, they set up a howl now and then when a fashion is too hideous (like the sack dress) but most of the time our quick changes seem to amuse them and they like to have us dressed in the latest fashion.

Maybe they don't want us to be "sensible" any more than we crave to be sensible. So there's probably no reason for us to worry about not being sophisticated, mature women who have sense enough to find a becoming fashion and stick with it.

Change is much dearer to the feminine heart—and a lot more fun, to boot.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviets — meaning Premier Nikita Khrushchev — are sticking their noses right into the middle of the American presidential election campaign.

Khrushchev has said repeatedly he wouldn't, even if he could, butt into the election. But he has done it repeatedly.

He did it again on Thursday—in a letter to four Democratic leaders — by blasting the Eisenhower administration and Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the most likely Republican presidential candidate.

Every four years the American voters choose a president according to traditional and well-known reasons: His political party, his social and economic views, his manner, his judgment, his record, if any.

A candidate's ability to deal with some head of a foreign government on a face-to-face basis has never been a factor.

But Khrushchev by his tactics now is forcing voters to do some thinking about a problem he is pushing high into their consciousness: How would a candidate deal with Khrushchev? Would he be tough? Soft? Firm?

It would be easy to conclude, from what Khrushchev has already said, that he wants the Republicans to lose the election. For example:

1. He blames the Eisenhower administration for wrecking the summit conference.

2. He doesn't want another conference until after the election, which means he doesn't want another one with President Eisenhower.

3. He links Nixon directly into his blame on the Eisenhower administration for the summit collapse.

4. And he has ridiculed Nixon.

When he heard Eisenhower might let Nixon sit in for him for a while at the summit conference — this was before it started — Khrushchev hooted at the idea by saying:

That would be like "sending the goat to take care of the cabbage."

In his letter Thursday he made Nixon part of what he called a "whole chain of acts" on the part of the Eisenhower administration leading up to the summit fiasco.

But while all this can be interpreted as out and out anti-Republican, Khrushchev on his visit to the United States last September said he could not see much difference between Democrats and Republicans.

He repeated that theme obliquely Thursday:

"We know that there are two major political parties in your country, but the foreign policy of the U.S.A. is said to be bipartisan."

The Nixon followers already are trying to make capital of the idea that the vice president, if elected president, would be just the one to cope with the roly-poly Khrushchev.

Nixon's press secretary, Herbert Klein, put it this way: "The American people have confidence in his (Nixon's) ability to handle international relations with Russia."

When the summit began to topple under Khrushchev's assault in May, four Democrats wrote to Eisenhower in Paris, asking him to pass on their views to Khrushchev.

These four were: Adlai E. Stevenson and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, both with their eyes on the Democratic presidential nomination; Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, and Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

They told Khrushchev all Americans were behind Eisenhower in a desire for peace. Khrushchev's answer — blaming the summit crackup on the Eisenhower administration — was greeted by Johnson this way: It is an "Arrogant denial of the facts."

Eight-year-old King Pepy II of ancient Egypt learned that a traveler was en route home from mid-Africa, his boat carrying great treasures and a dancing pigmy. The boy-king sent orders by return boat to: guard the pigmy so he wouldn't fall overboard; appoint "excellent people" to sleep with him; inspect the pigmy's tent 10 times nightly. About the treasures, Pepy didn't concern himself.

Baseball Score Is Happiness For This Active Golden-Ager

BY MARIE DAERR

This is the 40th season Miss Dudley has occupied the same seat in her American League city ball park.

She supports herself and finances her $120 season ticket by working as a school guard, five days a week; by doing housework on Saturdays and by selling greeting cards, dresses and her homemade bread and coffee cake.

"That ticket is my one indulgence, and it's worth every bit of the money," Miss Dudley said. "Baseball has made dozens of friends for me."

The friends include the regulars who have seats in the same section as Miss Dudley. Each Christmas, she decorates her neat-as-a-pin three-room apartment and holds an open house in which the past baseball season is reviewed and the one coming up happily anticipated.

For the past 12 years, Miss Dudley has kept a scrap book on the home team. It includes not only clippings about her favorite players, but also such treasures as letters from team managers and players, thanking her for her loyalty.

Once, through a sportswriter, she got a chance to air her views to the manager.

"I was pretty tough with him," Miss Dudley reminisced. "But the next time I went to the ball park I gave him a box of my cookies."

Her cookies—and recipes—also have been passed around to players' wives who sit near her.

Miss Dudley's interest in baseball started when she was a youngster in a little town. She can quote statistics with lightning speed. And she prescribes cures for team ills equally easily.

"Baseball has been my life," she says. "I don't need to go to a golden age club for my fun.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

Prophets of Today

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

It is partially justified by the role of the prophet in ancient Israel. Either by divinely inspired intuition or by a keen appraisal of events, the prophet made his prediction of things to come and sought to arouse the people from impending doom.

But even in Israel the more familiar role of the prophet was as a soothsayer rather than a foresayer.

A conspicuous example was the prophet Amos, a clear-visioned farmer who came from the open spaces into the crowded city, laying bare its perversions and corruptions, especially those of religion itself.

The prophet was a social reformer and more. He was not a mere do-gooder. He struck at the very roots of life and thought.

I have been impressed with the men and women who are assuming this prophetic role in life today.

Many of them are distinctly religious, either churchmen or those on the fringes of religious organizations whose interest is in truth and right, in soundness of social thought and well-being.

We are wont to dwell upon the faults and limitations of journalism.

But beyond and beneath all this is a serious, morally dedicated journalism, that to me is in many ways society's greatest asset and hope.

When I can I never fail to see such TV programs as "Face the Nation" and "Meet the Press." I am always struck with the earnest, uncompromising purpose of the members of the panel to get at the facts and the truth.

National capitals tend to reveal what is best and what is worst in national life.

In my native Canada I think it is probably more true of the provincial capitals than of Ottawa, but in Washington, D.C., I think there is undoubtedly concentrated the highest idealism, the most serious purpose in government, along with the worst aspects of politics.

The same contrasts are found, I believe, in personal character and social ideals and ways.

The fact that the consumption of alcoholic liquor in Washington far exceeds that in the rest of the country is a partial index of political and social conditions. I have often wondered what a modern Amos coming to that capital would think and say.

Actually there is in Washington such a prophet. He does not come from the farm or field, but he has brought to American journalism the stern discipline of his upbringing in a Scottish Presbyterian home.

The discipline is not less stern because it is tempered by a deep sense of humor and a broad humanitarianism that is devoid of cynicism.

The prophet I speak of is James Reston, Washington correspondent of the New York Times, whose articles now appear also in the Boston Herald.

More than any other, as I see it, this newspaperman is speaking to the country in what he calls "the faith, purpose, and values of our society."

Any Pandowdy Is Dandy But Try It With Rhubarb

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Food and Markets Editor

We had a grand-aunt who lived many years ago in Nunda, N.Y., on the canal. She was a wonderful cook and used to tell us about the "pie plant" that grew in the garden back of her beautiful white house.

Her recipe for rhubarb pandowdy is a little faded, but we've brought it up-to-date in a modern old-fashioned way.

There are many varieties of rhubarb but the only important distinction is between the "forced" or hothouse rhubarb and that grown in the field.

Fresh Rhubarb Pandowdy
(Yield: 6 to 8 servings)

Combine 6 cups (2 pounds) diced fresh rhubarb, 1¼ cups sugar, 2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca and ½ teaspoon salt. Turn into a 10 by 6 by 2-inch baking dish. Dot with 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Set aside while making topping.

Topping: Sift 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour with 3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, and 2 tablespoons sugar into a mixing bowl. Add 1/3 cup shortening and cut it in until the mixture resembles coarse crumbs.

Add enough milk (2/3 to 3/4 cup) to make a soft dough. Turn out onto a lightly floured board and knead lightly about 20 seconds.

Roll into a rectangle slightly larger (11 by 7 by ½-inch) than the baking dish. Place over the top. Turn under the edge and anchor it to the rim. Flute with fingers or with a fork. Cut 3 to 4 gashes about ½-inch long in top to allow for the escape of steam.

Bake in a preheated hot oven (425 degrees F.) 15 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate (350 degrees F.) and continue baking 35 minutes or until browned and cooked underneath.

If crust has a tendency to become too brown before the underside is done, cover with aluminum foil. Serve warm or cold, rhubarb side up.

Monday's dinner: Beef and mushroom loaf, canned beef gravy, stuffed baked potatoes, garden peas, enriched bread, butter or margarine, sliced tomatoes, rhubarb pandowdy, coffee, tea, milk.

Friends, Foes Square Of. On Wheat Price Props, Acre Control

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—A plan to let farmers vote on whether they favor junking federal crop controls, as a way to end overproduction of wheat, is running into rough sledding in Congress.

Oddly enough, some of those who would do away with the controls are battling the plan.

Leading a long drive to get the government out of the business of controlling the production and prices of farm products is the Eisenhower administration. Joining it, but without political connection, is the strong America Farm Bureau Federation.

On the other side of this issue are many Democratic and some Republican farm leaders in Congress, the National Farmers Union and, to some extent, the National Grange.

Oppose Referendum

The fight is centered at the moment on a bill approved recently by the House Agriculture Committee which would authorize a referendum of wheat growers. They could choose between a program of tighter controls and higher price supports than prevail now or a program abandoning all controls and offering greatly reduced price supports.

It would appear, at first blush, that the administration and the Farm Bureau would welcome such a referendum. Both contend that most farmers want to get away from controls.

But both are working behind the scenes in an effort to bottle the measure in the House Rules Committee. This committee largely determines which bills will be brought out on the floor for debate and vote.

The Farm Bureau puts its opposition to the referendum proposal on two grounds— one involving governmental philosophy and the other economics.

Up To Congress

The big farm organization contends that the responsibility of determining future wheat programs, whether they are based on controls or not, rests with Congress and the President and not with growers. This argument is based on the fact that the nation as a whole is affected by such programs, not just growers of the grain.

The Farm Bureau points out that taxpayers, consumers, transportation agencies, processors, traders, manufacturers of farm machinery and a host of other groups are affected by crop programs. If supports are high, the consumer pays more. If controls are tight, less grain moves through channels of commerce.

The economic objection — in which the administration concurs — is based on a comparison between the proposed tighter control and higher price support plan and the freedom-to-grow method.

Loaded For Controls

The Farm Bureau and administration critics contend the House bill, supported in committee exclusively by Democrats, is loaded in favor of the control plan. That is, they say, benefits offered by this plan are so great that a wheat grower could well afford to turn it down no matter how he felt about controls as such.

Hereford, Angus Cattle Breeders Plan Meetings

URBANA—Illinois Hereford and Angus breeders will travel to the University of Illinois June 5 and 12 for tours, judging and grading contests and informative talks.

Occasion for these events is the annual field days of the Illinois Hereford association and the Illinois Angus association. The Hereford breeders meet on June 5, while the Angus men move in June 12, reports livestock extension specialist H. G. Russell.

The June 5 program for Hereford breeders gets under way at 9:00 a.m. DST. They meet at the beef cattle farm for tours until the formal program begins at 10:30.

The group shifts to the Stock Pavilion for a potluck lunch at 12:30 p.m. After lunch there will be several talks, including one by Paul Swaffer, secretary, American Hereford association.

The Angus Field Day, June 12, begins at 9:30 a.m. DST with tours of the beef cattle farm. This group switches to Illini Grove for a potluck picnic dinner at 12:30.

Both programs adjourn at 3 p.m.

PROGRESSIVE PARTY SWEEPS ITU ELECTIONS

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The incumbent Progressive party swept all offices in the International Typographical Union election by a 2-1 margin, ITU headquarters announced Friday.

Not a single independent party candidate won a race in counting of ballots taken May 18 in the union's 800 locals.

ITU President Elmer Brown of New York City got 63,957 votes, and secretary - treasurer W.R. Cloud of Seattle, Wash., received 62,087 in running unopposed.

The other three Progressives re-elected to the union executive council were John J. Pilch of Chicago, first vice president by a margin of 47,182 to 22,598 for Clarence Abbott of San Francisco; A. Sandy Bevis of Vancouver, British Columbia, second vice president by 46,339 to 24,826 for Nicholas Williams of Toronto, Ontario; and Joseph Bailey of San Francisco, third vice president by 51,069 to 21,040 for George A. Flondor of Chicago.

FARM INCOME FACTS

In 1958 net farm income amounted to $1,066 per capita. Income for the rest of the U.S. population was $2,066 per person.

Hourly income for farm owners, operations for management and labor was 97c per hour compared to $2.13 for workers in manufacturing industries.

About 30% of farmers' income in 1959 came from work off the farm.

The average consumer can buy more food with an hour's income this year than he could in any of the past 20 years.

Advises Planting Recommended Crop Varieties

W. O. Scott, College of Agriculture agronomist, suggests weather-weary farmers of this area go slow on switching to earlier-maturing corn and soybean varieties.

There's still time to plant the varieties that have done best in the past, he says. Barring unusually early frosts, they will out-perform the earlier-maturing types.

"Recommended corn varieties planted in Champaign as late as June 12 have averaged around 26 per cent moisture at harvest," Scott pointed out. "This means that farmers who plant late run some risk of harvesting corn with higher than average moisture content. But chances of smaller yields from earlier-maturing varieties will usually offset this disadvantage."

He sets the late date for planting recommended varieties in this area at June 15.

Scott sees no reason for central Illinois farmers to switch from Adams or Shelby soybeans until around June 10 and advises them to stick to Harosoys and Hawkeyes until June 25. Assuming normal frost dates this fall, either one will still out-yield the early-maturing Chippewa variety, he says.

HEAT KILLS 100,000 CHICKENS

PETALUMA, Calif. (AP)—More than 100,000 chickens worth $150,000 were killed by 110-degree heat Thursday in Sonoma County, Virgil Station, county farm adviser, said.

A recent Bureau of the Census report shows that farm youth fall behind their city cousins in plans to attend college. Among the farm youth graduating from high school this year, less than one-third plan to attend college. In contrast, slightly more than half of the urban and slightly less than half of the rural nonfarm youth plan to go on to college.

The supply of corn on farms April 1 of this year was estimated at 2,088 million bushels, 15 per cent more than the year before. But farmers are rapidly using and selling their corn. Disappearance during the quarter ended April 1 totaled 1,006 million bushels, nearly 13 per cent more than in the same period last year.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

WHAT'S THE COST OF 'FARM PROGRAMS'

The office of Budget and Finance recently published a detailed tabulation of costs of various programs for the United States Department of Agriculture over a period of 10 years, including estimates for the years ending June 30 of this year and June 30, 1961.

In this tabulation the Department's programs are divided into two major groups: (1) programs predominantly for the benefit of farmers and (2) programs having multiple benefits to the general public. We will list the various programs of the United States Department of Agriculture and their estimated cost for the fiscal year 1960 (i.e., ending June 30).

PROGRAMS FOR FARMERS. Expenditures for the Agricultural Conservation Program will be about $244 million.

Soil bank programs are taking $5 million for the acreage reserve program and about $365 million for the conservation reserve program.

Price-support programs include loans made, $1,239 million; commodity purchases, $2,003 million; storage, handling and transportation, $774 million; interest and operating expenses, $513 million; and other program net expense, $103 million. These outlays will total about $4,632 million, but the net cost to the United States Treasury will be reduced by about $2,804 million, proceeds from the sale of commodities. Another $29 million is subtracted because it represents payments to the Veterans' Administration and the armed serivces for purchases of dairy products in excess of their normal requirements. Net cost of the CCC price-support program thus is set at $2,734 million.

The National Wool Act program will take about $94 million this fiscal year ending June 30. Acreage allotments and marketing quota administrative expenses will be about $41 million. The Sugar Act program will require $74 million.

The total net cost of these programs which are primarily for the benefit of farmers will be around $2,622 million this year. This compares with $3,957 million last year.

PROGRAMS HAVING MULTIPLE BENEFITS. Programs having foreign relations and defense aspects include sales of surplus agricultural commodities for foreign currencies which are taking $1,055 million. The program of famine relief in friendly foreign countries will take $115 million. International wheat agreement commitments cost $49 million. Transfer of bartered materials to supplemental stockpile costs $237 million. Payments to the Veterans' Administration and armed services for buying dairy products in excess of normal requirements, $29 million. Foreign currencies used by the military, $5 million.

Food distribution programs. The school lunch program is taking $164 million; the school milk program, $80 million; and other surplus food and disposal programs, $108 million.

REA and FHA loans, which are subject to repayment, are taking $325 million for the Rural Electrification Administration and $251 million for the Farmers Home Administration.

Programs for the improvement of agricultural resources, including research, meat inspection, disease and pest control, education, and regulation of markets, etc. Expenditures for the year ending June 30 are estimated as follows: Forest Service, $208 million; Agricultural Research Service, $172 million; Soil Conservation Service, $130 million; Extension Service, $64 million; marketing research and service (AMS), $40 million; Farmers Home Administration expenses, $31 million; and other expenses (including expenses of the Farmer Cooperative Service, Foreign Agricultural Service, Commodities Exchange Authority, Federal Crop Insurance Corporation and Rural Electrification Administration), $31 million.

The total cost of these multiple-benefit programs for this year is estimated at $3,084 million, compared with $3,134 million a year ago.

Find Gas In Sanitation, Storm Sewers

ALBION, N.Y. (AP) — A state of emergency was declared in this Orleans County village Friday after gasoline was detected in sanitation and storm sewers.

Five flash fires broke out within a two-hour period. Firemen said the fires were caused by igniting gasoline fumes. The damage, which was confined to basements, was minor.

William H. Murray, county civil defense director, said nearly 400 persons were asked to leave their homes when the gasoline was discovered. He said the families later returned to their homes, but were asked to avoid cooking and smoking.

Murray said civil defense crews had joined firemen to flush the storm and sanitation sewers.

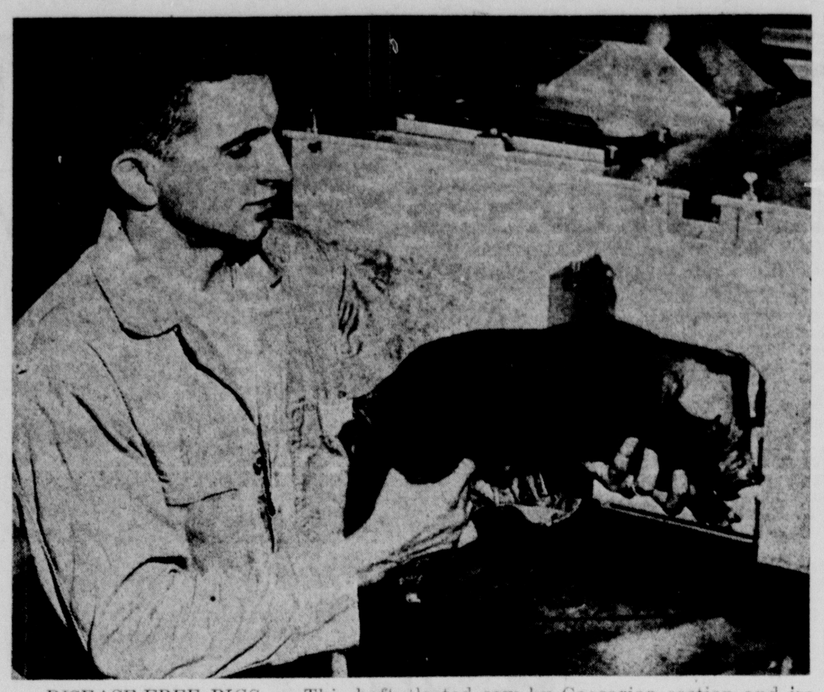
IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE



DISEASE-FREE PIGS — This hefty four-week old Duroc pig is among the first "disease-free" pigs to be produced by the U.I. College of Agriculture in an expanded livestock research program. He and some 175 other such pigs will form the initial breeding stock for a new animal breeding research farm.

He was taken from a specially selected sow by Caesarian section and isolated in an individual brooder for four weeks. Now he will join others on a sanitary finishing floor where they will enable researchers to study performance "uninhibited by specific disease conditions."

Morgan Farm Season Off To Bad Start; Different In 1860

National and state reports on weather and planting conditions on June 1 put the farmers of this area in a place of distinction—one they didn't cherish.

So far as the Cornbelt is concerned, Illinois was behind all the other states.

And so far as Illinois is concerned, southwest central Illinois was behind every other section in the state.

Some Morgan county farmers reported they got in only four days of field work during the entire month of May. A few others got in as much as seven days.

In the Cornbelt June began with far less corn planted than usual, an estimated 75 per cent of the total crop in, as contrasted with 88 per cent last year and 98 per cent in 1958.

At that date Illinois had less than 50 per cent of the crop in, and Morgan county had an estimated 25 per cent in, although 20 per cent could well have been a more accurate figure. Last year corn planting was virtually completed in Morgan, Scott, Greene, Cass and Pike counties.

On June 1 78 per cent of the farm reporters in Illinois reported a water surplus. In this area the figure was 100 per cent. Incidentally, the 78 per cent figure for the last week of May is the highest in the state since the cooperative crop reporting service was started more than 50 years ago.

No Drought Anywhere

The remaining 22 per cent reported "ample moisture." There wasn't a dry spot in the state, another unusual condition for the last week in May.

The period brought a banner planting time to northern Illinois. All of the central and southern portions were stopped for a time by excess water, with the southwest central section getting away too much rain. During the week 3.51 inches fell in Virden, 3.28 in Taylorville, 3.27 in Alton, 2.54 in Pleasant Hill and 2.26 in Jacksonville.

Wheat Is Promising

The wheat fields are looking very good. Growths has been excellent during the cool, wet spring; pests are almost non-existent. If June proves dry, the county will produce a bumper crop of high quality grain.

And, if June is warm and dry, the cornstalks will grow mighty high this year. Due to the longer hours of sunshine, corn planted in June usually grows a foot taller than that planted in May, providing there is ample moisture to sustain such growth. This will be noticed, if everything gets back to normal, by the man running the corn picker this fall. Tall corn is harder to harvest.

Oats, the few that were planted early, are also in prime condition. So are the legume seedings that went in at the same time. In some cases the young alfalfa plants are in such flourishing shape that they promise to present a problem at combining time.

But soybeans are far behind. The season will make for an unusual, probably a record-breaking, acreage in this section and at this time perhaps only five percent of them are planted. Some early plantings are having an uphill battle with the weeds and grass.

Different In 1860

If it's any consolation to anybody, this section of Illinois was highly favored a hundred years ago. And a Morgan county farmer raised the best corn in the state—127 bushels to the acre.

A committee appointed by the Illinois State Agricultural association checked a five acre field of corn raised by Caleb Letton of Jacksonville. The committee reported that field was a rich black loam, three-year clover and timothy sod, trench-plowed 10 inches deep in late summer, that he had planted away too much seed, but "that the sublime weather enjoyed during the past season more than compensated for this mistake."

Letton hadn't been stingy with the seed. He planted two bushels of "Peabody's Prolific" on the five acres, putting four to five kernels to the hill, 18 inches apart in 36 inch rows. The seed corn must have been pretty fancy, since it cost 50c a bushel.

A Money Maker

The committee figured the expense of raising the 637 bushels and 40 pounds of corn was $48.75. At 20c a bushel, the going price that fall, the return was $127.40, leaving a clear profit of $78.65, almost $16 an acre profit on land appraised at $30 an acre.

They found that it took four and a half days to trench-plow the ground, at a cost of $9. There were two days of harrowing, and a half-day was utilized to mark off the rows. Two hands planted the field in a single day, using Wakefield's hand planter. On May 28 and 29 it was plowed with a bull-tongue plow, at a cost of $2.50, and on June 7 and 8 it was plowed with a single-shovel, again at a cost of $2.50. June 19 was spent "splitting middles," $1 expense, and husking and cribbing in November was put at $25.

Wouldn't Pay Premium

The committee also noted that Mr. Letton farmed 48 acres in 1860, with the help of only one hand for six months at a charge of $11 per month. Although the members were highly impressed by the giant corn crop—the next best one they found was in Winnebago county with a yield of 83 bushels per acre—they were "not prepared to indorse this as a premium farm. If the labor of one or two men will secure such returns from the land, there is certainly no excuse for a general looseness, which we found prevailing about the premises. The fences are in generally sad repair and everything around the place needs picking up. Your committee can never be accessory to the payment of premium for slovenly farms—for it is too important an index of good farming to overlook. We do not, therefore, recommend the payment of the premium.

So, although the Morgan county farmer raised a record crop of corn, he didn't get the $25 prize offered by the society "for the best five acres of corn produced in the state."

Durn such a picayunish committee, anyhow!

Two Jacksonville Youths Eligible For Star Award

Delegates from the nearly 500 Future Farmers of America chapters in Illinois will gather in Springfield next week for the annual state convention. The sessions will begin Tuesday in the Illinois building at the state fairgrounds and will close Thursday.

Delegates from the Jacksonville high school chapter will be Clyde Werries of Jacksonville and Keith Van Bebber of Murrayville.

The Illinois Star Farmer and the Achievement Chapter will be announced during the convention.

Two Jacksonville members are on the eligible list for Star Farmer award. They are Clyde Werries, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Werries, rural route 1, and John Bourn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bourn, rural route 5.

The chapter adviser, Gerald Kuster, will accompany the local delegates to the convention. He has been the vocational agriculture instructor at Jacksonville high school for the past 11 years. He has resigned his post, and will leave Jacksonville about July 1 to make his home in Fort Collins, Colo., where he will be employed by an outdoor advertising concern. Mrs. Kuster will teach in the Fort Collins schools.

This Week.. at Dixon Springs

Last week on the Dixon Springs Experiment Station, a carload of wool weighing over 38,000 pounds was graded, bagged and sold. The top bidder on the entire load was the Boston Top Company. They paid an average price of 48 cents a pound. More than 100 local wool purchasers took the opportunity to sell through this wool pool.

This year marked the third time the University of Illinois Dixon Springs Station has cooperated and assisted in this cooperative marketing effort. Other cooperative marketing phases in which the Station assists are lamb pools, feeder pig sales and feeder calf sales.

Pastures In Abundance

Rainfall and fertility have produced an abundance of grazing. Some of our best pastures on the Station today are the first- and second-year pastures, in which the legume content represents at least two-thirds of the vegetative cover. Seeding mixtures generally contain about 6 pounds of grass and 13 to 14 pounds of mixed legume seeds. This proportion usually gives us the balance we are seeking.

Today's Activities

"Strawberry" Bill Courter and Raymond Enyart are picking the strawberry varieties. George Cmarik is busy forming the cow breeding herds. George McKibben is planting corn and making hay. Lee Gard is trying to get his corn irrigation plots planted ahead of approaching rainfall.

WILL COUNTY PLANS 'BIG EAR' CONTEST

The Will County Farm Progress show to be held Sept. 21-23 will offer $250 in cash prizes to Illinois farmers who grow the longest ear of corn.

There is no entry fee. Contest rules and details of the show are available from Joe Boyle, Jacksonville district sales manager of the Lowe Seed Co., Kankakee.

University of Illinois research indicates that dairy cows on corn or sorghum silage should also receive at least one pound of hay per 100 pounds of body weight.

4-H club work has invaded Chicago. More than 1,400 youth have worked in the Chicago 4-H program since it started three years ago. At present the program lists nearly 1,000 boys and girls. Thirty new clubs were formed for 1960, bringing the city's total to 66 active clubs.

Weed-killing chemicals that aren't handled properly can often do more harm than good. Vapors from such chemicals as 2, 4-D and 2, 4, 5-T can drift through the air and attack trees, shrubs and bushes. Excessive applications to control weeds in lawns may leach through the soil and injure tree roots.

Present Awards To Cub Scouts At Murrayville

Awards were presented as follows: Bear Book and service pin to David Irlam; silver arrow under the wolf badge, Bobby Fitzsimmons; silver arrow under the wolf badge and Bear Book, Brad Lawson.

W.S.C.S. Meets

The meeting was opened with a prayer by the president, Mrs. Arthur Wilson.

The minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. G. W. Hamilton, and the treasurer's report was read by Mrs. Robert E. Mutch.

Roll call was answered with a Bible verse containing the word joy.

It was voted to have a vacation in July and August, and the next regular meeting will be the first Thursday in September.

The worship service, "Set Apart For Me," was given by Mrs. Harry H. Rimbey.

The hymn, "Praise God," was sung. The program with the same title was conducted by Mrs. M. J. Benscoter.

The hymn, "Blest Be The Tie," was sung by the group. The meeting was closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Seed and family visited relatives at Bridgport from Friday until Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hall and family of Carrollton, Mr. and Mrs. Joyce Shafer and sons of Hillview and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hall of Jacksonville were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hall. Afternoon callers were Mrs. Lennie Chaudoin and children of Jacksonville.

Brad Lawson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lawson, is ill at home with hepatitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hawkins of Orion were dinner guests Monday of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hall and family.

'Wheat Day' June 14 On Royal Oakes Farm

Farm Adviser George Trull announces that the 30th annual Wheat Day on the Royal Oakes farm near Bluffs will be held Tuesday, June 14, beginning at 1 p.m.

Five specialists in small grains breeding, disease and insect control will be on hand to present reports on recent developments in their fields and to answer questions.

This year Oakes has 17 wheat varieties growing in a field along Naples Road, a quarter of a mile west of Route 100.

He will discuss the characteristics of the 17 varieties, and will point out what he finds are the strong points and the weak points of each one.

Specialists who plan to attend are Wayne Bever, plant diseases; John Pendleton, small grain varieties; Roland Weibel, plant breeder; H. B. Petty, insects; and J. C. Hackleman of the Illinois Crop Improvement association.

In the event of rain the program will be given in the high school auditorium.

LINCOLN LASSIES 4-H CLUB MEETS

The Lincoln Lassies 4-H club met May 31 at 542 Westgate avenue. President Sandra Hayes presided at the meeting.

Sue Ginder and Marilyn Sargeant were appointed as junior leaders. Sue Ginder gave a talk on first aid, and Dessa Barner gave a demonstration on how to thread a needle.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Paul Barnes. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, June 7.

BURNT TOAST, ANYONE?

Activated charcoal, which is highly absorbent, has been recommended widely as an emergency first aid treatment for poisoning. But, says the Arizona Poisoning Control Center, burnt toast doesn't turn into activated charcoal and is of no value.

As I See It

by E. W. BROWN

We see where the political parties are working on the TV networks for time to ballyhoo their presidential hopefuls in the months ahead. They figure that if TV can sell soap, sauce and soup, it's the most direct route to the hearts of the nation. But a top television man warns eager candidates that if they want free rent at the White House they'd better be photogenic, neat, and able to project sincerity over the air waves. It's one thing to confuse a voter roosting on a hard seat in the back of a big auditorium . . . but it's a rougher assignment to bamboozle a citizen relaxed in a soft chair while he gets a close-up of every wrinkle and twitch on a TV screen. That screen test may be a strain . . . for candidates and voters.

Every time a man puts a new idea across, he finds 10 men who thought of it first . . . but they only thought of it.

Our recent inventory of our used car lot shows a truly fine selection of good clean used cars. And we are offering these quality used cars to you now at prices far below their true value. Come in and test drive the ones of your choice soon. E. W. Brown, 406 South Main. Phone 5-4333.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A formidable array of police officers confronted Patrick Kohloff when he was stopped on a traffic charge.

Out of the patrol car stepped Police Chief Howard Johnson, Inspector Hugo Goehlen, Capt. Anton Komperda and a patrolman, who was driving his superiors home when they stopped Kohloff.

THE GANG'S ALL HERE

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Louis Milano rigged up an arrangement so his dog could get in and out of the apartment when nobody was home.

Recently the dog brought seven friends home. The eight of them made such a racket that neighbors called the police.

Book Binding History

By Susan Sorge

Editor's Note: The following essay won second prize in the seventh grade group of the Morgan County Historical Association's recent contest. Susan Sorge is in Grade 7 at Our Saviour school.

Beautiful Covers

The History of Book Binding is strictly the history of ornamentation for book covers. Before printing was invented, book binding was done mostly by missionaries or monks, who prepared the book for embellishment by goldsmiths and jewelers.

Perhaps the most enthusiastic royal patrons of the art, and the king's favorite was Henry the II and his wife Catherine de Medici. One of the finest collection of bound books that were assembled up to that time, was owned by Diana of Portiers.

Oak boards were first abandoned in favor of paper by the workmen who covered the books of the famous printer, Aldus of Venice in the 16th century, according to the tradition previous to his time even small books had stiff covers a quarter of an inch thick.

Coats Of Arms

In the 17th century the use of coats of arms fully displayed in gold, and occasionally in all the colors of the different bearings, became the most common adornment.

Dignity and sumptuousness provided metal mountings of all colors. When the books were heavy and very precious, clasps and brasses, four or five on each side, kept the leather and its ornamentation from being rubbed.

Modern Times

In modern times, the binding of books has shown a general tendency toward simplicity and durability, cloth and half-leather bindings being the most popular. Costly reference work and special editions of the classics are also made.

In England there has been a slight tendency to revive the almost lost art of elaborate design, but in America the work of binding runs more often toward an individual and suggestive art, including symbols and figures.

ROCKETS AND SPACE—

World's Smallest Efficiency Apartment

The new two-man chamber is equipped with: one-way observation ports, so the scientists can watch the subjects during the tests without them being disturbed or distracted by seeing them. Special lights for television and movie cameras; a waste water purification system.

Microfilters for removing lint and other bits of dust from the cabin's atmosphere, and a refrigeration system to control the temperature and humidity in the cabin. Like the old one-man chamber, the new one is equipped with a small air lock so biological specimens can be passed out.

The newer one-man chamber has many improvements over the older one-man chamber. It has an incinerator to dispose of all solid wastes. The gasses produced by this incinerator are taken care of by an after burner. In the one-man cabin all wastes had to be stored until the end of the test which, naturally, produced a storage problem.

The occupant of the smaller cabin had just enough room to sit or lie down in a rather cramped position. He could never stand up.

The new cabin has 380 cubic feet of space, four times the size of the older one-man cabin. This is large enough to permit the two occupants room to stand up and move about a little. Still the cabin isn't too large to be an accurate copy of a space ship cabin.

The two-man cabin needs only as many technicians to operate it as the one-man cabin. This is because the equipment in the newer chamber is miniaturized and made professionally to exact requirements. So it doesn't need as much maintenance as the older cabin's equipment does.

There is a greater sense of isolation in the two-man simulator than in the one-man simulator. In the older cabin the cameras are in plain view of the subject keeping him aware that he is being watched. This destroyed the similarity of the test to a space flight. In the newer two-man chamber the cameras are hidden behind the control panel and view the subject from unnoticeable openings.

Still the two cabins are alike in many ways. Both are equipped so that recorded music can be played by the subjects for relaxation. Isolation is an important study in both cabins. ATC psychologists feel that it will be more trouble for two people to adjust to each other for 30 days than for one man to live alone.

The tests in the one-man chamber deal mainly with mental problems of isolation. The tests in the two-man cabin, however deal more with physiological problems. The test will be aimed at finding men who are physically and mentally suited to be astronauts.

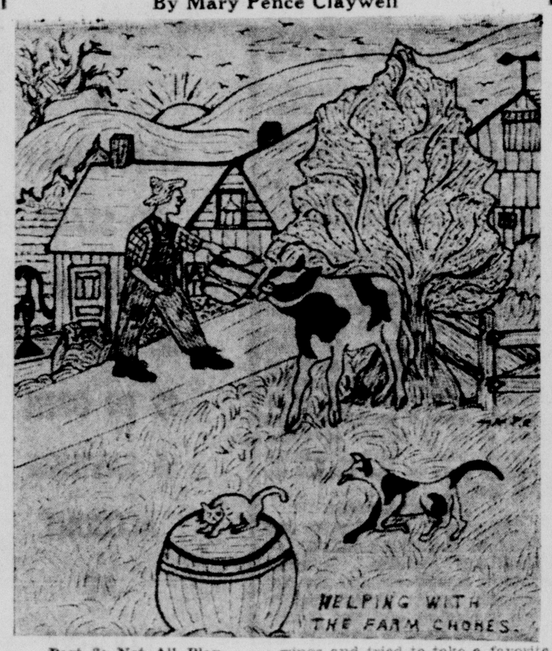
Vacation Time Fun

By Mary Pence Claywell



Part 3: Not All Play

Dear boys and girls, I hope you don't feel Tommy is spending all his time in play. Just in case you do, I want to tell you some other things our young friend was doing during his visit on the farm.

There are so many little jobs to do in the country, Tommy found himself quite busy on days between his well-planned pleasure jaunts.

Feeds Chickens

The chickens must be fed and watered daily, and Grandma was so pleased when Tommy pumped and carried the water to the troughs and shelled corn for the hens and the young chickens. They were getting so big and well-feathered now, they acted as if they owned the henyard. The young cockerels, especially, tried to crow as loud and long as the old roosters who flogged them properly when they flapped their wings and tried to take a favorite perch.

Grandma had one genuine warrior among the old birds and he made for Tommy every time he went into the chicken yard. Once, Tommy threw a bucket at him, and although he didn't intend to really hurt him, the rooster fell over and kicked as if he'd had his neck wrung! My, but Tommy was relieved when the old boy got up and shook himself and then walked timidly away!

"I guess you've learned a lesson," said Tommy; "anyway, it doesn't pay to be a bully!"

"That rooster has been a fighter all along," said Grandma.

Hoes Garden

Tommy also hoed in the garden of early mornings before Old Sol had climbed very high into the Heavens. Weeds grew so fast, he and Gramp had to give over a lot of spare time to keep ahead of them.

But roasting ears, and green beans with young potatoes were sure hard to beat, especially when Gran threw in a hunk of home-cured ham to season them.

LET'S GO BIRDING—

Unusual Visitor In Morgan Co.

By Emma Mae Leonhard

Perhaps some of you readers have driven in the Southwest or the Southern Great Plains, and have noticed a very light gray bird with an extremely long scissor-like tail sitting on the wires along the highway. You will recall that when you came upon one of these picturesque birds, you often found another one not far away.

This pearly-gray bird, conspicious and yet graceful, with its long and strikingly marked tail, is the Scissor-tailed Fly catcher. There is no bird like it in this region, and it doesn't seem to wander far from its range.

One such bird did wander far enough to visit Morgan County. As George Vasey was plowing in a field on his farm about 3½ miles west of Jacksonville, he noticed in the late afternoon of May 23 this graceful bird that kept flying before his tractor and feeding on the insects in the furrows.

Mr. Vasey plowed two rounds in the field and then went to the house to call out his wife to see this rare bird. It was still there to be studied and admired. A Kingbird was its companion. The two birds have some similar habits.

First Report

This is perhaps the first time that a Scissor-tailed Flycatcher has been reported in our area. We are very happy that someone interested in Birds was at the right spot and the right time to see it and to identify it. We also appreciate the Vaseys' making it known to us so that we can add it to our long list of birds for our county.

In the proper sunlight this beautiful pale, pearly-gray bird shows a soft pinkish tinge. Its sides and wing-linings are salmon-pink. However, its picturesqueness is chiefly due to its streaming long tail-feathers.

As the bird is perched, it folds the scissor-like tail: but when it is flying for fun, as it often seems to do, or is excited about something, it opens and shuts those two sections of the streaming tail-feathers most spectacularly.

Maybe You'll See It

In case that anyone should again be fortunate enough to see this rare bird in our area, we would appreciate being notified about it. At this time of year the bird should linger with us and make a history for itself. We wonder how long it might stay with us.

With many eyes looking and watching, we might find out. Call either 3-1750 or 5-8069 for the exciting news.

BIRTHDAY PARADE

Barbara Ellen Carriger

Leading the Birthday Parade today is Barbara Ellen Carriger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Carriger of Chapin. Barbara was 2 years old May 27.

Ray Barth

Ray (Slugger) Barth writes—

"I was 7 years old May 31. I am the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Barth Jr. of Meredosia. My grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. James W. Evans, 710 North Diamond, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Barth Sr. of Chapin.

"I was in the first grade this year. I go to Meredosia grade school and like it very much."

Barbara Jane Hester

John Edward Six

Another first-time marcher with a Birthday right today, June 5, and one candle on his cake, is John Edward Six, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Six of 635 E. State.

Mark Nevins

Mark Nevins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Nevins of Bluffs, will have 3 candles to blow out on his cake June 7. Mark's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Tom Stout and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Nevins all of Jacksonville.

Rodney Lynn Little

There are only a few days that Rodney Little must wait to celebrate his 4th Birthday June 9. Rodney is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Little of Patterson, and he has three brothers and one sister.

All the Junior Page readers and your editor wish every one of these boys and girls a VERY HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

YOUR BIRTHDAY

To march in the Birthday Parade just send your name, address, age and birthdate — with a snapshot if you have one — to the Jacksonville Junior Journal Courier two weeks before your birthday. Photos may be called for as soon as they have appeared in the paper.

If you have a party, write and tell us about that later.

Wonder World — Pioneer Chewing Gum

By Rip Barnsdall

Rock Elm

The rock elm is often called the cork elm. It resembles the American elm in appearance. It has hard, tough, wood and is a good commercial tree.

The amount of cork formed on the branches is somewhat variable, and is often difficult to find.

Slippery Elm

The Iroquois often used the bark for making canoes. Slippery elm canoes were much more crude than birch bark canoes.

How To Make A Balsa Kite

By Joseph A. Smith

Here is an excellent one evening project if you like to build things with wood. This is just the season for a Kite, and you can build it any time and have it ready for use the first favorable afternoon.

While most kites are made of paper and thin strips of wood in a "T" shape, this one is more durable and yet light in weight too, and should do a fine job of soaring around in the sky.

This more durable kite is made entirely of balsa wood. Purchase from your hobby man three full length strips of one sixteenth inch balsa wood and one one-eighth inch strip of balsa wood. (1/16 by 3 by 32 inches etc.)

First: place the three strips of one sixteenth inch balsa side by side flat down on a large piece of wax paper. Now carefully glue the three sections together. Be sure to allow for complete drying.

Second: while these sections are drying, cut out the three tie kite line to pylon pieces from the one-eighth inch wood and glue piece number 2 at a rigth angle down the center of piece number one. Allow to dry thoroughly.

Third: now take the three edge-to-edge pieces of one sixteenth balsa wood thoroughly dried and measure down from the top about

CORVAIR GIVES YOU BOTH!
The same Corvair that rolled up a whopping 27.03 miles per gallon* in the Mobilgas Economy Run turned around to scale snow-glazed Pikes Peak earlier in the season than any other car has ever dared to try. What better proof could you ask (official United States Automobile Club observers were aboard every mile of the way) of Corvair's rare combination of light-fingered steering, sure-footed traction and tight-fisted economy? Drop down to your dealer's and see for yourself what it took to make a gallon of gas look so big and 14,110 feet of mountain look so small!

Molecular Electronics

TV Worn Like Wristwatch, One Of Many Promises From New Genie

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A tiny, amazing new genie is coming alive in electronics.

It may bring you TV sets worn like a wristwatch, or even built into a pair of spectacles. It could fashion radios no bigger than a fingertip, or electronic "brains" the size of a shoebox.

First it promises vital jobs in guiding missiles and satellites, in exploring space, and in military communications.

One tiny sliver of material can do the work not only of vacuum tubes but other components such as rectifiers, resistors, and condensers.

This vastly slashes size and weight. There are no moving parts, nothing to wear out. Simplicity means more reliability, far less chance that something can go wrong electronically, for example, in a million-dollar satellite wheeling around the earth.

Each domain performs one job, and is separated from others by boundaries or interfaces within the material. Electronics can be made to follow orders.

Voltage or power is fed in, and controlled energy comes out. Only two wires or leads are soldered onto the chip of material, which may weigh as little as one one-hundredth of an ounce.

Westinghouse Electric Corp. here is a major pioneer in molecular electronics. For nearly a year its scientists have worked under a two-million-dollar Air Force grant to prove the feasibility of the new concept. Some other firms also are active in the new field.

Eight different types of molecular arrangements or tiny "blocks" have been developed, reports Dr. S. W. Herwald, vice president for research. Westinghouse scientists also have developed ingenious methods of growing the material and arranging the desired "families" of molecules.

This approach came from fundamental and applied research in solid state physics and semi-conductors, such as germanium and silicon, and other atoms which confer special characteristics.

Such research earlier led to transistors, which mainly replace vacuum tubes. In some molecular electronics devices, one domain can do the work of the transistor, and other domains do other tasks.

Yet the whole thing is unbelievably tiny, an eighth of an inch wide, a quarter-inch long, and only three times thicker than this newspaper page.

Crystals of germanium and silicon contain millions of electrons, wandering about in random fashion, Dr. Herwald explains. But scientists are learning how to make them do special work by adding precise amounts of molecules of gallium, boron, phosphorus, arsenic and other elements at certain spots, or even to certain depths.

These molecules are placed in the germanium-silicon block by various techniques, including etching, photographic imprinting, or formation of special alloys.

So far, the little devices have been largely hand-tooled, but new research promises to make production nearly automatic.

In one prime step, the crystals of germanium and silicon now can be drawn from a furnace in a continuous, mirror-shiny ribbon or strip an eighth of an inch wide, and a few thousandths of an inch thick.

The starting materials are kept molten in a small furnace. Then a small seed of the desired crystal is introduced, and rapidly pulled out, resulting in a ribbon drawn out as fast as 17 inches per minute.

Film On Heart Surgery Shown To Rotary Club

ROODHOUSE — Ralph Knepler, Jacksonville, who is associated with the Upjohn Co., presented a film on heart surgery Wednesday night before the local Rotary Club. Operating the projector was a high school student, Joe Hopkins. Program chairman for evening was W. L. Worcester.

Guests included Dr. F. Earl Walker, son, Freddie, and the Junior Rotarians, Roger Barnett and Lyndell Winters, who expressed their appreciation to the club for the month's hospitality. Instructing the boys in the ideals and purpose of Rotary was Ross Manning.

William L. Worcester, who was taken critically ill while attending the Rotary Club meeting Wednesday night, was taken by ambulance to Passavant Hospital, Jacksonville, where his condition was reported to be satisfactory.

News Notes

Frank Hopkins, accompanied by Pete Lockwood, Providence, R.I., a student at MacMurray College, Jacksonville, has returned home from a holiday visit with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Fender, Osage Beach, in the Ozarks. The young men were joined there by David Crowell of Springfield who flew down for the weekend.

Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Monroe have been Mr. and Mrs. Don Monroe, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Gene Cooper and her mother, Mrs. Barnett, Springfield; Mrs. Irene Foley, Lincoln; Ella Louise Monroe, a granddaughter from Jacksonville.

Mr. and Mrs. James Beeman have had a number of visitors in their home since Mr. Beeman has returned from the hospital, including the following relatives and friends: Mr. and Mrs. Jim Beeman, Oak Ridge, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Smith, Peoria, and Mrs. Florence Crain; Mrs. Walter Dependahl and mother, Mrs. Rena Allen, Wayne Dependahl and daughter, Serena, and friends, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Green and daughter, Alton; Mr. and Mrs. Murlie Dinsmore, Mrs. Bernard Raabe and sons, and father, John Heil, Hillview; John Admire and mother, Mrs. Emma Brown, Gillespie; and Harry Allen, wife and son, Rushville; Mrs. Lizzie Bishop, Carrollton.

Dr. T. B. Lugg Elected President Of Board Of Trustees At Mac Murray

Dr. Thomas B. Lugg of Evanston was elected President of the Board of Trustees at MacMurray College Friday afternoon at its semi-annual meeting. A board member for 15 years, he is General Secretary and Treasurer of the Council on World Service and Finance of the Methodist Church.

He succeeds retiring President Mrs. Kathryn T. MacMurray, who served the college in that capacity for 17 years. She was made Honorary President. Her late husband, Sen. James E. MacMurray, was the college's greatest benefactor, and it was after him that the college was named in 1930.

Trustees added a fifth honorary degree recipient Friday when they voted to confer an Honorary Doctor of Divinity degree on Rev. Harvey E. Dibrell, pastor of Centenary Methodist Church. He has been a close associate of MacMurray for a period of years and has been valuable in various advisory capacities.

He will join four others in receiving honorary degrees, including Dr. Norris (Doctor of Literature); Lillian E. Schlagenhauf of Quincy, (Doctor of Laws), Henry Pflager of St. Louis (Doctor of Laws), and Rev. Birger Dahl, a Methodist District Superintendent (Doctor of Divinity). They will be conferred as part of 109th commencement exercises Sunday afternoon, beginning at four o'clock.

New Trustees Installed

Three new trustees were installed at the afternoon meeting, held in Harker Hall with 20 trustees present along with college administrative officers. They are Paul M. Hammaker, President, Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago, William V. Kahler, President, Illinois Bell Telephone Co., Chicago, and Mrs. Letta Irwin Shonle of Indianapolis, Ind., prominent in civic, church and youth work and an alumna of MacMurray.

"The college is at a stage where it can afford an exchange of presidents," he declared. "It is at a point where its new program needs further promotion and interpretation to the public. The plans are firm, the momentum among students is evident, the interest in the public is assured, and there is no way that the college can go backward. It will inevitably move ahead and become even more clearly the national landmark which it deserves."

Dr. Norris expressed "profound appreciation" to board members for their confidence and support during his eight-year tenure. "It has been a time of radical change when a division of opinion was inevitable and where basic decisions needed to be made that were fraught with far flung implications," he said, referring primarily to the start of the men's college in 1957. These critical decisions have been made with a high degree of harmony, he added.

He said election of Dr. Michalson as 10th president "has been an important milestone during the year. Dr. Michalson is a man of intellectual alertness, broad experience in Christian education, proven leadership, and has a clear and perceptive concern for the problems confronting youth of college age."

"It has been a year of growth and stabilization in the new program for the two colleges," he remarked. "More full-time students have been on campus than ever before in the history of MacMurray and the underlying consciousness of this growth is evident in the attitude of students."

The MacMurray enrollment exceeded 800 this year, with 500 women and 300 men. A June 5 graduating class of 100 will include 15 men, although the first full class will not receive degrees until 1961.

Dr. Norris, who was a leader in starting the new college, brought with it coordinate education to the Midwest. This system provides for separate classes in freshman and sophomore years, together with separate campus organizations. In all other respects, including social life, the colleges are coeducational.

"When the coordinate plan was undertaken," Dr. Norris said, "it was undoubtedly the right answer to the development of the men's college. It has served to make the men feel at home since they were developing their own college, and it has helped to preserve in a significant way the personality of the women's college."

But he said the faculty is now studying the Ruml Plan and its applicability to MacMurray. This plan, first presented by the late Beardsley Ruml in his recent book "Memo to a College Trustee," puts a premium on the grouping of students in the most economical way. It stresses the value of presenting the ablest professors to the largest number of students.

"This greatly expands the ratio of students to professors, an objective which goes counter to the coordinate plan," Dr. Norris said. The latter offers separate sections for men and women on the ground that there are educational values for the sexes when instruction is offered to them separately during the first two years.

He reported that some aspects of the Ruml Plan could be tried next year on an experimental basis. He added that instruction needs to be given by the board as to how strictly the coordinate system needs to be retained. The board agreed to study the plan further.

The President also reported that: the average faculty salary has been significantly raised in the past year; the first two sabbaticals in MacMurray history were taken the past semester, with more in the future; enrollment, especially among returning upperclass students, continues to climb upward; the athletic department deserves special commendation for its work in the past three years in establishing intercollegiate athletics at MacMurray; and various campus remodelling has been accomplished.

A major need for the present, he pointed out, is for funds for the proposed new science hall. He suggested that the development program be extended in several ways due to changing conditions.

Trustees also moved to start a men's alumni association beginning in 1961 with the first full graduating class of men. It will operate alongside the women's association.

Those attending the meeting were: A. W. Applebee, Mrs. Sherwood Eddy, William L. Fay, Grace Fitch, Hugh Green, Chester A. Hemphill, Richard Yates Rowe from Jacksonville; Alfred C. Crawford, Dr. Lugg, Paul Hammaker, and William V. Kahler, all of Chicago area; Dr. Elizabeth Fackt, Denver, Colo.; Mrs. M. C. Gamble, Peoria; Mrs. Ruth Harker Hunt, Carrollton; Martha E. Logan, Paris, Ill.; Mrs. MacMurray, Arcadia, Calif.; Elgin S. Nickerson, Wilmington, Del.; Mrs. Isaac H. Orr, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. John Schirding, Petersburg; and Mrs. Robert W. Sudbrink, Beardstown.

Administrative officers of MacMurray who were present were: Dr. Norris, Dr. Wendell S. Dysinger, Dean of Faculty; Dr. Richard Nesmith, Dean of Men and Chairman of Sociology Department; John R. Rider, Assistant to President; Spencer Lane, Director of Admissions; Helen Brod, Dean of Women; Clarendon Smith, Business Manager; Lawrence T. Oxley, Educational Underwriter; and Tom Skiles, Director of Public Relations.

WHEN TO DOUBLE GAME CONTRACT

BY OSWALD JACOBY

When should the player on lead double a game contract that his opponents have reached under their own steam and without competition?

Opening lead—♦ 10

The simple case is when he has it set in his own hand. A more complicated case is when the following three conditions exist:

1. The opponents clearly have been pushing.
2. The hand is not going to break nicely for them.
3. He has an attractive opening lead.

West's double of the four heart contract met all these conditions. North had made the Stayman two club response and then merely gone to three hearts after he had found the heart fit. He could only hold eight or nine points.

East was marked with four trumps, so trumps would not break, and finally the ten of diamonds was an attractive opening lead.

The double succeeded beyond his expectations when South misplayed the hand and went down three tricks. He won the second diamond and led a spade toward dummy. West ducked and the king won. Spades were continued. West took his queen and South ruffed the ace.

Then South played the ace and queen of trumps and West let a club go. South could still have made eight tricks by drawing trumps and taking his ace of clubs but South played the ace of clubs first. East ruffed and led his last trump which lead also picked up South's last trump and left him with one good trump in dummy for his seventh and final trick.

Pony League Results

Steve Daniel struck out 15 batters in a route-going performance Friday night in pitching Farmers Bank to a 6-1 victory over Elliott Bank in Pony League action at remodeled Nichols Ball Park.

Elliott managed only two singles off Daniels, one a bunt by Herrin and the other a bloop single to right field.

The winners backed up Daniel's effective pitching with a home run by DeWeese and a double by Stanford. The winning chucker also contributed a triple to the six-hit attack.

Senator Offers Amendment To Baseball Bill

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich) Friday offered a compromise proposal that would limit the unrestricted baseball player draft envisioned by the professional sports bill.

Hart's proposal was discussed by the Senate Judiciary Committee, but a vote was postponed at least until next week.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn), author of the sports bill, said Hart's amendment was acceptable to him. Kefauver said it reasonably met objections of big league club owners. Also, he said he understood it is satisfactory to the Continental League, the third major loop being organized.

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-NY), who has differed with Kefauver on the sports issue in the past, said Hart's amendment would improve the bill "very much indeed." But Keating said he felt the proposal required further study, so he asked for and was granted a delay in a vote.

"I want to be sure nothing is done that would destroy the structure of baseball or hurt the fans," Keating said.

One of the key provisions in the Kefauver bill would make subject to an unrestricted draft all baseball players over a limit of 40 to each major league club.

Hart's amendment provides that this shall not apply to any player now under contract until he has completed four years in organized baseball.

But players signed up after passage of the legislation would be subject to draft if not on the 40-player roster of a major league team.

The major league club owners have protested that the unrestricted draft provided for in Kefauver's bill would amount to confiscation of their property, because of their investment in ball players.

Hart's amendment is designed to meet this objection and yet break up what Kefauver and others have called a monopoly of ball players by the major league teams.

The new move was made in a bid to clear the way for action on Kefauver's bill which would provide limited exemption from the antitrust laws for professional baseball, football, hockey and basketball.

CINCINNATI GETS WILSON

CHICAGO (AP)—George Wilson, Marshall High School's 6-8 basketball star, said Friday he will enroll at Cincinnati University.

Wilson led Marshall to Illinois state high school basketball championships in 1958 and 1960. He averaged 25 points and 15 rebounds a game during his prep career.

Never Too Late On Time Friday In Epsom Oaks

EPSOM, England (AP)—U.S.-owned Never Too Late came in on time Friday and won the coveted Epsom Oaks for 3-year-old fillies by a head over Palmpont in a breathless finish that saw French-trained horses finish 1-2-3.

Never Too Late, owned by Mrs. Howell E. Jackson of the Bull Run Stud, Middleburg, Va., was the 6-5 favorite, having won the 1,000 Guineas over the mile distance at Newmarket in April. Baron Guy de Rothschild's Imberline was third, 2 lengths back of Palmpont, also American-owned.

The Guineas was an easy victory but French jockey Roger Poincelet had to draw on all his riding skill in the mile and one-half Oaks, the filly counterpart of the English Derby.

Fight Results

NEW YORK (AP)—New York's Emil Griffith Friday night gained a split decision over Argentina Jorge Fernandez in a bruising 10-round television fight at St. Nicholas Arena. A storm of boos greeted the verdict.

Three chairs were thrown into the ring and many of the 1,261 fans stomped the floor and whistled in derision of the decision.

Referee Peter Della and Judge Jack each had Griffith the winner by 5-4-1 scores. Judge Joe Agnello had Fernandez ahead 6-4. The AP card had Fernandez in front 5-4-1.

The defeat snapped Fernandez' victory streak at five and made him even for two fights in the United States. His record is 68-41. Griffith's record now is 18-2.

Fernandez weighed 147½. Griffith 147¾.

NOTICE MERCHANTS
The Jacksonville Merchants will play ball Sunday at Riverton instead of Decatur as scheduled. Game time is 2:30 p.m.

Hovey Accepts Glenwood High Coaching Job

NEW BERLIN—William D. Hovey, coach of New Berlin High School, has been hired as principal of the Glenwood High School, south of Springfield. Mr. Hovey replaces Harry L. Page, who has been promoted to Superintendent of District No. 5.

Hovey served as principal of Loami Grade School during the 1951-52 school year and as head basketball coach of the New Berlin High School during the past eight years. He received his Bachelor of Science degree from Western Illinois University in June of 1951 and his Master of Science defree from the University of Illinois in August 1953.

Hovey and his wife and son will move to the Glenwood area from Jacksonville sometime in the near future.

Longden May Retire Sooner Than He Planned

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Johnny Longden, who packs 114 wiry pounds plus a good meal or two into a frame just a whisker under 5 feet, is thinking of moving up his retirement date. The 53-year-old Titan of the track says he's tired of fighting overweight.

"I think I've spent my life making weight," he told an interviewer. "I rode my first race in 1927 in Salt Lake City and won—and it seems that I've been reducing ever since.

"I weighed as much then as I do today."

Longden has won 5,413 races, more than any other jockey. Only last Saturday he won the $100,000-added Californian aboard Fleet Nasrullah. He's planning now to quit at the end of the Hollywood Park season July 25 unless:

"If Fleet Nasrullah goes to Chicago, or farther East, I'll go along with him."

The millionaire jockey said he loves to ride "as much as I ever did. But the ordeal of having to take off from three to five pounds every day is too much. I had to take off five pounds Wednesday. I've about had it."

USUAL ROAD WORK

NEWTON, Conn. (AP) — Floyd Patterson, already sharp and at 192 close to the weight he expects to carry for his title rematch with Heavyweight Champion Ingemar Johansson June 20, eliminated sparring from his training session Friday.

He did his usual seven miles on the road and later shadowboxed, punched the bag and went through other training chores.

PLAYER OF THE MONTH

CINCINNATI (AP)—Roberto Clemente of the Pittsburgh Pirates has been named National League "player of the month" for May, it was announced Friday.

Baseball writers and broadcasters make the selection.

Clemente drove in 25 runs in 27 games in May, made 39 hits and batted .336 in 116 at bats. His outfield play also was outstanding.

"I have trained very hard to move in with the jab. So long as you stick it in the face, it doesn't hurt your chances."

COMIN' ROUND THE MOUNTAIN—Closely bunched, pedal-pushers ride across the Appenines Chain, hard by Rimini, in the 43rd Tour of Italy Cycling Race. The gruelling Giro started in Rome and will end in Milan, June 9, after 23 laps. Got to be an athlete to win this.

Much Too Much Like Sixty

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Jack Dreyfus, Jr., owner of Beau Purple, says that The Jockey Club called a halt to his system of naming thoroughbreds.

Dreyfus also had running horses named Beau Red, Beau White and Beau Blue, all by Beau Gar, which he owns. Presumably he could have gone through the entire spectrum.

This reminds an old-timer of an owner who used "sixty" in the names of all his runners. He explained that he was born in '60 and wanted his horses to run like sixty. In addition to just plain Sixty, there were One Sixty, Five Sixty, Eight Sixty, Ten Sixty, Eleven Sixty, etc., which drove entry clerks, callers, bookmakers, reporters and editors crazy.

When at the request of The Jockey Club the owner abandoned this practice, his steeds sported names such as Too Much, Enough, Notenough, Much Too Much, etc., and those keeping track of the races continued to be slightly frantic.

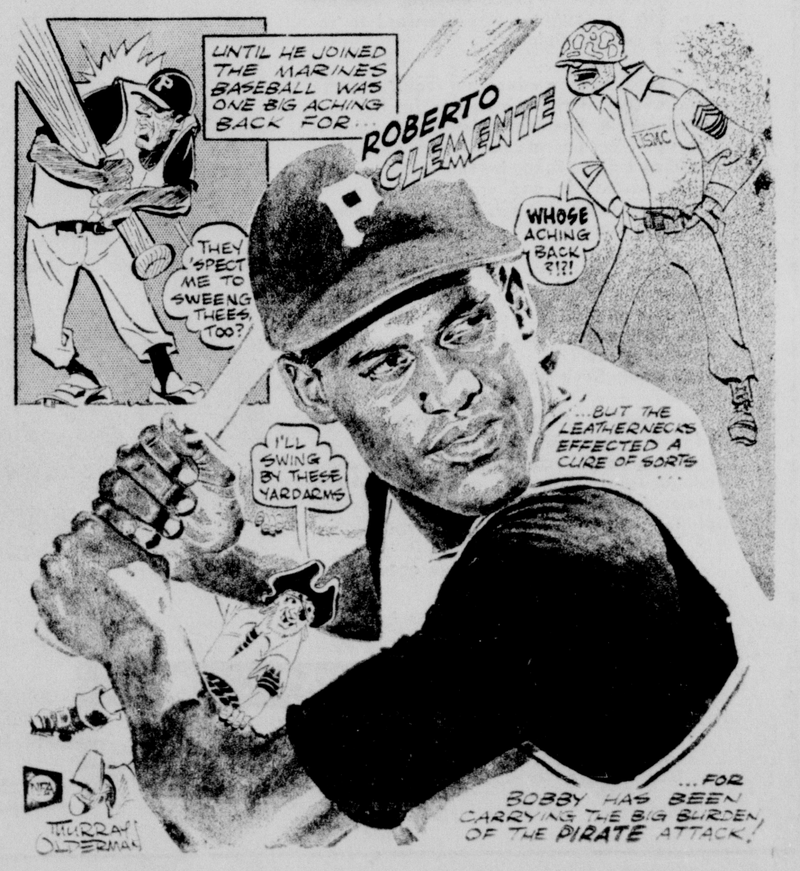
BACK BONE



Robert Rankin Elected District Chairman, BSA

PITTSFIELD — The annual meeting of officers for the Cherokee District Boy Scouts was held this week, and Robert Rankin was elected district chairman for the coming year. Paul Grote was elected vice chairman, and George Ed McGann was elected district commissioner. They are all from Pittsfield.

Mr. Rankin appointed the following chairmen: Wade Garrison of Nebo, advancement; Ray E. Peters, Pittsfield, camping and activities; Gunner Claussen, Pittsfield, finance; Dr. James Rutledge, Pittsfield, health and safety; Basil Williams, Barry, leadership training.

Members at large for the coming year are: chairman, Charles Gay, Hull; Walter Wade, Griggsville; Eldon Atwood, Pittsfield; A. G. Crump, Barry; Allen Boudrean, Griggsville; Robert Rankin, Paul Grote and George Ed McGann.

John V. Myers was introduced as the new Cherokee District Scout Executive, replacing H. Darcel Handley who has accepted a similar position in Green Bay, Wis.

Election Held

The Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion met on Thursday evening at the Legion Hall and had an election of officers: Norma Lee Allen, president; Doris Johnson, first vice president; Stella Roberts, second vice president; Lois Bartlett, secretary; Vita Sutton, chaplain; Hester Norton, treasurer; Helen Green, sergeant-at-arms; Stella Ervin, historian.

Kathleen Orrill and Norma Allen were elected as delegates to the State Convention to be held in Chicago on August 18-20. The group voted to give $10.00 to the Cancer Fund. The ladies will serve the canteen to the Bloodmobile donors next Thursday, June 9, at the Legion Hall.

Attend Conference

Rev. and Mrs. Ernest Duling plan to leave Tuesday morning for Bloomington where they will attend the sessions of the Illinois Conference to be held there Tuesday through Friday.

Pastoral assignments will be made by Bishop Charles Wesley Brashares on Friday evening. Rev. Duling will assist in the ordination of his son-in-law, the Rev. Deane R. Williams, as an Elder on Friday evening.

Vacation School

The Methodist Daily Vacation School classes will begin next Monday and continue through Friday, June 19. They will be held from 9:00 a.m. to 11 a.m. each morning.

Students who have passed their fourth birthday through those who were in the sixth grade this past year may attend. Mrs. Ruth Brierly is director of the school.

Discharged

Buddy Vandiver, who graduated from Pittsfield High school with the class of 1957 and joined the Marines immediately, has received his discharge from the Marines at Treasure Island in San Francisco, Calif. He is now at the home of his mother, Mrs. Lynn Lowe.

Of the three years he was in the Marines he spent 1½ years overseas. He was on the All Star Navy football team that won the Far East Navy Marine championship game. He played guard at Atsugi, Naval Air Station in Japan. He hopes to find work this summer and enter college in the fall.

Big 10 Charges Indiana With Grid Violations

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—The Big Ten has charged Indiana University with new football recruiting rule violations, its faculty representative said Friday.

John F. Mee, Big Ten representative on the I.U. faculty, said the university's own investigation has not confirmed the charges.

Mee said the charges will be heard by the Big Ten soon along with the recruiting violation charges under which I.U. was suspended in late April from postseason sports for four years.

Mee wouldn't say what the Big Ten's charges are nor even say exactly how many violations were charged. He did say the number was in the area of half a dozen to a dozen.

Mee said none of the I.U. coaches have been accused by the Big Ten of any wrong-doing. He wouldn't say whether alumni were accused.

I.U. and conference officials will arrange a hearing in the office of Commissioner Kenneth (Tug) Wilson in Chicago "within days" after I.U.'s commencement next Monday, Mee said.

In Chicago, Wilson said there was nothing new to the Indiana situation as far as the Big Ten was concerned.

"The entire case will be heard in Chicago within a short time," Wilson said. "After that, I will recommend what punitive action I think is appropriate. If Indiana objects, it can appeal to the conference faculty representatives."

INCREASED VALUES

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—The Garden State, world's richest horse race, and its distaff counterpart, the Gardenia, will have increased values for their 1961 runnings at Garden State Park.

Walter H. Donovan, general manager, said Friday that each of the races will have an added amount of $25,000, giving the Garden State $125,000 in added money, and raising the Gardenia to $75,000 with a guaranteed minimum gross of $100,000.

Elmhurst Dukes Beat Waukegan, 5-4, For 13th Win In 23 Starts

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Dave Smith, 140-pound sophomore center fielder, drove in the clinching run in the sixth inning Friday to give York's Cinderella team a 5-4 victory over Waukegan in the state high school baseball championship.

The Elmhurst Dukes, keeping the pennant in the Chicago area for the sixth straight year, had the worst won-lost record of any school to win the crown.

They ended the season with a 13-10 record and could do no better than seventh place in their West Suburban league with a 3-10 mark.

Waukegan's Bulldogs, who were fifth in the Suburban League and absorbed their eighth defeat in 22 starts, jumped off to a 4-0 lead by scoring twice in the first and third innings.

A triple by Craig Deinlein and another by Ron Dubs plus Jim Conselman's sacrifice fly accounted for Waukegan's first two tallies. They bunched their other two with the aid of a walk, passed ball and singles by Conselman and Rick Bay.

Smith drove in two runs in York's four-run rally in the fourth which tied the score. The big inning started after two were out when Grant Achepohl was safe on a fielder's choice, Paul Manola singled, Ray Madma walked and pitcher Ken Leppla singled across two runs.

Smith then singled across two more to cap the rally.

In the sixth Manola led off with a single and went to second when Madma was thrown out at first. After Leppla was struck out by relief pitcher John Bentivegna, Smith connected on a shot to center that brought home Manola with the decisive run.

York advanced to the finals with a 9-3 victory over Lane of Chicago by slamming out 11 hits including three each by Jim Long and Achepohl and two by Tom Newell.

Waukegan measured Litchfield 5-0 in the semifinals on the five-hit pitching of Bentivegna. The senior righthander fanned 6 and walked two.

Waukegan scored what proved to be the winning run against Litchfield in the first inning on Gil Jelinek's sacrifice fly and then added two more for insurance in the third on singles by Bentivegna, Deinlein and Dubs.

State Champs Land 3 Players On All-Star Team

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Pennant winning York of Elmhurst Friday landed three players on the state high baseball all-tournament team selected by sportswriters.

Snead Unable To Play In British Open Next Month

NEW YORK (AP)—Sam Snead says he will be unable to play in the British Open next month, but he makes one reservation.

"I'll tell you what," the professional from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., said Friday. "If I win the U.S. Open I'll cancel all my other engagements and play in the British."

Snead said he had asked his friend, Fred Corcoran, tournament director of the International Golf Assn., to file his entry—just in case. The deadline is June 6.

The British Open is scheduled July 4-8 at St. Andrews, Scotland, where Snead won the tournament in 1946. Snead never has won the U.S. Open, which will be played at the Cherry Hills Club in Denver, Colo., June 16-18.

"I would like to play in the British Open," Snead said, "but I have commitments which I made months ago."

KOUFAX FANS 'EM

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the last four years the National League strikeout record has been tied or broken six times and each time Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers has been one of the pitchers involved. In 1959, Koufax had games in which he fanned 18, 16 and 13. The one-game record of 25 was set last Aug. 31 when Koufax fanned 18 and Giant pitchers struck out seven.

SLUGGING SHORTSTOP

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—Bill Lucas, brother-in-law of Milwaukee's Hank Aaron and a future Brave shortstop, had a field day in a recent twin bill for the Boise Braves. The 5-foot-9 slugger pounded out 8 hits in 12 efforts and scored eight runs. In the second game he hit three home runs and drove in 10. Before joining the service he hit 304 as a rookie for Salinas in the Class C California League.

NICE DONATION

NEW YORK (AP)—The 500 powerful 1,500-watt field lights at Ebbets Field will be transferred to Downing Stadium on Randalls Island, the city's Department of Parks announced Friday.

The lights were donated to the city by the owners of the former Dodger ball park, which is being razed for a housing development.

Russ Kemmerer, Chicago White Sox pitcher, beat the Yankees three times in 1959 as a member of the Washington Senators.

HIGH JUMP—Test engineer Jim Wynn puts the new Hunter 19 through its paces by jumping the runabout off a wave. The hull, which carries a V-design all the way aft to the transom, has proved successful in handling heavy offshore seas.

With The Girl Scouts

Monday morning, June 6, the 1960 camping season at Camp Shagbark on Lake Jacksonville will open with 165 persons registered to attend the first week's sessions. There will be ten units — six Brownie and four Intermediate—with an average of 15 girls in each unit.

Mrs. Fran Chumley is camp director and she will be assisted by volunteer unit leaders, shoppers, drivers, etc.

The American Indian is the camp program theme this year so if you happen to be in the Lake Jacksonville environs during the next four weeks, don't be surprised to see Indian costumes, painted faces, headdresses or to hear war whoops or Indian dancing! It will be Girl Scouts having fun at camp!

The four Intermediate units will spend Monday and Tuesday in day camping but on Wednesday will come prepared to stay overnight and remain at the camp site until the end of the week's session at 3:30 p.m. Friday. The six Brownie units will have day camping only, arriving at camp at 9 a.m. each day and leaving at 3:30 p.m.

Volunteers for the first week include: Mrs. Allen Wegehoft, shopper; Mrs. Charles E. Moore, Mrs. Dean Gross, Mrs. Robert Sibert, Mrs. Louise Mills and Mrs. Robert Brubaker, drivers. All drivers are asked to report at Grace Methodist church, south side, Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock.

Unit leaders and assistants (some of them for one or two days only) will be: Unit 1, Mrs. Bud Walker, Mrs. Virginia Green, Mrs. Iver Yeager, Mrs. M. S. Withers, Mrs. Doris Hall, Mrs. Russell Walton; Unit 2, Mrs. James A. Campbell, Miss Betsy Applebee and Mrs. A. W. Applebee.

Unit 3—Mrs. E. A. Lindburg, Mrs. E. E. Vanfossen and Mrs. Eileen Schrader; Unit 4—Mrs. H. W. Hibbeler, Mrs. Hans Kant and Miss Jean Kant; Unit 5 — Mrs. Cordan Robinson and Mrs. Harriette Horn; Unit 6—Mrs. Jesse Pinkerton, Mrs. Edwin Hewitt and Pats; Patterson.

Unit 7—Mrs. Nick Gioscio and Mrs. Leroy Martin; Unit 8—Mrs. Betsy Nicholson and Mrs. Tommy Davis; Unit 9—Mrs. Nina Cline; Unit 10—Mrs. George Trutter and Mrs. Floyd Sorrill.

Anyone needing transportation to Lake Jacksonville, please assemble at Grace Methodist church, south side, between 8:15 and 8:30 a.m. Drivers will pick up passengers at 8:30. Arrangements for rides for the week will be made Monday and it may not be necessary for all drivers to report at the church after Monday.

Good camping to all of you!

Committee Meeting

Members of the Finance Committee of the Board of Directors met Tuesday afternoon, May 31, at 3 o'clock at the Scout office. The same committee will meet again at 3 p.m. at the Scout office on Wednesday, June 8.

Two more Intermediate troops at South Jacksonville school to be introduced this week are Troop No. 16 and Troop No. 41, both of them very active and both re-registered this month for another year in Scouting.

Mrs. Charles Nicholson, 160 East Pennsylvania, leader of Troop No. 16, has been actively associated with the troop since it began in 1957, when the girls were second graders. She was assistant leader for two years with Mrs. Walter Derringer who was troop leader. This year, Mrs. Nicholson was assisted by Mrs. Lyle Davis and Mrs. Warren Massey. There are 12 6th graders in the troop and they are all enthusiastic campers.

Thursday evening the entire troop, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nicholson, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Massey, camped overnight at Camp Shagbark at Lake Jacksonville. Parents of the girls attended Thursday evening for a potluck supper and Court of Awards, after which the girls presented a program. Every family in the troop was represented. Members of the troop illustrated each of the eleven program fields in Scouting and showed their progression to 2nd class rank, which all girls in the troop have achieved. Fourteen badges were awarded.

All members of the troop are going to Camp Shagbark the first week and will participate in overnight camping. Mrs. Nicholson and Mrs. Davis will also go to camp.

A special project of this troop has been basketry and the troop members have shown remarkable achievement in this field. On Monday, May 30, this troop put on an exhibit in basketry at the dedication of the Lakeside Community park.

Service projects have also been a specialty for Troop No. 16 with the girls making regular contributions of tray favors, etc., to Passavant Hospital, the Jacksonville State Hospital and the Christian Home. This troop sold 332 boxes of cookies and one girl sold over 100 boxes for a camperships.

Troop No. 41

Intermediate Troop No. 41 has also been organized since 1957, when the troop members were second graders and this troop, too, has re-registered this month for the coming year with 16 6th graders on the roll. New leader for the coming year is Mrs. Willard Fulkerson, 1638 Lakeview Terrace, with Mrs. H. B. Stansfield, 9 Ogden Road, and Mrs. Jack Andrews, 1610 South West street, as assistant leaders. Mrs. R. E. Patterson, 1619 Hardin, and Mrs. Vincent Penza, 407 West Greenwood, are members of the troop committee.

Mrs. William Smith, 224 West Greenwood, was troop leader for the last two years and Mrs. Stansfield was assistant leader. During this time, from November through April, this troop made favors for Passavant Hospital as their sustained service. They also supplied favors at other times for nursing homes, called on shut-ins and went carolling.

Troop No. 41 made bird feeders and presented them to South Jacksonville community last winter and among their many handcraft projects, a specially-remembered and useful one, was the making of leather drawstring purses for their mothers with smaller matching ones for the girls. These gifts were greatly appreciated and put to use at once by the recipients.

This troop is looking forward to a good time at Camp Shagbark and lots of activities in the coming school year, the last one in elementary school for the members.

Troop Activities

Intermediate Troop No. 33 of Jefferson School had a camp-out Thursday and Friday at Siloam Springs State Park in Pike county. Mrs. Frank Clay, troop leader, and Mrs. Jack Spanzenberg, assistant leader, accompanied the girls. Fourteen girls made the trip, sleeping in pup tents and cooking their meals over a camp fire. This trip was in preparation for camping at Camp Shagbark during the third week in June.

Many other troops are having camp-outs to fulfill camping requirements for their troop members so that they can attend Camp Shagbark.

Next week, June 7, 8, and 9, Brownie and Intermediate Day Camp will be held at Lions Park in White Hall for 56 girls registered from White Hall and Greenfield. Carrollton Brownie and Intermediate Day camp closed on Friday, June 3, after a three-day session at Robin Hood Country Club. There were 85 girls enrolled. Mrs. Bud Roth and Mrs. Jake Shelton were co-directors of the Carrollton camp and directing the White Hall camp will be Mrs. Glen Clark and Mrs. Earl Kirchner.

WIRING DAMAGED IN AUTO FIRE

An auto fire was the cause of an alarm which called firemen to 209 South Sandy street at 2:05 p.m. Friday. The auto was owned by Jim Grant, 1618 Elmwood. Wiring under the hood of the car was damaged by the fire.

Roy Matthews Dies Friday: Rites Sunday

Roy Matthews, 1136 Elm street, aged 71, died at 11:40 o'clock Friday morning at Passavant Hospital where he had been a patient for three days.

He was born May 6, 1889, in Sangamon County, the son of the late Schuyler and Mattie Schram Matthews. He married Ruth Smith in February of 1916. She survives.

Other survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Floradean Morrissey, Wyoming, Ill.; two sons, Dale of Springfield and Shirley, at home; a sister, Mrs. Myrtle Henderson, Palmyra; five grandchildren and three nieces.

Mr. Matthews was a former Palmyra resident. Funeral services will be held at the Stults Funeral Home, Palmyra, at 3:30 p.m. Sunday, Rev. William J. Boston will officiate, assisted by Rev. Henry Olson. Interment will be in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Only 10.2 per cent of the farm youth now enrolled in college are studying agriculture, according to a Bureau of the Census report.

THIS IS A DREAM WORTH SAVING FOR
Every parent dreams of this . .
A sunny June day . . . the green campus . . . the commencement address . . . and then the proud moment when his own son or daughter steps forward to receive a college diploma.
But a college education requires many things. One of them is money for the cost of education, like everything else keeps going up. Wise parents plan years ahead for building college funds for their children and many parents in and around Jacksonville create the funds through A Savings Account at Elliott State Bank.
First step is to analyze your family's budget and to project the amount of money you wish to save for your childrens' education. Then you can accurately determine the amount of monthly savings you will put into your Elliott Savings Account.
Elliott pays 3% yearly interest on all savings — the highest bank rate you'll get from any commercial bank. Interest is compounded semi-annually and will make a major contribution to a long-range savings plan.
Start your Elliott savings account today.

TINY MITES

Miniaturization is fast developing as a new "science." It embraces the production of ultra-small devices, such as transistors and diodes for communications equipment and space vehicles.

Business Mirror

Editor's Note—The Federal Reserve Board has cut its discount rate making it cheaper for banks to borrow money. In the following article, Sam Dawson, AP business news analyst, explains the move in layman's language.

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The borrowing public is waiting today to see if the nation's banks will drop the other shoe.

Two Federal Reserve system banks dropped the first shoe Thursday by lowering the discount rate—that is, by making it cheaper for the commercial banks to borrow money from the Federal Reserve system.

Now it's a question: Will the commercial banks in turn make it cheaper for the public to borrow from them?

And if they do, will there be enough pickup in such borrowing to give business in general a boost on the prosperity ladder?

By cutting the discount rate to 3½ per cent from 4 per cent the reserve banks in San Francisco and Philadelphia were bringing this rate more in line with other short-term borrowing charges, which have been mostly on the downside for many weeks.

The interest rates were dropping because the demand for loans from business firms and from home builders hadn't been as large as previously. And many felt that the psychology of a weakened stock market had led business to be less eager to borrow for expansion or to build up stocks.

The Federal Reserve system spokesmen say there is little inflationary psychology any more, and therefore no reason to keep a tight hand on the supply of money and credit.

Cutting the charges for commercial bank borrowing from the central banks is often done when the money managers feel that deflation is more likely than inflation, or when they feel that making borrowing cheaper will give a lagging economy a boost.

Raising the discount rate is often done when the money managers feel a business boom may get out of hand and lead both to higher prices and finally to a bust.

But for the public itself, raising or lowering of the discount rate means little except what it leads the banks themselves to do.

If they do cut their rates to their corporate and individual borrowers, the effect on the economy in general will still depend on the public reaction.

If business doesn't want to borrow more and build up greater stocks, or expand its activities, the effect on the general economy will be slight.

So the effect, if any, of cutting the discount rate seems likely to be only on business borrowing. And that depends on business psychology. Of late it's been on the cautious side — looking for no boom, nor for any recession in the next few months either.

LITTLE BIT NORTH

The composer of "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny," James A. Bland, was not a southerner-born. He was a native of Flushing, New York.

HARD PURSUED

BY NORMAN A. FOX

© 1960 by Norman A. Fox. Distributed by Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

THE STORY: Ry Buckner seeks Duke Jordan, his one-time friend, who caused Ry to spend five years unjustly in prison and who now is going to marry Ry's sweetheart Dorcas Lane. Also seeking Jordan is Spence Rigby, brother of Lark Rigby who was shot by Duke. Sheriff Virg McQueen and Dorcas also follow Duke's trail.

* * *

Riley Buckner had ridden hard through the foothills in the last daylight, and now the old Bellafonte mine road was leading him up Table Mountain, climbing, always climbing.

He had been driven by anger ever since Pru Lane had told him about the marriage plan. And those hours of being pinned down at the Brewster place by Sam Tull had only made his anger sharper.

A cool head was what he needed, not an angry heart. He must look calmly at this business of Duke and Dorcas planning marriage and see how the knowledge could help him find Duke.

Dorcas, who had arranged to have a preacher and witnesses at the Brewster place, must have known where she could locate Duke. Since neither Dorcas nor Duke had showed up, Dorcas had either been delayed in reaching Duke or had been unable to persuade him to risk coming down to the Brewster place. Or perhaps Hatchet blocked them.

He followed the trail through a rocky slot to where the gulch broadened and again he rode through timber. It was then he saw a fire ahead, flickering through the stand of pine and spruce. Duke wouldn't be showing a fire now that he had become the pursued, little though this area might be traveled.

Then he knew. Hatchet, of course! Hatchet up there ahead of him. He pulled his horse to a halt. He tied the horse and crept forward.

He could go just so far and no farther. The timber thinned, and before him lay an open, grassy pocket. A good 50 yards from where he stood, the fire burned. A dozen men clustered around that fire, some standing, some hunkered on their heels; and he could see picketed horses on the farther rim of the firelight. Spence Rigby was recognizable among the men, big and paunchy and wearing the slicker he'd worn last night; and Sam Tull must have just overtaken the outfit, for he was here, too.

Dropping to his hands and knees, he crept closer. A few rocks were scattered about, a few bushes grew beyond the edge of the timber. He moved slowly from cover to cover, thankful that the babbling of the creek covered any sound he made. Yet that same mindless murmuring kept him from catching Hatchet's talk. He got within 30 yards of the fire, but still he couldn't hear what was being said. He lay behind a wild-rose bush.

* * *

Rigby ate from a tin plate now. Tull had got a plate and was helping himself from a frying pan. Tull took his filled plate and walked away from the fire, walked straight toward where Buckner lay. He watched Tull coming and began to draw his knees up, ready to spring and run for it. Tull got to within a dozen paces of the bush and seated himself on a rock and began morosely eating.

Rigby, finishing with his food, walked to where a saddle lay and took a new rope from it. Fetching the rope, he came toward Tull and sat down on a rock close by.

Buckner tried not to breathe. Presently Tull put his plate down on the grass and spoke, his voice stubborn and defensive. "All right, Spence. Go ahead and get it off your chest."

Rigby said in a level tone, "I already spoke my piece, Sam. Back there at the Brewster place when I told you you were a fool to go at Buckner when we had a bigger fish to fry. I thought when I pulled off the rest of the crew, you'd see the light. Suppose you'd killed him, Sam, and then had to kill the Lane girl besides. How would you have squared yourself with the law?"

* * *

Rigby quit working the rope. "There might have been a way at that! The law might have thought it was Duke Jordan who planted lead in Ry Buckner. And that the girl accidentally got in the way."

Tull turned his gaze full upon Rigby. "It's time we understand each other. You're set on using that rope. Maybe the reasons McQueen gave last night put the finger on why. Now don't go getting hot at me! He's the one who said you were a little man trying to look big. Point is, I'm willing to string along. But if you've got a drive in you to hang Jordan, I've got a drive in me to put a bullet into Buckner. And I'm not pushing the point that you'd be smarter to let the law take care of Duke Jordan, because he really shouldn't matter to you anyway."

"What you're saying, then, is that if I've got a loco spot about Jordan, I should respect your hankering for Buckner's scalp?"

"Partners, Spence. That's the way it was supposed to be."

"The paper's drawn up, Sam. All it needs is signing and witnessing. I'm thinking it might look better if Lark Rigby's grave were a bit older before that paper is filed."

"I don't agree," Tull said dispassionately. "Nothing is going to look wrong. Lark died; you inherited; and you made me a partner. Your business has been saloons; mine has been cattle. A foremanship wasn't enough, so I held out for a partnership. That's why you drew up a paper, and as long as it's dated any time after last night, what's the difference?"
